

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at <http://books.google.com/>

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk **, and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Sizes are designated as follows: P. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Th. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., var., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

more reduced the ranks of handworkers, so that the comparatively few remaining ones were utterly unable to handle the amount of work still done by the aid of human hands instead of by labor-saving machinery.

In general, the methods of doing business turned into more sane and conservative than for many years. The upholds through the American Publishers' Association has been of direct benefit to the retail trade, which, in time, will no longer compensate the members of that association for any sacrifice they may have been called upon thus far to make in the interest of reform. Some of the benefits of the reform are already noticeable in the growing tendency of the retail trade to encourage the handling of books of intrinsic merit, rather than in the hustling of the lighter books of the hour. We admit that thus far this tendency is sporadic rather than epidemic; but it is a straw showing which way the wind is bound to blow under the continued rule of reform. The co-operation of the retail trade in maintaining and making effective the work of reform is as unanimous and as encouraging as it was at the start, and promises to continue unabated.

On the whole the united book trade may look into the future with greater hope than for many years past. Our country is at peace with the nations of the world; our position as a world power is no longer in question; our commerce is steadily spreading and our natural resources are practically unbounded. With all these factors in our favor our industries are bound to prosper; and in the development of the gentler arts, and in the growth of education, the book-trade is bound to have an ample share and a corresponding reward.

THE retirement of Mr. George S. Emory from the management of the American Publishers' Association, to take charge of the wholesale department of D. Appleton & Co., deprives the Association of the services of a most capable executive. Considering the newness of the situation, the many difficulties to be overcome, and the diverse interests to be considered and conciliated, Mr. Emory's position was a most difficult and trying one; but he seemed equal to every emergency, and with untiring zeal and devotion performed his duties promptly and acceptably. Indeed, the reform movement owes much of its success to his enterprise and watchfulness and he carries with him to his

The publishing trade was also often in sore straits to keep up with the demands made upon it by the retail section. Notwithstanding the vast strides made in the last two decades in improving the mechanical aids in the art of making books, the publishing trade during the rush was hampered because during the last six months every printing house and book bindery, in the West as well as in the East, was overwhelmed with work. Then, too, the universal introduction of machinery has more and heartly congratulations and good wishes of the whole trade. Mr. Emory, we understand, will for the present give such attention as may be needed to the management of the office of the American Publishers' Association, and advise with his successor, who, at the present writing, has not yet been named, until he is thoroughly conversant with the details of his duties and responsibilities.

THE ADVERTISING OF BOOKS.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: A book came into my office the other day which, at first sight of it, made me straighten up, and made my eyes sparkle with pleasant expectation. The title of the book is "Successful Advertising, How to Accomplish It." The handsome author, whose features beam assertively from the frontispiece, is J. Angus MacDonald. Sundry sheets of printed matter, slipped under the front cover, introduced the book and the author after this fashion:

"Advertising is so seriously studied by every progressive person to-day that we know you will take more than passing interest in this beautiful four hundred page volume," etc.

"Who is better qualified to write a book on the important subject of advertising than J. ANGUS MACDONALD? He has directed millions of dollars into advertising channels for some of the best known and most successful advertisers of the day," etc.

Undeniably, the title of Mr. MacDonald's book presents one of the greatest problems of the business world to-day, one that is, and must be, seriously studied in all its aspects.

"Here at last," I thought, "is something which will be a real help to the perplexed and careworn advertising man who wants to solve the puzzle of how to get at the elusive public in convincing, profitable, ever new ways. Perhaps this author, who writes from 'over ten years' busy experience in advertising with some of America's greatest business successes' has let some new light in upon the mysteries of successful advertising, and has revealed some of the philosophical and psychological secrets of the art-science.

Probably nothing is more difficult to advertise successfully or requires more skill, and knowledge of public taste, than books. Inasmuch as my own work is advertising books, I looked at once for the section of Mr. MacDonald's work devoted to that branch of the subject. The author evidently appreciated its great importance because he has devoted two whole pages of the four hundred to "Advertising Books."

Although I was prepared to find something new and suggestive, something to stimulate thought, and encourage endeavor, I was hardly prepared for such startling propositions as these two pages contain. The following extracts give the sum, and practically the substance, of J. Angus MacDonald's views on "Successful Advertising (of Books), How to Accomplish It."

"Once upon a time the advertising man of a moderate-sized retail store thus gave the three essentials that the man who would advertise books should possess:

"1. A knowledge of books . . .

"2. A general understanding of the rudiments of proper advertising . . .

"3. An original way of expressing himself."

The first item is amplified with six lines of explanation, the second with five lines, and the third is reinforced by the author's own statement that "Clever and apt references to books do more to sell them than anything else."

After this introduction, Mr. MacDonald presents the following remarkable "Exposition of Twentieth Century Publicity" as it concerns the authors and publishers of books:

"The author can assist the publisher in the sale of the book by preparing a lot of ads and reading notices—assuming that the publisher is going to advertise the book and that either he or the book possesses enough influence to secure reading notices.

"The publisher can advertise the book by inserting a reasonable amount of display advertising in suitable mediums. If the book is a popular book, have this advertising placed in popular mediums—if the book is educational, have the advertising placed in educational mediums—if the book is technical, have the advertising placed in technical publications, and so on. The point is to plant the advertising where it will do the most good. The number of reading notices depend to a great degree upon the amount of advertising put forth. Of course, we all know that a good book will command attention from the press, although it received no display advertising.

"The advertising of almost every book nowadays is considered by the publisher."

Mr. MacDonald does not offer any proof or argument in support of his theories, but possibly some progressive publisher may be found bold enough to put the ideas to the test. Then the rest of the publishing fraternity will watch with breathless interest to see whether such procedure will bring success. If it does, perhaps Mr. MacDonald may think still deeper, and from the profundities of his subject may bring forth equally precious ideas. Just now, however, we must be content with the plan quoted above. The scores of publishers and book advertising men who are asked to buy this four-hundred-page volume as a right-hand, practical help in their work surely must feel that they have their two dollars' worth after reading this ample discussion of a vast subject. Men in other lines of business will find their specialties treated in a similarly exhaustive and suggestive manner. It is doubtful if they could get any greater or more genuine assistance in the direction of successful advertising and how to accomplish it even from an illuminated booklet of A, B, C's.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

THE BROTHERHOOD OF COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS.

THE eighteenth annual dinner of the B. C. T. was given on the evening of December 29, at the Kensington Hotel, Fifth Avenue and Fifteenth Street, New York. Though the weather was wretched forty-five enthusiasts put in an appearance in the gayly decorated dining room in the rear of the café. The Committee of Arrangements, composed of W. J. Kelly, C. E. Graham and Charles Walton, under the chairmanship of A. D. MacMullen, made ample provision for the comfort and entainment of their guests, in which they were ably assisted by the Reception Committee, made up of John Bacon, John Epping and Herman Schultz, under the chairmanship of Arthur T. Leon.

After the excellent dinner of eight courses had been disposed of, announcement was made that Mumm & Co., for the eighteenth year, had sent, with their compliments, a consignment of their champagne to the Brotherhood, and that the E. H. Gato Company had again made a generous donation of cigars. The announcement was heartily applauded.

F. T. J. Nunan, chairman of the Souvenir Committee, next claimed the attention of the Brotherhood, and in a felicitous speech presented to the outgoing president, Clarence A. Caldwell, the badge of his office, an ivory gavel, suspended from a green and red watered silk ribbon, the colors being those of the "Queen's Own" of Canada, of which Mr. Caldwell, a Canadian by birth, was an officer. Mr. Caldwell responded briefly and was lustily hailed as a "jolly good fellow," which, as every one knows, he is.

Among the speakers were James L. Ford, author of "The Literary Shop," etc., and a well-known journalist; Henry A. Collins and George McLeod, representing the Canadian trade, and John H. Black. A. Growoll reviewed the history of the Brotherhood from its beginning in December, 1885, until the present time, which was suitably complemented by remarks by W. J. Kelly, the senior president of the Brotherhood present on this occasion. The speaking was interspersed with music, and song and story by Messrs. Graham and Lester.

As the dinner had been begun by observing the time-honored custom of singing "Auld Lang Syne" so it was closed by singing "Vive la Compagnie," led by Brother W. J. Kelly.

The officers of the Brotherhood for the ensuing year are John Bacon of McLoughlin Brothers, president; Charles Walton of Charles Scribner's Sons, vice-president; John Hovendon, secretary, and John H. Black, treasurer.

CHICAGO STATIONERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE annual meeting, of the Chicago Stationers' Association will be held January 8 in the parlors of the Grand Pacific Hotel. The Executive Committee will appoint the Arbitration Membership, and Entertainment Committees at this meeting. As the time of holding the meeting has been changed to take place quarterly instead of monthly, it will be from three to six months after the application is received before any one applying will become a member; it is therefore proposed to amend the by-law applying to membership. The dinner of the association will be given on January 14. The management expects to lay covers for over a hundred members and guests.

OBITUARY NOTES.

SILAS FARMER, a publisher of maps and author of a "History of Detroit and Michigan," and "Champions of Christianity," died suddenly at Detroit December 28. He was born at Detroit, June 6, 1839, and succeeded his father as a map maker.

PROFESSOR RICHARD FREIHERR VON KRAFFT-EBING, of the University of Vienna, the celebrated nerve specialist, died December 30 at Graz-Styria. He was born at Mannheim, August 14, 1840. He wrote a number of books on hypnotism, sexual perversion and nervous disorders, the best known of which is his "Psychopathia Sexualis."

MRS. JESSIE BENTON FRÉMONT, the widow of General John C. Frémont, died at Los Angeles, Cal., December 27. Mrs. Frémont was born in 1824, and was the daughter of Senator Thomas H. Benton of Missouri. She was the author of "The Story of the Guard," "A Year of American Travel," "Far West Sketches," "Souvenirs of My Time," "Sketch of Senator Benton," and "Will and the Way Stories." She also completed her husband's memoirs.

THE REV. DR. JAMES MADISON STIFLER, professor of New Testament Exegesis at Crozer Theological Seminary, died in Boston December 15. Dr. Stifler was born in Hollidaysburg, Pa., December 8, 1839. After filling several pulpits he was professor of Biblical Interpretation in Shurtleff College, 1871-75, and in 1882 became professor of New Testament Exegesis at Crozer Seminary. In 1890 he published "The Life of Christ," in 1892 "An Introduction to the Book of Acts," and in 1897 a "Commentary on the Epistle to the Romans."

MISS CARLA WENCKEBACH, Professor of German in Wellesley College, died December 29. Professor Wenckebach was born at Hildesheim, Germany, February 14, 1853. For several years she taught in England, Belgium, Russia, and New York, and in 1883 accepted a position at Wellesley. She was the author of several educational books on the German language, some of them conjointly with her sister, Helen W. Wenckebach, who died some years ago. Together they also edited a number of German literary works, including a collection of the best German songs. Among her works were editions of Meissner's "Aus Meiner Welt," "Die Meisterwerke des Mittelalters," Scheffel's "Trompeter von Säckingen," Schiller's "Marie Stuart," and Dahn's "Ein Kampf um Rom."

LEWIS NUSBAUM founder of the Nusbaum Book and Art Co., died in Norfolk, Va., December 27. Mr. Nusbaum was born in Heffdorf, Germany, in 1830. He came to this country in 1847, remaining in New York City till 1850, when he went to Norfolk, Va., where he built up a large stationery, news, and book business. Ill health obliged him, a year ago, to retire from active business, which is continued by his sons. Mr. Nusbaum was prominent in religious work and at the time of his death was vice-president of the Beth-El Synagogue of Norfolk, and was a member of the Independent Order of B'nai B'rith. He leaves five children, four sons and one daughter—Benjamin Nusbaum, of Hutchinson, Kansas; Max Nusbaum, of Baltimore; Sydney L. Nusbaum, Moses G. Nusbaum and Miss Belle Nusbaum, of Norfolk.

ROBERT F. CUMMINGS, who for thirty-five years was business manager and agent of the American Tract Society, at its New England branch store, now at 54 Bromfield Street, died suddenly at his home in Newton, December 19. Mr. Cummings was born in Boston, July 4, 1840. His father, the late Robert Cummings, was a provision dealer at the North End, when many of the first families lived in that part of the city. His uncle built the iron fence around Boston Common. He was educated in the public schools of Boston, and began his business career in the store of D. Lothrop & Co. After a few years he entered the employment of the Boston Tract Society. He was transferred to the American Tract Society in 1871, in whose service he remained up to the day and hour of his death. After some years' experience in the society's business in Cincinnati and in New York City, he returned to Boston to take charge of the society's store and business there.

MRS. MARY HARTWELL CATHERWOOD, author of "Lazarre," etc., died at her home, 4852 Washington Avenue, Chicago, December 26. Mrs. Catherwood was born at Lauray, Licking County, Ohio, December 16, 1847. Her parents died when she was ten years old, and she was placed in the Granville (O.) Female College, from which she was graduated in 1868. She removed to Danville, Ill., where she obtained a position as a school teacher. While in Danville she became interested in French history out of the study of which grew many of her novels. In 1887 she was married to James Steel Catherwood, who, with a daughter, survives her. She wrote the following: "Craque-o'-Doom," "Old Caravan Days," "The Secret of Roseladies," "The Romance of Dollard," "The Bells of Ste. Anne," "The Story of Tonty," "The Lady of Fort St. John," "Old Kaskaskia," "The White Islander," "The Chase of St. Castin, and Other Tales," "The Spirit of an Illinois Town and the Little Renault," "The Days of Jeanne d'Arc," "Bony and Ban," "Mackinac and Lake Stories," "Spanish Peggy," and "Lazarre."

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

J. WHITAKER & SONS, London, have issued for the thirty-fifth year "Whitaker's Almanac," compiled by Joseph Whitaker, an indispensable work of reference not only to Englishmen but to every one who wishes to keep posted up on the events of the times. The work, besides giving information on astronomical and other phenomena, gives authentic information respecting the government, finances, population, commerce and general statistics of the British empire throughout the world, and some notice of other countries. The same firm has also just ready "Whitaker's Peerage for the Year 1903," which gives in compact form information relating to titled persons in England, that for ready reference will answer the purpose quite as well as the more bulky volumes of Burke, Debrett and Nicolas.

THE AMERICAN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION has issued, through Houghton, Mifflin & Co., a useful "Guide to the Study and Use of Reference Books," by Alice Bertha Kroeger, librarian of the Drexel Institute of Philadelphia. This manual is especially intended for the use of librarians and library students, but will be of service in schools and literature courses. It covers the general field of reference literature with fair comprehensiveness, the titles listed being accompanied by descriptive notes, and each main division prefaced by a bibliographic and descriptive introduction, noting articles upon the subject and giving valuable hints on the use of the books. A "Suggestive List of 100 Reference Books" is a useful appendix, and there is a careful and very full index. In style and arrangement the volume follows the example of the previous "A. L. A. Annotated Lists," such as the "Bibliography of Fine Art" and the "Guide to the Literature of American History." (8+104 p. 8°, cl., net, $1.25.)

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE J. K. GILL COMPANY, Portland, Ore., have published a volume of poems entitled "The Sorrows of Cupid," by Dr. Ella K. Dearborn, with illustrations by Eva Ford Cline.

THE "Cornhill Booklet" for the Winter of 1902, published by Alfred Bartlett, is composed of a paper on "Printers' Marks," by Mr. George Burwell Utley, with twenty-four examples.

BRENTANO's have just brought out an attractive edition of Théophile Gautier's "Journeys in Italy," translated by Daniel B. Vermilye, with twenty-seven full-page photographic illustrations.

THE most successful book of the year in England according to a prominent London authority, has been Merriman's story "The Vultures." Next in popularity came A. E. W. Mason's story "The Four Feathers."

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. will shortly publish a book of "Family Prayers" prepared by the Rev. Dr. Samuel Hart, head of the Berkeley Divinity School at Middletown, Conn., and Secretary of the Episcopal House of Bishops.

PROFESSOR THOROLD ROGERS'S "History of Agriculture and Prices in England from 1259 till 1793," the seventh and final volume of which, edited by his son, has just been brought out, has taken thirty-six years to complete. Two volumes came out in 1866, two in 1882, and two more in 1887.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. have just ready a special presentation edition of "The Pit, a story of Chicago," by the late Frank Norris, which forms the second volume of "The Epic of the Wheat" series. The volume has as a frontispiece portrait of the author. The trade edition will be ready for delivery January 15.

CAMERON, BLAKE & Co., 70 Fifth Avenue, New York, have just issued a volume of "Poems," grave and gay, by George Cabot Lodge, son of Senator Lodge of Massachusetts. They announce a new and enlarged edition of "The Choate Story Book"; also, "The Monroe Doctrine, a political and diplomatic treatise," a timely booklet on an international question; "The Rules of Whist in Rhyme," and a phototint of the "Richard Carvel" house at Annapolis.

GEORGE S. EMORY who since its organization has been the manager of the American Publishers' Association has resigned that position to take charge of the wholesale department of D. Appleton & Co. Mr. Emory was brought up in Harper & Brothers' establishment beginning in the printing office and working his way up through the educational department to the cashier's office, until he reached the sales department from which he resigned to take the position he so acceptably filled for the American Publishers' Association.

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY have just ready the third volume of their "Jewish Encyclopedia" covering the subject from Beucemero to Chazamuth. We can add no further word of commendation to those already given. The work not only breaks new ground but does it completely and in the most satisfactory manner. In producing this third volume the editor, Dr. Isidor Singer, has had the assistance of 165 collaborators who contributed 1,236 articles. The volume will no doubt remain one of the most important of the entire set on account of the excellent series of general articles on the Bible, covering fully 60 pages.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplaced, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

NOW READY
MONT PELEÉ
and the Tragedy of Martinique

---

By PROFESSOR ANGELO HEILPRIN, F.R.C.S.

President of the Geographical Society of Philadelphia

THIS work presents the first complete account of the catastrophic events of the unfortunate island. Professor Heilprin's early visit to Martinique permitted him to study the scene of the major disaster very soon after its happening, while his experiences on the still burning volcano, whose crater he was the first to visit after the tragic eighth of May, and during the great eruption of August 30, of which he was a direct observer, make the narrative of thrilling interest. The author's qualifications as an investigator—geologist and geographer—give to the work its stamp of scientific authority. It will remain the standard work on the subject for many years. The experiences related have fallen to no scientific observer since the days of Pliny.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THE HOME PUBLISHING COMPANY, New York, will publish on the 20th inst. Archibald Claverling Gunter's new novel, "The Spy Company: a tale of the Mexican War." This was first announced last month under the title of "The Trail to Paradise." It will be illustrated by Archie Gunn.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY will publish during the last week in February a new story by Agnes and Egerton Castle, entitled "The Star Dreamer." It is a story of English life at the period when George III. lay dying, and when Bath was in its heyday. Its vein is that of the author's "The Light of Scarthey" and "Young April," rather than of "The Secret Orchard."

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. will publish next month a novel of life in a small English village, in Staffordshire, entitled "Anna of the Five Towns," by Arnold Bennett; also, "The Chameleon," by James Weber Linn, who uses as his theme that trait in human nature which leads some men and women to seek always the lime light, to endeavor always to be the protagonist, even at the expense of truth.

THE FEDERAL BOOK COMPANY, New York, announce a new book by Cutcliffe Hyne, entitled "Captain Kettle. K.C.B., being Further Adventures of Captain Kettle." They have just ready a second edition of "The New Christians," by Percy White. Miss Mary C. Francis's story of Andrew Jackson, entitled "A Son of Destiny," is receiving favorable newspaper notice, and promises to have a large sale.

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY have just published a useful work of reference, entitled "Scientific Side-Lights," compiled by James C. Fernald. The volume contains thousands of illustrations of scientific topics from standard works of the masters of science throughout the world which will be of inestimable value to the speaker or writer who desires swift outlooks across the vast field of science, and who wishes from time to time to use its riches as the current coin of illustration, without devoting long hours to exhaustive scientific study. Funk & Wagnalls Company have also just ready, in an artistic cover of Hebrew ornamentation, a drama in verse which retells the old story of Saul and David and Jonathan, with the character of Jonathan lifted from the subordinate position he holds in the Scripture narrative to the central place of tragedy. The author is Thomas Ewing, Jr., the third of a name borne by two Ohio statesmen of national reputation.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just ready a history of the Christian church, especially for use by young people, by Professor James A. B. Scherer, entitled "Four Princes, or, the Growth of a Kingdom." They will publish within a few weeks the first volume of an important work in the field of modern history, entitled "A History of the British Empire in the Nineteenth Century," by the Hon. Maran R. P. Dorman, M.P., author of a study of political thought in the nineteenth century, entitled "The Mind of the Nation." The first volume deals with the period from the outbreak of the war with France to the death of Pitt, (1793-1806,) and is based upon original documents. The whole work will probably be complete in five, possibly six, volumes. They will publish at the same time a story of New York club and society life of to-day, entitled "Spinners of Life," by Vance Thompson, widely known for his editorial work. They will publish early in February George Moore's new book, "The Untilled Field." This is the first work that Mr. Moore has done since the publication of "Sister Teresa," which the Lippincotts published a year and a half ago, and it is said to show the influence of his special study of Celtic life, habits and language.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JANUARY 10, 1903.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, should reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE MACY DECISION.

THE opinion of Justice Leventritt in what is commonly known as the Macy case, being technically Straus v. American Publishers' Association, American Booksellers' Association, et al., handed down on January 6, denies the motion for preliminary injunction, and may end the case, or may relegate it for trial on its merits, according to the disposition of the plaintiffs in the matter. Theoretically, the application for an injunction in an equity suit is simply a preliminary skirmish, pending the trial of the main issue before the court; but practically equity cases are often decided in connection with these preliminary proceedings. The opinion of Justice Leventritt is remarkable in that it indicates that his own decision would be in favor of granting the injunction, but that he feels compelled to respect the decision of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in the controlling case of Park v. The National Druggists' Association, with which he considers the present case to be closely parallel. The opinion of the Supreme Court of Georgia represents one side of an important question in business and in law, on which the New York opinion represents the other side. Together, they suggest that the law on this very important issue is not yet fully settled by a final authority; but it should be said that the courts of New York State, in their finality, represent a weight of judicial opinion only second to that of the United States Supreme Court. For the present, therefore, the druggists' decision is, as Justice Leventritt points out, the controlling law here, and also it presents an important precedent for the courts of other States, which would be disposed to follow it rather than the decision of the Georgia court.

There are two important questions involved in the present case, one of which is common to all such cases, and one specific within the trades whose products are protected under the copyright, patent, and trade-mark laws. The general assertion that a man may do what he will with his own, and has an inherent right to sell his property to whom and as he pleases, which is the basis of laws and decisions against "boycotts," is modified in the case of copyright books and patented articles by the essential right of the original owner to sell his property to whom and as he pleases, and, under the protection of the copyright and like laws, to control prices as well as to make other sale regulations. This is an important distinction, which the courts are reasonably sure to uphold, and it is noteworthy that in the very able brief submitted by counsel for the American Publishers' Association the point is much insisted upon that the rules of the Association refer to copyright books, and that non-copyright books are not covered by its regulations.

When precedent and legal decision have clearly settled a given principle, the important point of a legal controversy is always to show that the case in court differs from or is "on all fours" with cases previously settled. Often the decision in such cases rests upon purely incidental questions of method; for instance, the publisher may rightly take steps to control the price of his copyright books and may impose conditions on their sale which will be binding on him who purchases to sell again—the jobber and retail dealer—but it is more than doubtful if the courts would uphold anything beyond this, that is, anything approaching intimidation; and it is here that the circulars of the American Booksellers' Association have sometimes come so dangerously close to the boundary line as to lend to the present case a danger which might have been avoided. The opinion of Mr. Justice

Leventritt should be a caution that, in carrying out the reform movement, every semblance of intimidation should be avoided, and the argument should be based essentially, as it is quite possible to do effectively, on the loss that must come to dealers from the rightful refusal of publishers to supply copyright books to or for those dealers who will not accept the limitations rightfully put upon their sale.

It was evident from the plaintiffs' own brief in the present case that the Macy firm was not treated differently from others in the book trade, and it is further true that the firm can at any moment purchase copyright books on compliance with the reasonable regulations laid down for their sale. There is, therefore, no boycott question really involved in this case. We trust the American Publishers' Association will never be misled to go beyond the limits of law and equity in enforcing its proper regulations, and the history of the present reform movement so far seems to indicate that there should be no question of its success upon undeniable principles of law and equity.

R. H. MACY & CO. DEFEATED.

JUSTICE LEVENTRITT, of the Supreme Court, Part 1, on January 6 handed down the following decision in the case of Straus [R. H. Macy & Co.] vs. the American Publishers' Association:

"My own views of the legality of the defendant's acts as they find support in the very persuasive opinion of the Supreme Court of Georgia in Brown vs. Jacobs Pharmacy Co., (41 S. E. Rep., 553-564,) must yield to the controlling law of this department as expressed in J. D. Park & Sons Co. vs. The National Wholesale Druggist Association, (54 App. Div. 223.) There is no substantial distinction in principle between that case and this, and the motion must therefore be denied."

ECHOES OF GROSS'S SUIT AGAINST ROSTAND.

HONOR is expensive, but S. E. Gross was willing to spend money to prove that he, and not Edmond Rostand, wrote "Cyrano de Bergerac." He says he devoted $40,000 to that purpose, and was successful, but now he has been sued by the Mooney & Boland Detective Agency, of Chicago, who ask $5000 as additional compensation for securing evidence of the plagiarism.

Mr. Gross asserts that he has already paid the detective agency $10,000. He says he never has received a full accounting. W. J. Sutherland, manager of the agency, with half a dozen detectives, spent eight months in France and England gathering evidence, without which, Mr. Sutherland claims, Mr. Gross's suit could not have succeeded.

THE STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE ANNUAL MEETING.

THE annual meeting of the Stationers' Board of Trade was held January 6, at the rooms of the Board, 92 Nassau Street, New York, President Henry C. Bainbridge in the chair. The following were represented in person or by proxy: Aikin, Lambert & Co., Allyn & Bacon, American News Company, American Playing Card Co., Charles T. Bainbridge's Sons, The Baker & Taylor Co., Brentano's, A. L. Burt & Co., The Cooke & Cobb Co., Z. & W. M. Crane, Crosscup & Sterling, Theo. L. De Vinne & Co., Louis De Jonge & Co., G. W. After the usual routine business, the president, Mr. Bainbridge, addressed the meeting as follows:

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

Members of The Stationers' Board of Trade, I can well remember, when a boy, hearing my father say that he had just returned from a meeting of the trade, at which they had organized a Stationers' Board of Trade, and hearing him comment upon the plans which they expected to accomplish through it, and what a benefit it would be to the stationery trade. Little did I think then that I would preside at the twenty-eighth annual meeting and receive the honors which have been so freely bestowed upon me.

Have we accomplished all that the founders of this Board expected? and have we, their successors, made it all we might have done? are questions I and many others think we can answer in the affirmative. I think we have met some propositions which our predecessors never calculated on, and which might have done much toward arranging their original plans. Great changes have taken place in the past twenty years. Our trade has grown to enormous proportions compared with then; ways and means of doing business are changed as much as anything else, and the Board of Trade of 1872 would be inadequate for the needs and demands of to-day. As a matter of course, the expenses of doing the work have increased, and your dues have been increased correspondingly, but no more. From the treasurer's report you will see that you have been assessed only enough to pay the running expenses of the office, which are kept at a minimum, and that the balance carried over is only enough for safety.

The trustees are proud that the Reserve Fund is intact, and that the Board has no obligations to meet; but it is my opinion that, as our business increases and competition becomes more keen, the demands upon our resources will increase, the actual cost of running the Board will increase, and the assessment for dues must increase likewise. Your officers have had to keep up with the times. The best service rendered by the best commercial agencies was none too good for our members, and we have tried with some measure of success to keep in the front. We have just passed through a year of unusual prosperity. Our Bankruptcy Department has suffered for want of work, and our Board has missed the income usually derived from such cases; but what the Board has lost individual members have gained. The Collection Department has done the largest business in any year in the history of the Board, and the same can be said of the Information Department. Besides, we have facilities for furnishing better mercantile reports than heretofore as the quality of our reports show. This is testified to by the large proportion of our members using this department, some using this department for their reports to the exclusion of all other agencies; most of our members could do likewise with benefit to themselves.

The coming year looks promising, the various industries upon which depend our nation's greatness are full of business; harvests have been bountiful; our people have money and all have to use paper, a product which helps to run every industry under the sun.

Our membership at present is not as large as it should be and as our organization deserves. It should be the duty of each and every member of the Board to try and get the name of a new subscriber. Every member could do this with little or no trouble, and it would greatly increase the income of the Board and thereby its resources. We believe we are giving our members good service, better than they can get elsewhere for the money, and much better than they can get anywhere else for any less; with an increased membership, which would mean an increase of income, the efficiency of the Board can be increased. Your trustees devote much time to directing and advising the policy of the Board, and the members should lend some assistance.

The demand for a book of ratings still exists; but as I have stated in previous years the entire income of the Board from dues would not be enough to pay for compiling and publishing a good book, and any other would never serve the purpose of our organization.

The Dinner Committee has arranged to hold the annual dinner at Delmonico's on Wednesday evening, January 14, and it is to be hoped our members will turn out on that occasion in large numbers. All who attended our last dinner will certify that the effect of such affairs is beneficial to us in our social and business life, and you can find no better way of entertaining a friend or a customer than by inviting him to be your guest.

I want to thank the officers and employees of the Board for their uniform courtesy and assistance to me, and congratulate them upon the universal spirit of good fellowship, which has existed among us, and which has done so much to make the work agreeable during the past year.

The Secretary-Treasurer, Edwin H. Lovell, then submitted the following:

INFORMATION (REPORTS) RECEIVED.

Reports from correspondents.....	4771	5023
Statements received.....	1936	2470

During the year 1902 we sent to members for information 4806 inquiries. In 1901 4927 inquiries were sent. Letters written number 721, as against 597 in 1901. Weekly circulars issued from this department during the year were 6845.

This department was used by 105 members in 1901, and during the year 1902 by 104.

Various members have obtained 668 reports in excess of the number limited to 200 per year without extra charge.

COLLECTION DEPARTMENT.

In the collection department there have been received for collection during the year 4558 claims aggregating $188,802.45.

Collections to the amount of $51,119.58 have been made through the office, and nearly $40,000 was paid direct to members as the result of notice from the office and attorneys.

1578 claims have been closed by collection through the office, by attorneys, or paid direct to members.

3083 claims were sent to attorneys during the year.

703 claims amounting to $39,335.97 were settled direct.

530 claims were settled through attorneys.

345 claims were settled through the office.

1029 claims returned uncollectable.

71 claims transferred to the Bankruptcy Department.

1880 claims are still open and in process of collection, 2678 claims having been disposed of.

There have been received 21,086 letters and 34,307 written.

BANKRUPTCY DEPARTMENT.

During the year 180 new cases were opened which include 563 claims, amounting to $57,010.42.

16 cases (32 claims), amounting to $2,649.38, were paid in full.

4 cases (4 claims), amounting to $287.60, were paid direct.

95 cases (374 claims), amounting to $52,697.49, were settled by compromise.

40 cases (114 claims) were returned as worthless.

7 cases (7 claims), amounting to $924.35, were withdrawn.

There has been paid to creditors through this department $23,835.09, not including the $287.60 paid direct.

The number of letters received was 3574 and 5723 were written, besides 3469 circulars were issued to creditors.

In addition to the correspondence in this department, 1344 general letters were received and 937 written.

The books have been regularly audited and bills have been passed and paid regularly each month. Besides the certified accountant for the Board made an annual audit of the books, and reported that he found same correct.

The year ended with a balance of $249.80 in the treasurer's hands and interest due from the savings banks on the redemption fund amounting to $400.

The following trustees were elected to serve during the year 1903: James C. Aikin, of Aikin, Lambert & Co.; Charles Watson Allen, of Little, Brown & Co.; Thomas R. Bacon, of J. B. Lippincott Co.; Henry C. Bainbridge, of Chas. T. Bainbridge's Sons; Wm. B. Boorum, jr., of Boorum & Pease Co.; Robert Dickson, of D. Appleton & Co.; Patrick Farrelly, of The American News Company; William Keuffel, of Keuffel & Esser Co.; Charles S. Kiggins, of Kiggins & Tooker Co.; Charles McLoughlin, of McLoughlin Bros.; Charles S. Cooke, of The Cooke & Cobb Co.; L. B. Sturgis, of The Macmillan Company; Nelson Taylor, of The Baker & Taylor Co.; David A. Tower, of Tower Mfg. & Novelty Co.; Miles Vernon, of S. E. & M. Vernon; John A. Walker, of Jos. Dixon Crucible Co.; Frank D. Waterman, of L. E. Waterman Co.; and Franklin Weston, of Byron Weston Co.

"MESSAGES OF THE PRESIDENTS."

REPRESENTATIVE HENRY C. SMITH on the 8th inst. introduced in the House a resolution for the appointment of a committee to investigate the matter of the printing and distribution of the "Messages and Papers of the Presidents," which were compiled and edited by Representative Richardson, of Tennessee.

The preamble of the resolution says that the "Messages and Papers" are being printed and distributed by one or more printing concerns in such a manner as to lead the public to believe that they are official. It also asserts that the Bureau of National Literature and Art, (chartered,) Washington, D. C., purports to send out and distribute certificates to various persons which entitles them to an option on one copy of the supplemental volume of "Messages and Papers of the Presidents."

CHANGES IN THE TRADE IN NEW YORK.

A NUMBER of changes have taken place since the beginning of the year in the personnel of New York publishing houses, especially among the commercial travellers. E. J. Clode, for eight years representative and manager of the publishing department of Brentano's, has retired. For the present Mr. Clode will make no other connections, though it is not likely that he will remain at leisure very long. Indeed, in the near future his name may be connected with a new publishing venture. He is making his headquarters at 156 Fifth Avenue.

J. L. Thompson, for a number of years connected with Doubleday & McClure Co., and from the start a member of the firm of Doubleday, Page & Co., has retired from the firm and made connections with Charles Scribner's Sons, concerning which announcement will be made later.

Edward Hall, who has represented Doubleday, Page & Co. on the road, has severed his connection with that firm.

Herbert Houston, for some time connected with the advertising department of Outing, has been admitted to the firm of Doubleday, Page & Co.

Milton C. Dent, travelling representative for Dodd, Mead & Co., is about to resign and take a similar position with Raphael Tuck & Co. Mr. Dent will be succeeded at Dodd, Mead & Co.'s by Arthur Chase, who hitherto has been connected with the manufacturing department of the house.

William J. Kelly has renewed his contract with the W. B. Conkey Company to represent that firm in the East, with headquarters in the Presbyterian Building, New York. He started on the 6th inst. for his annual western trip, taking in the Pacific Coast and the Northwest, returning by way of Toronto or some other eastern Canadian point. He will probably return to New York in April.

A RECOGNITION OF MERIT.

It is announced that Mr. John H. Dingman is to retire from many of his usual activities in the house of Charles Scribner's Sons, and that such efforts as he will continue to make will be made in new lines of work helpful to the enlarged aims and purposes of the great establishment with which he will still be connected, and for which he has given the greater part of his life. Mr. Dingman's connection with the Scribner house, as is well known, began with its earliest history, and its experiences have been his, in all their varying phases, for more than forty years. Still in the vigor of physical health, Mr. Dingman is to be congratulated on the growth and achievements of his past, and such honorary occupation as now comes to him in the same house.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

THE PITTSBURG BOOKSELLERS' AND STATIONERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE will give its first monthly dinner of the year at the Aldine Association rooms on the evening of January 14. The following guests are expected to address the League: Henry Harland, ("Sydney Luska,") author of "The Lady Paramount," etc.; Charles George D. Roberts, author of "Kindred of the Wild," etc.; Willis H. Drummond, author of "The Habitant," "Johnnie Courteau," etc.; and Homer Davenport, the cartoonist. A very enjoyable evening is in prospect. It is requested that those who intend to be present will notify Mr. Richardson at E. P. Dutton & Co.'s, 31 West Twenty-third Street, New York, by the 12th inst., otherwise no provision can be made for them at the table. The annual dinner will be given at the rooms of the Aldine Association on the evening of February 11. An elaborate programme is being prepared for that occasion.

OBITUARY NOTES.

MARSHALL T. BIGELOW, widely known as a printer, publisher and proofreader, and one of the early owners of the University Press, died suddenly on January 2, at Cambridge, Mass., at the age of eighty years. He was the author of several standard works on the subject of proofreading, which have passed through many editions.

RICHARD MANSILL, a well-known astronomer, died at Rock Island, Ill., January 6. He was born in Staffordshire, Eng., in 1829, but had resided in Rock Island since 1849. His annual "Almanac of Planetary Meteorology" was first published in 1876, and appeared regularly until 1901. It circulated over this country and in England, and was accepted as standard everywhere.

F. F. BAINBRIDGE, bookseller, died in Asheville, N. C., December 31. Mr. Bainbridge was born in Clevedon, Somersetshire, Eng., and was educated as a physician, but entered the army and served in the India campaigns. He came to this country, settling first in Virginia, where he married Miss Price, and then went to San Antonio, Tex., where he lived a number of years. In 1896 he settled in Asheville and opened a bookstore on South Main Street, removing afterwards to Patton Avenue.

GEORGE HARRISON MARSTON, formerly a well-known bookseller at Lowell, Mass., died on December 28 at his home in that city after an illness of two weeks. Mr. Marston was born in Sandwich, N. H., in 1841, and was educated at the academy in Newbury, Vt. At the age of eighteen he removed to Lawrence, where he established a partnership with George C. Prince as dealer in books, periodicals, etc. In 1872 the firm removed to Lowell, where their store became one of the well-known places of business on Merrimack Street. From this partnership Mr. Marston, owing to poor health, retired several years ago.

THE REV. PHINEAS CAMP HEADLEY died at Lexington, Mass., January 4, aged eighty-two. Mr. Headley was born at Walton, N. Y., June 29, 1819. He first studied and practised law, but subsequently studied theology and was graduated from the Auburn (N. Y.) Theological Seminary. He wrote extensively on historical subjects, his works comprising "Empress Josephine," "Mary, Queen of Scots," "Lafayette," "Napoleon," and "Louis Kossuth." He also wrote "Women of the Bible," "Secret Service of the United States in the Civil War," "Massachusetts in the Rebellion," "Public Men of To-day," "Half Hours in Bible Lands," and lives of Grant, Farragut, General O. M. Mitchell, Sherman, Ericsson, and Sheridan. Two daughters and two sons survive him, one of the latter being Chaplain J. H. B. Headley, U. S. A., stationed at Fort Hancock, Sandy Hook.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

L. C. PAGE & Co. have become the proprietors of The Literary World of Boston.

The Novellen-Schatz, published by S. Zickel, New York, begins its forty-fourth volume with the January issue.

THE AINSLEE MAGAZINE COMPANY to increase the sales of Ainslee's Magazine offers prizes of $3000, to be awarded during February, March and April, to the dealers who succeed in disposing of a certain number of copies of the magazine according to the schedule advertised elsewhere in this issue.

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. have just brought out the first number of the Journal of Comparative Literature, under the editorial management of George E. Woodberry, Professor of Comparative Literature in Columbia University; J. B. Fletcher, Assistant Professor of Comparative Literature in Harvard University; and J. E. Spingarn, Tutor in Comparative Literature in Columbia University. The Journal, as already noted, will be issued quarterly, and will be devoted to the interests of the comparative method in literary study and investigation at home and abroad, and the most eminent scholars in this field will collaborate with the editors to make it thoroughly representative.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BELLOWS FALLS, VT.—Walter H. Black has bought the book and stationery business of Williams & Co.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y.—C. W. Sears, bookseller, has sold out.

CHICAGO, ILL.—A number of song writers have formed the Joseph E. Howard Publishing Company, and will hereafter publish their own musical compositions. The new company has a capital stock of $10,000, and will begin business January 20. It is composed of such well-known song writers as Bert Williams and George Walker, of Williams and Walker; Joseph E. Howard, of Howard and Emerson; Charles Steinberg, of New York; Charles Horwitz, of Horwitz and Bowers, and Andrew Sterling. The company will establish headquarters in the Grand Opera House Block.

DES MOINES, IA.—The City Book and Stationery Company has been incorporated by William Archer and C. A. Neidig, with a capital of $15,000.

GRAFTON, W. VA.—The Sentinel Publishing Company has been chartered by James W. Holt, G. A. Bolden and S. H. Gramm. Capital, $25,000.

JACKSONVILLE, FLA.—The Industrial Publishing Company has been incorporated, with a capital of $10,000, by George W. Wilson, J. A. Hollomon and H. A. McEachern.

NEW YORK CITY.—Bruno Hessling announces that A. Gerbel has resigned his power of attorney, and that he has appointed F. W. Moldenhauer as manager, with full power of attorney.

NEW YORK CITY.—Henry W. Knight, publisher, 150 Fifth Avenue, has offered his creditors ten cents on the dollar. The liabilities are $250,000.

NEW YORK CITY.—Members of the Newsdealers' and Stationers' Union, connected with the Miscellaneous Trade Section of the Central Federated Union, have organized to establish a co-operative newsdealers' company, with a capital of $30,000.

WELLSVILLE, N. Y.—E. N. Jencks has succeeded A. S. Brown, bookseller.

WEST DERRY, N. H.—Benson Brothers have bought George S. Rollin's book business.

WINCHESTER, IND.—Brown & Trepp, booksellers, have dissolved partnership.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

It is announced in London that Lord Rosebery is writing a book on the American War of Independence.

EDEN PHILLPOTTS is finishing a novel entitled "The American Prisoner" which treats of the prisoners of war at Princetown and Dartmouth.

NOTES AND QUERIES.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE autobiography of Carl Schurz is nearing completion, and will be published next season.

A. B. PAINE is to write a biography of the late Thomas Nast. It was authorized by Mr. Nast himself.

THE INDUSTRIAL PUBLICATION COMPANY, 16 Thomas Street, New York, will publish next week an edition of Shakespeare's works in one octavo volume of upwards of 1000 pages.

LOUIS HARMAN PEET, 755 Ocean Avenue, Flatbush, Brooklyn, N. Y., has in press his work on the "Trees and Shrubs of Prospect Park," in Brooklyn. The book will be brought out shortly at the subscription price of $1.

RAND, McNALLY & Co. have just published a volume of sketches of Irish life and character, entitled "Father Tom of Connemara," by Elizabeth O'Reilly Neville. The book is illustrated with photographs of scenes and characters in Connemara.

A COPY of the New England Primer was recently sold by Morris D. High, of Johnstown, Pa., to Dodd, Mead & Co., for $2500. Mr. Morris bought the copy in 1893 at a public auction in a farmhouse near Oley, Berks County, for twelve cents.

THE NEW AMSTERDAM BOOK COMPANY, New York, have just issued in their Commonwealth Library a reprint of Cadwallader Colden's "History of the Five Indian Nations of Canada," in two volumes, with an introduction by Robert Waite.

ISAAC PITMAN & SONS will publish on the 12th inst. the eighth edition of "Isaac Pitman's Shorthand Dictionary." This edition will contain about 65,000 words in engraved shorthand, together with a parallel key in ordinary type. There will be no advance in price.

DWIGHT TILTON, the author of "Miss Petticoats," whose identity has so long been mysteriously discussed, is the pseudonym of George Tilton Richardson and Wilder Dwight Quint, both connected with the editorial staff of the Boston Traveller. Their new book, "On Satan's Mount," will be issued this month.

A GERMAN translation is to be made of Hamlin Garland's successful novel, "The Captain of the Gray-Horse Troop," for publication in Germany. That nation will doubtless be interested in learning about the American attitude towards the Indians, which is so keenly and sympathetically shown in this Western love story.

THE LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY will bring out in February Richard Burton's new volume of verse, entitled "Message and Melody." This book of poems is the fourth which Mr. Burton has issued, and contains his latest and most mature work in lyric and ballad vein, gathered from many magazines, or written especially for this volume.

WILLIAM HEINEMANN, London, will soon publish a book by Lord William Nevill, entitled "Penal Servitude," in which the aristocratic convict describes his trial and prison life. It is claimed for this somewhat "sensational" work that it treats of many problems of the present prison system. Lord William served five years, mainly in Parkhurst Prison.

THE MCGRAW PUBLISHING CO., 114 Liberty Street, New York, have just ready a work on "The Art of Illumination," by Dr. Louis Bell. The author treats of the utilization of artificial light, and does not deal with the problem of distributing illuminants, but with their application, treating of illuminants only in so far as a knowledge of their peculiarities is necessary to their intelligent use.

HENRY HOLT & Co. announce that Kerner and Oliver's "Natural History of Plants" will no longer be published in four parts, but that in future it will be issued in a lower-priced edition in two volumes. The new edition will lack only the colored illustrations of the former more expensive one, which were inserted mainly for embellishment, but retains all the other illustrations, which were an essential part of the work.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just ready the 1903 edition of "Who's Who," the price of which has been reduced from $1.75 to $1.50 net. The work has been greatly improved, and this year is one-third larger than it has ever been before. They have in preparation a work entitled "The Social Unrest," by John Graham Brook, which analyzes the unrest traceable chiefly to economic changes as they bear upon political and social ideals.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY announce this week a novel of the Scottish Hebrides by Norman Maclean, entitled "Dwellers in the Mist." From the Scotland of Ian MacLaren, Barrie and others, Mr. Maclean shifts the scene to the Hebrides or Western Islands. These stories of those coastwise "dwellers in the mist" are mostly threaded together by a motif, and some recurrence of the characters. The simplicity of this austere life, scant in material things, but rich in heart's blood, is vividly pictured.

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. will publish shortly an anthology of verse for small children prepared by Kate Douglas Wiggin and Nora Archibald Smith, which is to be called "The Posy Ring." They have in press a collection of the prayers of Dr. Johnson, with an introduction by William Aspenwall Bradley, and decorations and initials by William Jordan. For frontispiece Sir Joshua Reynolds's portrait has been reproduced. Three limited editions will be issued, printed on machine and hand-made paper and Japan vellum.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have in preparation a special issue of their National edition of the complete works of Daniel Webster, in eighteen volumes, to be brought out this year. This special issue will be limited to fifty sets, at $50 a volume, printed on hand-made paper, deckle edges, splendidly bound in full crushed levant morocco, gilt top, and further enriched with thirty-six hand-colored fronttispieces and title-page vignettes. A portfolio containing a special set of India proofs of the portraits and views will be presented to each of the subscribers to this edition.

HARPER & BROTHERS are bringing out a new edition of the late John Fiske's "American Political Ideas," a volume rich in suggestive thought, bearing upon the significance of American development and its "manifest destiny." They are also making a new revised edition of Davis's "The Elements of International Law," which is used as a text-book at West Point and many colleges, military and otherwise. Its author, General George B. Davis, has been for many years a profound student of international law, and is now Judge-Advocate General of the army, with the rank of brigadier-general.

J. F. MEEHAN contributes to The Beacon, of Bath, Eng., for December, 1902, an article on "Major André and Bath" in his series of "Famous Buildings of Bath and District." Mr. Meehan doubts whether André was ever in Bath, notwithstanding the fact that over the door of No. 22 Circus appears an inscription on a mural tablet to the effect that "Here dwelt Major André, A.D. 1770." The major's mother, however, and his maiden sisters lived in Bath from the close of the eighteenth century to 1845, and this is a peg on which Mr. Meehan hangs a story of André and his family. The sketch is illustrated with a portrait of André after a miniature by himself.

The New York Herald is authority for the statement that a New York bibliomaniac has ordered a set of Frederick J. Quinby's edition of the works of Paul de Kock in 100 volumes, expressly printed and bound for himself at $200,000. The first two volumes of the $200,000 set are now under way. Every one of the 3200 pages in the set will be illuminated and every page done in different designs, while with the other editions only the chapters and head and tail pieces are illuminated. Everything is being done by hand. The letterpress is printed on an old-fashioned hand press and the binding is being done by hand, and about thirty artists and decorators are engaged taking the volumes page for page, so that no two of them will be alike.

AUCTION SALES.

JANUARY 12-14, 3 P.M.—Miscellaneous. (993 lots.)—Bangs.

JANUARY 15, 3 P.M.—Scottish books. (311 lots.)—Bangs.

STAN V. HENKELS will sell for Davis & Harvey, of Philadelphia, the fine collection of Harold Pierce, of Philadelphia. The sale will be divided into four sections, the first taking place the latter part of February and the remaining sections at intervals of a month. The first part will be made up of Americana; the remainder comprises an extraordinary collection of first editions of English authors. In every department there are many books issued by private presses and clubs not often offered for sale. The catalogues will be ready shortly.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

TWO REMARKABLE BOOKS

A Son of Destiny

The Story of Andrew Jackson

By MISS MARY C. FRANCIS

In view of the extraordinary interest that is now being taken in the career of Andrew Jackson, the forming of numerous Jackson clubs throughout the country and the intense and revived interest in the career of this remarkable man, the publication of Miss Francis's story is very opportune.

The BROOKLYN DAILY EAGLE, in a column review of this remarkable book says: "Is a fascinating and impressive novel. Even with its faults the fact that it's a biography of so historical a figure as Andrew Jackson should insure for it a wide popularity."

The ST. LOUIS GLOBE DEMOCRAT says: "It will be read by the student and novel reader, and enjoyed because it is full of incident and movement."

The NASHVILLE AMERICAN says: "A Son of Destiny" is a splendid book and one that captures interest from the first, never to lose its hold. As a bit of history it will appeal to all; as a romance to everyone who admires a splendid story, splendidly told.

We expect a large sale on this book. Large 12mo, handsomely bound in cloth. Price, $1.50

The New Christians

By PERCY WHITE, Author of "Mr. Bailey Martin"

Second Edition. Large 12mo, handsomely bound in cloth. Price, $1.25

This is a new novel on a subject of increasing interest to the public—namely, Christian Science. The critics throughout the English speaking world are unanimous in its praise.

The NEW YORK MAIL AND EXPRESS, in a column review, says: "Mr. White's story deserves attention. It is timely, and it is bright; its lesson is, moreover, conveyed in a story that is extremely readable. Its meaning does not mar the pleasure of the reader, but it will be remembered long after the book has been laid down."

TO BE PUBLISHED SHORTLY

CAPTAIN KETTLE, K.C.B.

Being further Adventures of Captain Kettle

Large 12mo, handsomely bound in cloth. Price, $1.25

No character in recent fiction is so interesting and unique and so well known as Captain Kettle. He has hosts of friends who will welcome a new book by his capable biographer. Cutcliffe Hyne's previous book reached a sale in the British Isles and the United States of over 100,000 copies. We believe "Captain Kettle, K.C.B." will sell equally as well.

The Annual American Catalogue

1900-1902

THE ANNUAL AMERICAN CATALOGUE, Cumulated, 1900-1902, is now in preparation, and will include in one alphabet the short-title lists of the books of 1900, 1901 and 1902, giving the information of the books recorded by author, title, subject and series. This cumulation is to continue annually until a five-yearly volume of "The American Catalogue" in its new shape is reached. This form of catalogue has been generally accepted as a desirable, practical working tool for the trade, supplementing as it will do, from year to year, the last issue of the five-yearly "American Catalogue," without the need of consulting several alphabets in several volumes.

Briggs Brothers, of Plymouth, Massachusetts, announce the publication of Twentieth Century Cover Designs, a quarto of about 300 pages, the net retail price of which is $5.00

The Boston Transcript, the leading literary newspaper of New England, at the beginning of an extended review, says: The season has been especially rich in well-made books, and now to cap the climax comes a volume telling how well-made books are made. Although the title it bears is Twentieth Century Cover Designs, it does not confine itself to that one phase of the book-making art, but enters at length into discussions and examples of many aspects of printing, designing and binding. Although the text is furnished by experts in their various lines, the most attractive feature of the volume will prove to be the plates, which reproduce cover designs and fine bindings to the number of one hundred and more. The subjects discussed by the several contributors are as follows: The Use of Colors on Covers, The Cover in Advertising, Book Covers and Cover Designing, Pyrography as a Fine Art, Concerning Cover Papers, The Cover Page, Book-lovers' Bindings, The Art of Cover Designing, and Viennese Inlaying. All these are written upon by experts who are practising what they preach in the making of artistic books.

We are now prepared to supply the "Reference Catalogue of Current English Literature," better known, perhaps, as "Whitaker's Reference List."

The work is arranged on the plan of "The Publishers' Trade List Annual," and contains recent lists of 179 of the more important English publishers. An index is prefixed to the lists containing 135,000 references to the books catalogued. It thus forms one of the most complete records of current English books accessible to the bookseller and librarian.

The work is in two volumes of about 5,000 pages, strongly bound in half leather. The price has been fixed at $5.00 net.

As the copies received for the American market are limited, we need hardly remind intending subscribers of the wisdom of placing your order without delay.

THIS is a powerful portrayal of the wide experiences that may be compassed within eight years of a woman's life, if that woman has genius and opportunity. In this story, Anna Solny possesses the genius and Mrs. Maxtead discovers its existence and furnishes the opportunity to develop it.

From the neutral tints of obscurity in which Anna was born, she passes through the graduating shades that existence possesses for a woman. She experiences alternately, hope, expectation, fulfilment ; then from the zenith of a wonderful success and an ideal love, she is borne inevitably downward to shadow and darkness.

The story is a remarkable one and wonderfully well done. It holds the reader with a grip that constantly attests its power.

Mrs. Thurston is a native of Cork, Ireland, where she was privately educated. This is her first long novel. Her first published short story appeared in 1901. Since that time, she has had stories in various magazines.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THE AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY have secured the exclusive market for a paper-covered edition of "The Making of a Marchioness," by Frances Hodgson Burnett, with illustrations by Charles D. Williams, and decorated title-page, borders, initials, etc., by A. Kay Womrath. It will be brought out as No. 32 of The People's Library and will be retailed at 50 cents.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish early next month a collection of short stories entitled "The Pride of Telfair," by Elmore Elliot Peake, author of "The Darlingtons." They will bring out in March Mrs. Humphry Ward's new novel, "Lady Rose's Daughter," in three editions—in the regular one-volume form, in two volumes and an autograph two-volume edition limited to 350 sets.

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. will bring out next month a final complete edition of Conan Doyle's "The Great Boer War." They also announce "What's Worth While," by Edith Wyatt, author of "Everyone His Own Way;" a book of short stories by Joseph Conrad, entitled "Youth;" and a new work, "The Better Way," by Charles Wagner, author of "The Simple Life," which President Roosevelt praised so highly.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY has just ready a timely work entitled "The Social Unrest: studies in labor and socialist movements," by John Graham Brooks, a readable study of such "live" questions as strikes, trade unions, arbitration, child labor, time work, the influence of machinery and others of like importance, on many of which no literature is accessible or is but partially applicable to American conditions of the present moment. The personal observations on which the book is based range over eighteen years, and include direct investigations of every important strike, and the problems related to it, in the anthracite coal region during that time.

G. W. DILLINGHAM Co. have issued a first edition of 25,000 copies of a story entitled "The Room with the Little Door," by Roland B. Molineux, the successful defendant in a recent sensational trial for murder. The room with the little door is the cell in the Tombs Prison in New York and the "death chamber" at Sing Sing, N. Y., where Mr. Molineux was confined. They announce for immediate publication "Back to the Woods," by Hugh McHugh, author of "John Henry," etc., making the fourth book of this author's popular series, which has reached a sale of over 200,000 copies. They will publish in February "His Friend the Enemy," by William Wallace Cook, which ran as a serial in the McClure syndicate; also, a new detective story by Fergus Hume, "A Coin of Edward VII."

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish shortly an important work on "Agnosticism," by Professor Robert Flint, which complements and makes more explicit his still widely-read and much-discussed "Theism." They will publish in February an original and mature novel by Carter Goodloe, entitled "Calvert of Strathore," in which the author recreates the life of the American Embassy at Paris during the French Revolution. They have in preparation a new book by Henry James under the title of "The Better Sort," which will contain eleven of the author's ripest tales and studies, that are in piquant contrast to his sustained and elaborate romance, "The Wings of the Dove;" also, Arthur Crosslet Smith's stories, "The Turquoise Cup" and "The Desert," with illustrations by Maxfield Parrish, which will be published as a companion volume to his former book, "The Monk and the Dancer."

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

☞ The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk **, and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price. ☞

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (110: under 30 cm.); O. (800: 25 cm.); D. (1200: 20 cm.); S. (1600: 17½ cm.); T. (2400: 15 cm.); Th. (3200: 12½ cm.); Fe. (4800: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., xar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

- Bell, L: The art of illumination. N. Y., McGraw Publishing Co., 1902. c. 4+345 p. O. cl., $2.50.
- A study of the utilization of artificial light. It is intended to deal, not with the problem of distributing illuminants, but with their application, and treats of the illuminants themselves only in so far as a knowledge of their peculiarities is necessary to their intelligent use. To compress the subject within reasonable bounds, it has been necessary to discuss general principles rather than concrete examples of artificial lighting.
- Bender, Matthew. Bender's lawyers' diary and directory for the state of New York, 1903; from Jan. 1, 1903, to Feb. 1, 1904. 12th year. Alb., Matthew Bender, 1902. c. 671 p. including diary, O. hf. roan, $1.50.

 Cadwallader Colden was born 1688 in Ireland. In 1710 he came to America and practiced as physician in Philadelphia. He became Lieutenant-Governor of New York in 1761. He was considered the best informed man in the new world on the affairs of the British American Colonies. This history was first published in London in 1755.
- Collier, Jos. Glimpses of Leland Stanford, jr., University, Palo Alto, California. Denver, Col., J. Collier, 1902. c. 40 p. il. plan, *$1.25 net.
 An historical sketch of the university; with a brief description of the Memorial church, by its architect, and pictures of the college buildings.
- Cooke, G. Willis. Unitarianism in America: a history of its origin and development. Bost., American Unitarian Assoc., 1902. c. 11+463 p. il. por. O. cl., *$2 net.
 A history of Unitarianism in the United States, how it has organized itself and what it has accomplished. It supplements the works of Rev. George E. Ellis, Rev. Joseph Henry Allen, Rev. William Channing Gannett and Rev. John White Chadwick, and treats of the practical side of Unitarianism—its organizations, charities, philanthropies and reforms. The author has kept in mind those not educated as Unitarians and has aimed to state concretely what Unitarianism is. He retired from the active ministry in 1899.
- Corot and Millet, with critical essays by Gustave Geoffroy and Arsène Alexandre; ed. by C. Holme. N. Y., J. Lane, 1903. 6+32+18 p. 73 pl. 4°, pap., $2.

- Darrow, Clarence S. Resist not evil. Chic., C. H. Kerr & Co., 1903. c. 1902. 4-179 p. D. cl., 75 c.
 The author thinks Tolstoi is the only author who has placed the doctrine of non-resistance upon a substantial basis. While studying the subject the writer found next to nothing dealing with the question, but shelves crowded with literature extolling the glories of war and the beneficence of patriotism. The portion of the volume dealing with crime and punishment shows practical knowledge of the machinery of courts of justice. It gives special attention to the cause of crime and the evil and unsatisfactory results of punishment.

McNeill, Angus. The egregious English. N. Y., Putnam, 1903. [Ja.] c. 1902. 3+210 p. D. cl., **$1.25 net.

A reply to Mr. T. W. H. Crosland's "The unspeakable Scot." Behind the author's almost transparent pseudonym may lurk a clever, humorous and wholly good-natured Englishman or American. He shows up the weaknesses of the English sportsman, man-of-business, man-about-town; and of the English army, navy, churches, poets, fiction, drink, food, education, recreation, etc. The chapter on Chiffon, the English wife of the hour, proves that the women folk of the egregious English are much like all other wives, possibly excepting the wife of "the unspeakable Scot."

Marbut, Curtis Fletcher. The evolution of the northern part of the lowlands of southeastern Missouri. Columbia, Mo., University of Missouri, 1902. c. 8+63 p. maps, 8°, (University of Missouri studies; ed. by Frank Thilly, v. 1, no. 3.) pap., $1.25.

Maynard, Mrs. Mila Tupper. Walt Whitman, the poet of the wider selfhood. Chic., C. H. Kerr & Co., 1903. c. 3-145 p. D. hf. cl., $1.

The writer is joint pastor with her husband in the Myron Reed movement in Denver, Col., known as Broadway Temple Association. Interested in industrial and social problems. Sums up the biographical facts of Walt Whitman's life and then studies the separate poems as they deal with the copious personal self, the cosmic self, the eternal self, the larger woman and larger man, democracy, America, etc. Walt Whitman is considered the most misunderstood of men and writers, but sure to be acknowledged a prophet and great poet in the future.

Meyer, Max. Contributions to a psychological theory of music. Columbia, Mo., University of Missouri, 1901. c. 6+80 p. 8°, (University of Missouri studies; ed. by Frank Thilly, v. 1, no. 1.) pap., 75 c.

Although the work is primarily intended for students in colleges of pharmacy, it may be used also by practicing pharmacists. The author says that this is the first book on powdered vegetable drugs ever published in English. It is divided in two parts. The first part treats of the color, odor, and test of vegetable drugs, and the general histology of vegetable powders, also of the equipment and methods employed in their examination. Part two gives special descriptions of one hundred and ninety-five of the more important vegetable powders used in the United States; with their common English or French names, and considers the quality of the powder, taste, etc. Part one is indexed. Part two is alphabetically arranged by subjects.

- Simonds, W: E: A student's history of English literature. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., [1902.] c. '92. 7+483 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.
The Prof. of English Literature in Knox College, Galesburg, Ohio, has accepted suggestions of practical utility from the text-books of Pancoast, of Moody and Lovett, of Halleck, and of Johnson. He divides his subject according to centuries and for each century presents as many essential facts in its literary history as possible. He follows the biographical method more closely than some authors and gives less scope to technical criticism. The suggestions for study of separate books are an important feature of this very compact and very practical text-book. Maps, tables, facsimile title-pages. Index.

Sisters of Mercy, Mount St. Mary's, Manchester. Reverend Mother Mary Xavier Warde, foundress of the Order of Mercy in the United States: the story of her life; with brief sketches of her foundations; preface by Dennis M. ## AMERICAN BOOK SALES, 1901-1902.

THE story of the American auction sales during the season of 1901 and 1902, is much the same as that of the English book sales reviewed in our issue for November 22, 1902. In looking over the series of catalogues of the sales during the past season as recorded in Mr. Livingston's "American Book Prices Current,"* recently published by Dodd, Mead & Co., there seems to have been few libraries that, when sold, were in the condition in which they left the hands of their owners. Although this 1902 volume exceeds in size and number of lots any of the seven volumes already published, its bulk depends largely upon the catalogues of books from a few great collections, and upon sales made up of important material probably consigned by various owners, but the catalogues of which were not descriptive of the books of any one library or collection. Owners of rare books know that where a few rare items are included in a miscellaneous collection of second-rate or ordinary material the prices realized are very likely to be less than the same items would bring if they were offered in a sale made up mainly of rare or important books. And in consequence the auctioneers are likely to keep small lots of first-class material until they have enough consignments from various owners to make a catalogue of a two or three days' sale.

Of the three great libraries sold during the past season, two were offered by the trade; and the sales of these—the Lefferts and Morgan books—seemed to show pretty conclusively that books, even fine and rare items, put up at auction by a bookseller and known to be his property, and not "protected" at the sale, do not attract bidders in the same degree as the same books would be expected to do if sold as the property of a private owner.

The important sales recorded in the new volume of "American Book Prices Current" are the Lefferts, the McKee, the Morgan, the Weeks collections.

One of the most important American collections of rare books, that of Mr. Marshal C. Lefferts, was sold to a bookseller (George H. Richmond, of New York City,) early in the season, and a considerable portion of it found its way into the auction room. The Lefferts library was notably and remarkably complete in two lines: first, English poetry and prose, including English plays, before 1700; and, second, books relating to American discovery and history, in the English language, mostly printed before 1700 but with a few important items of later date. That portion of the collection of English literature which was not disposed of privately was offered at auction by Bangs & Co., April 21-24 inclusive. The unsold portion of the Americana was sent to England and sold at Sotheby's.

Three parts of the library of the late Thomas J. McKee, the sale of the first part of which took place in November, 1900, were sold during the season by John Anderson, Jr. These were Parts IV. to VI. Part IV. which was sold on December 2 and 3, 1901, included Mr. McKee's collection of English prose and verse of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, and presented one of the most remarkable series of titles in these classes ever offered in this country. Many of the books, however, were inferior copies. All those whose condition was first-class brought high prices. The most notable, both from point of interest as well as that of price, according to Mr. Livingston, was a copy of the 1624 edition of Shakespeare's "Rape of Lucrece." This was large and fine, in a modern binding by Bradstreet, but the device and imprint of the title had been cut out and replaced. This little book brought $1925. In some respects the next interesting item in the sale was a copy of the Earl of Stirling's "Recreations with the Muses," first edition, London, 1637. It contained the rare portrait of the author engraved by William Marshall, and on this account brought the unprecedented price of $760.

Part v. of the McKee library, sold on February 17 and 18, was largely made up of manuscripts and prints. A two-page folio manuscript in the handwriting of Major John André, being a prologue written and spoken by him on the occasion of the opening of the John Street Theatre, in New York City, on the evening of January 9, 1779, brought $1710. Autograph manuscripts by John Howard Payne, John Keats, and John G. Whittier, were also notable items in the sale. A specimen of the earliest known New York playbill, announcing a performance of King Richard III., at the Nassau Street Theatre, on November 12, 1753, brought $506.

Part vi. of the McKee library was sold on May 12 and 13. This section included books in several departments, being the important items left after the earlier classified sales, and a few rare books overlooked when the previous catalogues were prepared. Most notable were the few items of early historical Americana, American Bibles, etc., which had been excluded from the first catalogues of American poetry and plays, and the series of books by eighteenth and nineteenth century English writers. The most important books in the latter were, of course, the first editions of the writings of Shelley, Keats, Lamb, Tennyson, etc. The copy of Shelley's "Adonais, an Elegy on the Death of John Keats," 1821, which had been given by the author to Leigh Hunt, brought $2125, the highest price paid for a single volume during the season. Two other Shelley rarities, both without autograph interest, were "An Address to the Irish People," 1812, an uncut copy, $710; and "A Proposal for Putting Reform to the Vote Throughout the Kingdom," 1817, taken from a volume of pamphlets, the edges being trimmed, $625. Other first editions of Shelley's writings, as well as some of the rarer books by Keats and Lamb, brought high prices.

The most remarkable price paid during the season for any book was probably the sum of $2025, which was paid for a quarto Bible with the imprint "London: Printed by Mark Baskett, . . . 1752," and lacking the title-page of the New Testament. Although having the London imprint, this was, it is claimed, printed by Kneeland and Green in Boston, they having put the London imprint upon it in order to prevent prosecution by the English publishers, who had the sole privilege of printing Bibles. This story has been current since the publication by Isaiah Thomas of his "History of Printing" in 1810, and has provoked much discussion. Only one other copy of this Bible has ever been offered for sale, and that one was in the possession of Mr. John Anderson, Jr. Possibly the two copies are identical.

Although Mr. McKee possessed few rare books of the class generally called Americana, he had a small number of rarities which excited keen competition. The best of these was a copy of the rare first editions of Cadwallader Colden's "History of the Five Indian Nations," printed by William Bradford in New York in 1727. This brought $860. Thomas's "Account of Pensilvania and of West-New-Jersey," 1698, brought the record price of $805. The rare 1634 edition of Wood's "New England's Prospect," with the map, also dated 1634, brought $620, another record price.

Among other famous books constantly sought after by collectors, and which are increasing step by step in price each time a copy comes up for sale, were the first edition of the Poems of Robert Burns, printed at Kilmarnock in 1786, which brought $825, and the first edition of Gray's "Elegy," 1751, which brought $740.

The most important volume of incunabula sold during the year was in this sale. It was a copy of the first edition of "The Imitation of Christ," printed by Gunther Zainer at Augsburg in 1471, and brought $1600. This was the very large and fine copy which had been offered by Quaritch at £21 in his catalogue in 1876.

The collection of first editions of important authors which had been brought together within the last few years by Mr. Alfred J. Morgan was purchased some time ago by a bookseller, and considerable portions sold from it. The remaining portion, including some of the rarest and most sought after books of the most famous authors of the nineteenth century, was sold by Bangs & Co. on April 1 and 2, 1902. The prices, however, with perhaps a few exceptions, were less than would have been realized without much doubt had the books been sold as the property of the collector himself.

Mr. William R. Weeks, of Newark, N. J., has been known for years as a collector of material relating to that State. His library, or, rather, a very large portion of it, was sold in Philadelphia by Mr. Henkels on March 5 and 6. It included some first-class items, the most notable being a little pamphlet of eight pages with the unattractive title, "A True Account of the Dying Words of Ockanickon," printed at London in 1682. This brought the astonishing price of $1450. Anything relating to American Indians, and of such fugitive interest and comparatively as rare as this little piece, is almost certain to command increasingly high prices during the years to come; nevertheless, it is doubtful whether the price for this particular item will ever be reached again by a thousand dollars.

While from the viewpoint of the person interested in collectors' books the sales mentioned above were the most important of the season, there was a number of other private libraries, made up of large collections of books in various departments of knowledge, though containing few pieces of great rarity or high market value. Such books, which are bought to be read, interest by far the larger number of bookbuyers generally, although their sales do not attract any such audiences or provoke any such competition as the sales made up of collectors' books.

The record has been made up from 166 catalogues, comprising 274 days' sales in upwards of 300 sessions. The total number of lots in the catalogues from which the editor has made selections is a little over 114,000, being within a few hundred of the same number of lots sold at auction during the season of 1900-1901.

As foreshadowed in the opinion of Judge Leventritt denying the preliminary injunction, the Supreme Court, through Judge O'Gorman, has united in sustaining the demurrer of the defence in the Macy case, and ruling that the National Druggists' Association case is the ruling law in the State of New York. We present in this issue the text in full of that decision with the decision of the trial on which the affirmation was based. To that is appended the decision in the Georgia case, which is exactly contrary to the New York decision. Unless some federal question is found in the case, it seems probable that the Macy case as presented in the elaborate defence of the Macy counsel is ended with a signal victory on the side of the booksellers and publishers. It is well that the case has been so promptly fought to a finish; unless some ground of appeal can be found the reform movement on its present lines gives prospect of success. The trade is certainly to be congratulated on the outcome of the present case, and the Macy firm and its counsel are to be thanked for making so full an expression of the principles involved.

R. H. MACY & CO. BEATEN AGAIN.

FOLLOWING is the text of the decision of Judge James A. O'Gorman, of the New York Supreme Court, handed down January 14, in the case of Isidor Straus and Nathan Straus, composing the firm of R. H. Macy & Co., v. American Publishers' Association, et al., which came up for a hearing on January 12: "Demurrer sustained with costs, on authority of Park v. Nat. Wholesale Druggists' Association. (54 App. Div., 223.)"

SYNOPSIS OF THE BRIEF OF R. H. MACY & CO.

As the brief of the attorneys for R. H. Macy & Co. is not printed and the original document not available at the time we go to press, we present the following cursory synopsis prepared for us by the attorneys for the plaintiffs:

The plaintiffs claim that their complaint sets forth a complete cause of action against the defendant as having entered upon an unlawful combination whereby competition in this State, as well as in all States of the United States, in the supply and sale of books has been and is restricted and prevented, and whereby the free pursuit in this State of the lawful business of selling books at retail has been and is restrained and prevented contrary to the statute in such case made and provided. Also, that the defendants sought to "force plaintiffs" to join such combination, and that they have conspired to injure plaintiffs in their business of selling books at retail, and sought to prevent all persons in the business of publishing, and buying and selling books at wholesale or retail, from dealing with plaintiffs. That the defendants have purposed, furthermore, to impede and injure plaintiffs' business, have libelled them, and have sought to prevent publishers and dealers, members of either association, from dealing with plaintiffs, and threatened injury to anyone who did so, and have blacklisted plaintiffs, and injured threatened and intimidated persons dealing with plaintiffs, and have tried to obtain information by spying upon plaintiffs and bribing their employees. That they coerced publishers of non-copyright books by threats of loss to business and injury thereto in case they sold books to plaintiffs.

The plaintiffs cite the case of Rourke against Elk Drug Co. (75 App. Div. 146) as conclusive authority for overruling the demurrer interposed to the complaint. This case was decided in the fall of 1902 in the third department, and holds that where a complaint discloses a conspiracy and the making of threats directed against the plaintiff's business reputation, the use of slanderous language, and in addition thereto combinations formed for the purpose of preventing the free pursuit of lawful business, and preventing competition in trade, it states a good cause of action at common law and discloses a combination contrary to statute and against public policy; that this case discloses precisely the same facts and the same parties practically as the case of John D. Park Sons against the National Druggists' Association (54 App. Div., p. 223), which was decided in 1900 in the first department, and holds the directly contrary view to such case.

The plaintiffs also claim that the combination complained of in the acts set forth in the complaint comes directly under the so-called Donnelly act, (law of 1899, chap. 690), the title to which is "An act to prevent monopoly in articles or commodities in common use, and to prevent the restraint of trade or commerce providing penalties for the violation of the principles of this act and procedure to enable the Attorney-General to secure testimony in relation thereto."

The first section of this law declares its general purpose and is the only one with which this argument is concerned. The same is as follows: "Every contract, agreement, arrangement or combination whereby a monopoly in the manufacture, production and sale in this State of any article or commodity of common use is or may be created, established or maintained, or whereby competition in this State in the supply or price of any such article or commodity is or may be restrained or prevented, or whereby for the purpose of creating, establishing or maintaining the monopoly within this State of the manufacture, production or sale of any such article or commodity, the free pursuit in this State of lawful business, trade or occupation is or may be restrained or prevented is hereby declared to be against public policy, illegal and void."

The second section provides that any person, corporation or officer, that within this State shall make or enter into the prohibited contract or arrangement, or do any act in furtherance thereof, is guilty of misdemeanor and subject to punishment by fine or imprisonment. The Court of Appeals in the case of Davies, in 68 N. Y. 101, has sustained the constitutionality of the act and interpreted the section quoted as being but little more than common law as it existed prior thereto. The facts set forth bring the case at bar within the letter and spirit of the statute. There is a concurrence of the three essential features: 1st, there is a direct agreement or combination between the defendants; 2d, the combination, etc., affects an article of common use; 3d, the intention and effect of the combination in this State is to prevent competition in the supply and price of such articles, and the free pursuit in this State of lawful business or trade is restricted or prevented.

Not only is the combination complained of contrary to the statute, but it is contrary to the common law. Judge Leventritt in his opinion denying motion for the preliminary injunction substantially states that his view as to the illegality of the combination is set forth in the persuasive opinion of Brown v. Jacobs Pharmacy Co. (41 S. E. Rep., 553-564). In this case the Supreme Court of Georgia having before it the very combination which was considered in the Park case, in a very learned and exhaustive opinion which included an examination of all leading cases in almost all the State courts, and of the United States courts and the House of Lords, comes to the conclusion that such combinations as set forth in the Park case and upon which the combination in this case at bar was based, were wholly illegal and contrary to public policy, and sets it aside, although at the same time it holds that the Anti-Trust Law of Georgia is unconstitutional. Judge Leventritt, however, although he considered the combination illegal, considered himself bound to deny the injunction on the grounds that in this department, to wit, the City of New York, the Park case, which had established a different rule, was the authority which he was bound to follow.

The defendants also claim that a number of later cases in the Court of Appeals in the State of New York established this principle that "contracts by which the parties to a combination have created a monopoly in restraint of trade to prevent competition, to control and thus to limit production, to increase prices and maintain them, are contrary to sound public policy, and are void." In so far, therefore, as the case of Park Sons v. The National Druggists' Association is inconsistent with the statute and the Court of Appeals decision, and the decision of Rourke v. Elk Drug Co., it must be deemed void and overruled.

And the plaintiffs further claim that the Appellate Division in the Park case by its very terms has limited it to the precise case before it, to wit, to dealers in patent medicines; that both the opinion of Judge Russell at Special Term, and the Appellate Division in the opinion of Judge Rumsey emphasize the fact that patent medicines cannot be deemed necessities, and that a different rule might be established in a different case. Judge Russell goes further, and says that liver pills and hair restorers may be considered efficacious by individuals using them, but that they cannot be deemed staples of health or of commerce. Plaintiffs claim that books cannot be placed on the same level as liver pills and hair restorers, and that not only are they articles of common use, but in a civilized community they come fairly within the class of articles known as necessities.

BRIEF OF THE AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION.

We give below, in full, the brief of the American Publishers' Association, and of the defendants who are named as publishers, in support of their demurrer to the complaint:

STATEMENT OF FACTS.

The complaint shows that the plaintiffs conduct a retail department dry goods store in the City of New York, which includes a department for the sale of books (13-15); that up to the year 1900 "publishers who also sold and still sell at retail, and retail dealers, were accustomed to advertise and offer the sale of books at retail, at certain prices, called 'list prices,' and to deceive the public, or those who were not acquainted with the wiles and customs of the trade, to induce them to believe that said 'list prices' were the ordinary retail prices of such books, whereas, in fact, both the publishers and the dealers only obtained such 'list prices' at retail from the ignorant and unwary, but gave large and liberal discounts from said prices at retail to anyone who inquired or was familiar with the customs of the trade.

"That by reason of said deception and lack of uniformity in the price of the same book the purchasing public lost confidence in the publishers who sold at retail, and in the dealers, and gave their custom to such dealers in books * * * as had established fixed prices, and when they were assured that the greed of the dealer would not attempt to secure an extortionate profit or charge different persons different prices for the same book. That by reason of the foregoing facts the publishers of books * * * and a large number of dealers found their business and their profits decreasing (16-18).

"That during the year 1900 a number of prominent publishers, including the defendants hereinbefore described as publishers * * * combined and associated themselves together and * * * formed or incorporated the defendant, the American Publishers' Association, a membership corporation, which included among its members the defendants hereinbefore described as publishers and also a large majority of the publishers of all books in the State of New York and throughout the States of the United States" (18-19).

This majority amounted to about 95 per cent. of such publishers (6).

These acts are alleged to be unlawful, illegal "and contrary to the public policy and Statutes of the State of New York and of the United States, more especially of certain Statutes of the United States passed July 2, 1890, and more particularly described as 'An Act to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraint and monopolies'" (18).

In furtherance of this combination "immediately after organization the said defendants, the American Publishers' Association, and its various members adopted a resolution and entered into an agreement which was intended to prevent the cutting or reducing of prices on copyright books published by the members of the said association, by which each of the members of the association agreed that all copyrighted books published by any of them after May 1, 1901, should be published and sold at retail at net prices; that is, the published price thereof, and not be subject to any discounts.

"That as a part of said * * * combination the members of the said association agreed that such net copyrighted books, and all other books * * * should be sold by them to those booksellers only who would maintain the retail net price of such net copyrighted books for one year, and to those booksellers and jobbers only who would furthermore sell books at wholesale to no one known to them to cut, or sell at a lower figure than such net retail price, or whose name would be given to them by the association as one who cut such net prices" (19-20).

Ever since May 1, 1901, the defendants have maintained such combination (23).

"That plaintiffs were invited to join such * * * combination, and have refused, and still refuse so to do, and have continued to and still sell to the public at retail books copyrighted * * * (at a price) less, however, than the price established by defendants" (23).

There is a general allegation of conspiracy to injure the plaintiffs and an effort by threats, coercion and intimidation to prevent all persons engaged in the business of publishing or buying or selling books from dealing with the plaintiffs (24). It is stated that "there are but few of the large booksellers throughout the United States who have not become expressly or tacitly members of such * * * combination" (24).

Ninety per cent. of all booksellers have joined the combination (6).

The defendants refused to sell their books to the plaintiffs (25).

And watched to see how the plaintiffs managed to obtain the defendants' books, which the defendants refused to sell them (26).

Thus the plaintiffs were forced "to adopt secret and cumbersome methods of purchasing books, increasing thereby the expenses and forcing plaintiffs to purchase books at higher prices than other dealers at wholesale obtained the same, and compelling them to purchase books at other cities than in the City of New York" (fol. 27).

The plaintiffs are compelled "to adopt unusual and secret methods in their business" (27-28).

Therefore the plaintiffs ask the Court to declare the agreement between the publishers void; to forbid the defendants to act under the agreement and to prevent the publishers from refusing to sell their books to the plaintiffs or other persons who fail to abide by the rules, resolutions or agreements upon which alone their books are sold.

Leaving out of account epithets and allegations of motive and purpose, the facts alleged are briefly as follows:

To remedy the acknowledged disorganization of the book trade and to meet the public demand for fixed retail prices without discounts, the publishers agreed that certain copyright books should be sold at fixed retail prices, without discounts. Substantially all publishers and all booksellers throughout the United States have eagerly adopted the new rule, and it does not appear that any purchaser of books at retail objects to it. The publishers are willing to sell to Macy & Co. on the same terms as to other dealers.

So far as appears, these terms are as advantageous to Macy & Co. as to other dealers.

Macy & Co., however, refuse to accept these terms, and ask the Court to disorganise the book trade throughout the United States, and annul the rules with which all the trade is satisfied, so that Macy & Co. may obtain defendants' copyright books on terms upon which the defendants refuse to sell them. Macy & Co. desire to deal in defendants' books, not for profit (for the rule would increase their profits), but as part of the scheme for managing their "retail dry goods department store."

POINTS.

I.

The validity of the rule of the American Publishers' Association here in question has been established by authority.

Straus v. Am. Publishers' Ass'n, N. Y. Law Journal, Jan. 6, 1903.

Ottenheimer v. Am. Publishers' Ass'n, N. Y. Law Journal, Oct. 2, 1902.

Park v. Nat. Druggists' Ass'n, 54 App. Div., 223.

In denying the motion for an injunction in this case Mr. Justice LEVENTRITT said: "My own views of the legality of the defendants' acts, as they find support in the very persuasive opinion of the Supreme Court of Georgia, in Brown v. Jacobs Pharmacy Co. (41 S. E. Rep., 553-564), must yield to the controlling law of this department, as expressed in J. D. Park & Sons Co. v. The National Wholesale Druggist Association (54 App. Div., 223). There is no substantial distinction in principle between that case and this, and the motion must therefore be denied." N. Y. Law Journal, Jan. 6, 1903.

The rule of the American Publishers' Association which is assailed by the plaintiffs is not set forth in the complaint. As described therein, it is "that all copyrighted books published by any of them (the members of the Association) after May 1, 1901, should be published and sold at retail at net prices, that is, the published price thereof, and not be subject to any discount" (19). The Court will notice that there is no charge that the Association fixes the prices of books or provides for fixing them in any way by any committee or otherwise. Each publisher, free from all control of the Association, fixes the retail price of his own copyright books as he pleases, and his agreement with the Association is that retail sales shall be made at the published retail price and without any discounts.

That each publisher has the right to fix the retail price of his own copyright book is well settled.

By a decision of the United States Supreme Court since the Park case, the rights of an owner of a patent (and therefore of a copyright) have been defined. "The very object of these laws is monopoly and the rule is, with few exceptions, that any conditions which are not in their very nature illegal with regard to this kind of property, imposed by the patentee, and agreed to by the licensee for the right to manufacture or use or sell the article, will be upheld by the courts; and the fact that the conditions in the contract keep up the monopoly or fix prices, does not render them illegal." Bement v. National Harrow Co., 186 U. S., 70, 91.

This case settles the right of the owner of a copyrighted article to provide that the purchaser of it shall not sell below a stipulated price. This has also been held in Garst v. Harris, 177 Mass., 72; Fowle v. Park, 131 U. S., 88; Walsh v. Dwight, 40 App. Div., 513.

As each individual publisher has a right to insist that the person to whom he sells shall only sell at a fixed price, all the publishers may unite in helping each to enforce his own right. Park v. National Druggists' Association, 54 App. Div., 227, and cases there cited.

With great respect for the learned Judge who denied the injunction at Special Term, we submit that Brown vs. Jacobs Pharmacy Co., (41 S. E. Rep., 553) is not in point, because there the Court was applying a different system of law to a fundamentally different state of facts.

In the case at bar the defendants are wholesale dealers who refuse to sell their copyright goods to the plaintiff unless he will comply with their rules.

So did the defendants in the Park case, with their proprietary medicines; but in Brown vs. Jacobs Pharmacy Co. the defendants were local drug dealers in Atlanta. The plaintiff did not, so far as appears, wish to buy goods from any of them, or to sell their goods. This "local concern" put in operation a scheme to prevent the plaintiff from being able to buy goods from other dealers with which to conduct its business.

The head note says: "A combination of mercantile dealers to compel another dealer in similar goods to sell at prices fixed by it, or upon his refusal so to do, to prevent those of whom its members are purchasing customers from selling goods to him is, upon general legal principles, contrary to public policy and void."

It must be evident that the very facts upon which the decision in Park vs. The American Druggists' Association is put by the Court are wholly absent from the Georgia case.

How different the Georgia law is from our own appears from the statement of the Court that in Georgia engrossing, forestalling and regrating are criminal offences, concerning which the presiding Judge is required specially to charge the Grand Jury (p. 561).

II.

The New York statute against monopolies, known as the Donnelly Act, being Chapter 690, Laws of 1899, does not apply.

A. If it be conceded that the act applies to books in general it has no application to copyright books. The rules extend only to fixing the price by each copyright owner of his own copyright book. This right is secured by him by the Constitution of the United States and by the law of copyright, and if the Donnelly Act could be said to limit it, the act would be unconstitutional as encroaching upon a subject of legislation concerning which Congress has a right to act and has acted.

B. There is nothing in the rules which limits the supply of any uncopyrighted book to any person except one who persists in dealing in copyright books in defiance of the rights of the copyright owner. If Macy & Co. will either cease to deal in the defendants' copyright books or else deal in them in accordance with the terms on which alone they are issued by the defendants, Macy & Co. can obtain any uncopyrighted books from the defendants on the same terms that the rest of the world can obtain them.

C. The contract does not establish a monopoly nor prevent competition in the supply or price of copyright books or others.

The rule objected to does not tend to establish a monopoly, since all publishers issuing copyright books may become members of the association, and all dealers in books and all booksellers, without discrimination, can purchase of every publisher who is a member of the association. It is not shown that there has been any increase whatever in the retail price of books. There is no protest on the part of any book purchaser either by the Attorney General or otherwise.

The rule does not stifle competition, since it allows every publisher to fix the retail price of his own copyright books without any control or influence from the association or any one else. There is no agreement fixing a minimum price for copyright books, as was alleged to be the case with harrows in Bement v. National Harrow Company, supra. Each publisher may make the price of his copyright book as low as he pleases, but must cause the book to be sold to the public at this price, whatever it is, without rebate or discount, and to every one alike, without discrimination.

It may be noticed that the regulation is not only what, according to the complaint, was required by the "purchasing public," and was approved by ninety-five per cent. of the publishers and ninety per cent. of the booksellers (17, 6, 11), but it is also in substance the rule selected by the Congress of the United States, under the leadership of Mr. CARLISLE, to regulate Inter-State Commerce. Chap. 104, Laws 1887, 24 Stat. L., 379.

There is nothing against public policy in a trade rule that each dealer shall have prices which are public and fixed, and that all retail purchasers, without discrimination, may buy at the same rates.

A simple conspiracy, however atrocious, unless resulting in actual damage to the plaintiff, is not the subject of a civil action. Hutchins vs. Hutchins, 7 Hill, 104.

And this principle applies to illegal trade combinations. Thomas vs. Musical Union, 121, N. Y., 45; Mogul SS. Co. vs. McGregor, App. (1892), 25, 45.

A. The complaint alleges that the defendants "purpose and intent has been and still is being carried into effect successfully to the great profit of such publishers and dealers" (24).

The defendants were invited to join this combination, but refuse to do so, and prefer to sell the defendants' books at less than the price established by them (23).

Trade rules are made for the benefit of those who engage in the trade for profit.

If Macy & Co. wish to engage in the book trade, as others do, for profit, then these rules will, so far as appears, benefit Macy & Co. as they benefit all other dealers.

If, on the other hand, Macy & Co. wish to sell books as a matter of charity or of advertisement of their dry goods store, or simply to undersell all competitors and thereby decrease their business and profits, as the complaint alleges has heretofore happened (14, 17), the rules of the trade should not be framed to suit these ulterior purposes.

All the damage alleged in the complaint is said to flow from the efforts of the plaintiffs to obtain defendants' books surreptitiously. The agreement and the methods of business of the American Publishers' Association are not alleged to be harmful to the plaintiffs, nor can they be presumed to be, since they are shown to benefit all dealers who act under them.

B. If we assume, for the sake of argument, that the contract between the defendants is void, then the plaintiffs cannot succeed in this action. The plaintiffs need no injunction. The parties to the void contract can, if they will, sell to Macy & Co. If they do not choose to sell to Macy & Co., to be of service to the plaintiffs, the order of the Court must direct that to be done, which the publishers, in the course of the illegal agreement, promise not to do. To reach this result the Court must first find that if this contract had never been made, the plaintiffs could insist, as a legal right, that the defendants should sell to them their copyright books, and nothing in the case could justify this course. Taumbaum v. N. Y. Fire Ins. Exchange, 33 Misc., 134.

COURT DECISIONS RE TRADE DISCOUNT PROTECTION.

NEW YORK DECISION—Pro.

JOHN D. PARK & SONS COMPANY, a Corporation Organized under the Laws of the State of Kentucky, Appellant, v. THE NATIONAL WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS' ASSOCIATION and Others, Respondents.

A contract between manufacturers of proprietary drugs, of which each severally fixed the price of his own, only to dealers who would sell at the prices so fixed, is valid—effect of its being entered into under compulsion.

APPEAL by the plaintiff, John D. Park & Sons Company, a corporation organized under the laws of the State of Kentucky, from a final judgment of the Supreme Court in favor of the defendants, entered in the office of the clerk of the county of New York on the 5th day of May, 1900, upon the decision of the court rendered after a trial at the New York Special Term sustaining demurrers interposed to the amended complaint, dismissing the complaint and dissolving a preliminary injunction heretofore granted in the action.

Henry T. Fay, for the appellant.

Henry Galbraith Ward, for the respondents.

RUMSEY, J.: The plaintiff is a foreign corporation engaged in the business of selling drugs and medicines, and especially proprietary articles so called, and has been thus engaged for a long time. The defendants are wholesale dealers in articles of the same kind, or are manufacturers of such articles. The complaint alleges that, before 1881, manufacturers of these goods had been accustomed to sell them through agents direct to the retailers, giving to each agent commissions on his sales, and charging each buyer such prices and selling to him on such terms as they saw fit. The goods were sold to wholesale dealers in the same way. The result of that manner of dealing, as set up in the complaint, was that the wholesale dealers in these articles were unable to make a living profit in the business, and they set about to devise a plan by which the prices of proprietary articles should be fixed and the wholesale dealers obtain a fair profit from dealing in them. The Wholesale Druggists' Association, which had the matter in charge, is composed of wholesale druggists who are active members and have control of the association, and manufacturers of proprietary articles who are associate members but have no voice or vote in the association. To carry out the plans of the dealers, it was proposed that the manufacturers should agree to sell their goods to the wholesale dealers at fixed prices, charging one dealer no more than another, and making no allowance to any of them which would enable the one favored to obtain goods indirectly at less than the price fixed, but requiring of every dealer that he upon his part would not sell to retail dealers or any one else at less than the proprietor's list prices, and upon the giving of such a contract the manufacturer would allow to the wholesaler a discount of ten per cent. on the price charged him, which discount was to be the same to all buying the manufacturer's goods, and should be the sole profit to be made by the wholesale dealer from his dealing in those articles. It is alleged in the complaint that two-thirds of the wholesale dealers in these goods in the United States, representing ninety per cent. of the whole business in such articles, acceded to this proposition, but that the plaintiff refuses so to do.

It is further alleged that the Wholesale Druggists' Association "compelled" the manufacturers to adopt this system and that in consequence of such compulsion the manufacturers agreed to make sales in the way prescribed by the plan and to allow the discount only to those wholesale dealers who accepted the plan and refused to sell to any one who did not so agree. It is further alleged that, for the purpose of injuring the plaintiff's business and to compel it either to accede to this plan or to prevent it from obtaining goods wherewith to supply its customers, steps were taken to find out what dealers supplied the plaintiff and such dealers when ascertained were placed upon "cut-off" lists. Those lists were sent to the various manufacturers so that they should not sell to the persons named in them, thereby making it impossible for the plaintiff to obtain the goods to carry on its business. These general allegations of the complaint are repeated over many pages, but the foregoing states substantially the cause of action relied upon by the plaintiff, except that the allegations stating the injury done the plaintiff's business and the damage accruing to it thereby are not here set out in detail.

The relief sought is that the contracts and agreements set out in the complaint may be declared illegal; that the Wholesale Druggists' Association and its members may be restrained from making any effort to induce manufacturers to adopt or use the scheme for the sale of their goods, or from making any effort to induce those who have adopted it to continue in use that plan, or to limit their sale of goods in accordance with it, or to do any act to carry it into effect, or from refusing to sell their goods to the plaintiff; and it also demands that the manufacturers be restrained from using or adopting the plan or taking any action under it.

The defendants who have appeared demur to the complaint upon several grounds going not only to the jurisdiction of the court but to the sufficiency of the cause of action. In the view we have taken of the case, however, we have only examined the complaint to discover whether it sets up a cause of action sufficient to enable the plaintiff to obtain equitable relief, and the question of the jurisdiction of the court over the defendants who are non-residents or foreign corporations has not been considered.

The injury to the plaintiff arises from the fact that the manufacturers of patent medicines have agreed together to fix the prices of their goods and the conditions under which they are willing to sell them. Except for this agreement it is quite clear that the plaintiff would have no reason to complain. It is not alleged that the manufacturers refuse to sell to the plaintiff if it will comply with the rules which they have established for dealing in their wares, but the gravamen of the complaint is that the manufacturers refuse to deal with the plaintiff except upon such terms and conditions as they have established; and the question arises in the first place, therefore, whether the manufacturers of goods of this description have the right to fix the prices at which they will sell their goods and the terms which they require of the different buyers as a condition of permitting them to purchase the goods which they have for sale.

In the examination of this question it is not to be forgotten that the articles sold are not necessities of life as to which public policy might restrain a combination to fix an exorbitant price, nor have the manufacturers combined to establish a price for any particular article, but each manufacturer fixes his own price for the goods which he makes, and the agreement is simply to require the dealers to whom he sells to supply their customers at the price which the manufacturer has fixed for his own goods. It is not a combination of manufacturers to fix and establish prices, but an agreement as to the terms upon which goods of the same general character, but of different kinds, shall be sold and to insure their sale at the price which the manufacturer of each kind sees fit to put upon the goods which he makes. It cannot be denied that each manufacturer has the right to refuse to sell to any one if he sees fit. If he chooses to make his goods and sell them he has the right to fix any price he chooses upon them.

Not only so, but he has the right to select his own customers. He may agree to dispose of all his goods to one person or he may be willing to supply the whole trade except one person, and whatever he chooses to do is a matter with which the law has no concern, because the goods are his to be kept or sold as he pleases. So he may not only fix his own price, but he may impose such terms as he sees fit, or can exact from his customers. These matters are absolutely within his own control. If each manufacturer is at liberty thus to control the sale of his goods, undoubtedly all may, if they see fit, agree together to enforce conditions which each one seeks to impose upon the dealing with the article which he makes. The action of each manufacturer in fixing prices and imposing conditions of sale is undoubtedly legal. Having fixed the prices and the terms of sale, they combine for the purpose of enforcing their contracts. As the end to be accomplished is legal, and they do not propose to take any step in carrying it into effect which each might not properly take if he was working for himself, no right of action can arise to any one as a result of their combination. That the manufacturers have this right is a necessary deduction from the cases, in support of which the following may be cited: Walsh v. Dwight (40 App. Div. 513); Lough v. Outerbridge (143 N. Y. 271); Continental Ins. Co. v. Board of Fire Underwriters of The Pacific (67 Fed. Rep. 310); Anderson v. United States (171 U. S. 604); Mogul Steamship Co. v. McGregor, Gow & Co. (15 Q. B. Div. 476; affd., L. R. [1892 App. Cas.] 25). Indeed, some of these cases go to the extent of holding that a combination to keep up prices which has for its express object the destruction of the business of a competitor is not unlawful at common law, but it is not necessary here to consider whether the law does benefit such a combination.

We do not understand that the right of the manufacturers, having fixed their prices, to agree together for the purpose of imposing terms and conditions upon which they shall sell their goods, is disputed by the appellant, and in what is said in that regard we concur with the opinion of the learned justice of the Special Term.* But it is said that such is not the cause of action presented by the complaint. The plaintiff claims that its real grievance arises not from the agreement of the manufacturers solely, but because of the fact that the members of the Wholesale Druggists' Association, who are competitors of the plaintiff, have combined together for the purpose of compelling the manufacturers to adopt a particular agreement, which, if enforced, will take away its business; and so while it is aggrieved by the acts of the manufacturers yet the moving cause is the compulsion of the members of the association, because of which the manufacturers have agreed to do a thing which they would not have done in the absence of that compulsion.

It is said that such was the cause of action recognized by this court when the case was here before on the appeal from the order striking out certain provisions of the complaint as irrelevant and redundant. It is quite true that in the opinion then given by the court it was recognized that such a cause of action was sought to be set up, but it was not said that the facts thus set up gave to the plaintiff a right to the relief demanded. No such question was presented. The only question the court was then called upon to decide was whether certain allegations in the complaint were redundant or irrelevant to the cause of action which the plaintiff sought to set out. To decide that question it was necessary to consider what the cause of action was in order to determine whether the allegations bore upon it or not. The court, therefore, accepted at that time the plaintiff's statement as to what the cause of action was which it sought to present and examined each allegation with reference to that claim of the plaintiff only, but in reaching a decision in that case the court was not called upon to consider anything more than the pertinence of each allegation in view of the claim made by the plaintiff; and although the court said that the cause of action set up in the complaint was substantially what the plaintiff now claims, yet it did not say, and could not have said, that the facts were sufficient to establish that cause of action. (Park & Sons Co. v. National Druggists' Assn., 30 App. Div. 508.)

There is no suggestion in the complaint that the manufacturers having been compelled

RUSSELL, J.:

The demurrer to the complaint fairly presents the legal questions at issue, for the events are fully narrated which form the statement of facts on which the plaintiff relies to justify the charge that the defendants have conspired to seriously impair the plaintiff's business and destroy its power to purchase and sell proprietary drugs and medicines and are proceeding in the execution of their conspiracy. The plaintiff is a corporation doing business at Cincinnati, succeeding a partnership composed mainly of those now interested in the corporation, and has with its predecessor for many years conducted a wholesale business in drugs and medicines both of the proprietary and free lots, and here seeks injunctive relief.

The defendants, 125 in number, variously carry on separate business from New England to California as manufacturers, jobbers or wholesalers of proprietary drugs and medicines in part, and are united by the common tie of the association called the National Wholesale Druggists' Association, which is an unincorporated company existing only by the voluntary union of the manufacturers, jobbers and wholesalers for the common action and benefit of all its members.

The grievance of the plaintiff consists in its inability to directly buy so that it can sell those proprietary goods which are manufactured by some of the defendants from recipes owned by those defendants, possibly protected by trade marks, and which are commonly called patent medicines. Its custom is seriously impaired as a natural consequence by the inability to supply customers with the entire range of patent medicines as well as free drugs. And it is quite apparent that, if the rules of the association are effective to protect its own members, they are also effective to prevent the freedom of the plaintiff to purchase and sell such articles.

The inability of this plaintiff to compete is primarily due to its own volition. No charge is made of a refusal to sell goods under the same conditions as freely to it as to any one. The charge is that the plaintiff must conform to the rules of the association on the same basis as all seeking membership, or be an outcast in the commerce of these particular goods. No especial discrimination is made against the plaintiff not common or incidental to all without the pale, unless it may be that the vigorous efforts of plaintiff to break up the solidity of the association have induced precautionary measures by the latter which have individualized it as an example, but which measures might have been taken against any in similar case.

to take these steps, are not willing to continue this mode of transacting business. They certainly have not complained of it so far as appears, and if they do not complain of it and are doing only a thing which the law permits them to do, it is difficult to see why a third party who has no real grievance except that he is not willing to buy goods upon their terms, should be permitted to come in and interfere with them.

We have examined the cases cited by the appellant to establish its contention and we do not see that any of them contravene the principles laid down above. The case of Curran v. Galen (2 Misc. Rep. 553; 77 Hun, 610; 152 N. Y. 33) does not sustain the plaintiff's contention. In that case it appeared that the plaintiff had a valid contract for work with the brewer who discharged him at the demand of the defendant, and it is very clear that the plaintiff was thereby damaged because although he may not have had an enforceable contract with the brewer, yet the evidence showed that his employer was willing to keep him and would have kept him but for the act of the defendant in insisting upon his discharge, but in this case the plaintiff has no contract with any of the manufacturers nor are they willing to give it one except upon certain terms with which it refuses to comply. There is no sort of a parallel between the cases.

We cannot find from an examination of the complaint that any facts are alleged warranting the charge that the defendants are engaged in watching the plaintiff's business or

It is, therefore, necessary to consider how far the owners of patent medicines, which no one else may make and sell in the combination or form devised by the owners, can guard their own powers of sale by limitations which are so far lawful as not to expose them to the charge of illegal restraint of trade, whether or not those limitations can be enforced as valid executory agreements between the different manufacturers, or between them, the jobbers and wholesalers. It is not quite material whether these defendants have a contract binding between themselves if a united action on their part from common understanding and concerted effort works unlawful harm to the plaintiff. But it is equally clear that they do not have to plead an enforceable contract to protect themselves from the charge of wrong to one not claiming any rights or privileges from the contract, or the rights on which it is based.

This contract of the members provided that none would sell their proprietary articles, or allow the ten per cent. commission and freight charges, to any one who would not conform to the rules, nor would they undercut the price fixed by the manufacturer owner. Is this a reasonable restriction upon the sale of the inventor's production, or is it in unlawful restraint of trade? Is the agreement of several vicious while the refusal of one to sell would be justifiable? Shall the united action through each separate interest protecting itself be unlawful if designed solely for protection and not for punishment? Is not the necessity of combination evident if the individual may control the price for which his article is to be sold? Will not in such case combination result in a larger and more unrestricted sale to the public than isolated action?

Of course, all depends upon the right of the inventive manufacturer to utilize in some way the benefits of his own origination skill. I understand this right to be conceded; but it is apparent. He can refrain from selling below a given price in the honest or mistaken belief of the value to the public. He may lawfully insist that his purchaser shall not cheapen the product by selling below a stated rate. He cannot prevent that purchaser from passing a good title to another for nothing, but he can close the door on that purchaser's procuring from his manufactory his product after violation of a fair agreement. With this power of protection he may use reasonable means to enforce it. He may join with others in similar need to accomplish by concerted action that which would be too burdensome, expensive or impracticable to achieve alone, and without which concert his power to fix the price of his own product would be barren of good result. To do this reciprocity of action is essential. If another agrees to share the expenses of detecting violations of faith in his purchasers, he must reciprocate. Any reciprocal agreement would be ineffective if the one could freely sell his own product to the breaker of faith with the other. Reciprocity of action rightfully used tends to promote and enlarge the sphere of trade; and every presumption favors such a design where the benefits to the manufacturer increase with the extension of the market.

These defendants are not dealing in the prime necessities of life, like food, fuel or clothing. They may use the simples of nature which are free to all, and which may not be impounded by any form of monopoly endeavor. But the compounds, when protected by secrecy of manufacture or trade mark associations, are inventions valuable to the combiner if the public, critical or credulous, believes in the utility of the product. These products, however, are liver pills may be deemed efficacious by those who use them, but the combinations of ingredients in the particular forms adopted by the remedy discoverer are not yet recognized as staples of health, or even commerce, and the earnest seeker for them must yet buy them under the reasonable requirements of the inventor, and cannot demand the sale under the freedom of competitive offerings.

With the care which should always be used in referring to judicial opinions when the mind is concentrated upon the application of general rules to particular facts—a care needed especially in the analysis of contracts limiting the power of free-trading, because the lines of legal interference are not plainly marked as yet—we may note briefly some pertinent cases, digesting the principles applied.

In Walsh v. Dwight (40 App. Div. 513) it was decided that an agreement to sell at a certain price the manufacturer's soda and other similar goods was not unlawful. Our Court of Appeals decided in Lough v. Outerbridge (143 N. Y. 271) that a common carrier might give privileged rates to some and refuse others. The Supreme Court of the United States held in Anderson v. United States (171 U. S. 604) that an exchange association had the reasonable privilege to adopt resolutions restricting the persons with whom sales or purchases might be made and contracts and rates of employment effected. A combination of insurance companies excluding business intercourse with non-members is not illegal. (Continental Insurance Company v. Board of Fire Underwriters, 67 Fed. Rep. 310, McKenna, C. J.) But a restriction of general freedom to pursue a lawful calling unless a person becomes a member of an association is unlawful. (Curran v. Galen, 152 N. Y. 33.) And agreements to control price and destroy competition in necessities like food or fuel are lawful. (Judd v. Harrington, 139 N. Y. 105; People v. Sheldon, Id. 251; People v. Milk Exchange, 145 id. 267.)

The sacred right of the toiler to earn the means of subsistence for himself and dependents is and always will be recognized; the freedom of competitive purchase of the necessities of life will be maintained; trade and commerce will not be shackled by monopolies designed to extort unnatural prices; but inventive skill, even though applied to medicinal compounds, may yet have protection from outlawry if the inventor reasonably uses his property rights and does not trespass into another's privileges.

I do not find from the complaint the use of unlawful means to execute the lawful agreement. No instance is stated of any watching which interferes with plaintiff's proper business. The committee of the association may not have judicial powers, but any agent may act for an unwieldy association if such action is within the lines of the rules, and no specific deviation prejudicial to plaintiff is averred.

Nor does plaintiff set forth his occasional conformity to the rules of the association as a cause for a rightful demand of the benefits of participation in the privileges of that body. These isolated instances are rather stated by way of confession and avoidance. Plaintiff plants itself firmly on the illegality of the agreement and combination, repudiating their lawfulness and seeking their destruction.

Nor do I deem the privilege of amendment useful. Three years of litigation in this action have presented the original complaint to the scrutiny of counsel and court; the amended complaint states fully the facts relied on, and, as counsel for both sides seem to believe, this case may well be decided upon the facts as stated by plaintiff in its complaint.

Judgment for defendants sustaining demurrer, have been guilty of anything like spying or picketing which calls for the interference of the court. Upon the whole case we do not see that the plaintiff has established any right to an injunction because of any of the facts alleged in the complaint.

The judgment must, therefore, be affirmed, with costs to the respondents.

VAN BRUNT, P. J., PATTERSON, O'BRIEN and McLAUGHLIN, JJ., concurred.

Judgment affirmed, with costs.

GEORGIA DECISION.—Contra.

BROWN et al. v. JACOBS PHARMACY CO. (Supreme Court of Georgia. April 30, 1902.)

Error from superior court, Fulton county; J. H. Lumpkin, Judge.

Action by the Jacobs Pharmacy Company against Brown & Allen and others. Judgment for plaintiff. Defendants bring error. Affirmed.

FISH, J. The record in this case discloses that prior to the institution of the present action, and since then, there existed in the United States three organizations, known, respectively, as the Proprietary Association of America, the National Wholesale Druggists' Association, and the National Association of Retail Druggists. These associations, occupying each toward the others close and intimate relations, had, among other things, the purpose of keeping up the prices of proprietary medicines, drugs, and other articles usually dealt in by those engaged in the drug trade. A local association was formed in Atlanta, known as the Atlanta Retail Druggists' Association. When it was first organized, Joseph Jacobs, secretary and treasurer of the Jacobs Pharmacy Company, the plaintiff in the present case, was a member of it; but at that time it was distinctly understood and agreed among its members that it was to undertake no action with reference to the cutting of prices by dealers in drugs, or to control prices of the same. Afterwards the plaintiff, either by its methods of advertising, or certain things that it did in the conduct of its business, gave offense to the members of this association, and charges were preferred against Jacobs. He then withdrew from the local association. Some of the members of that association were members of one or more of the large associations above referred to. After the retirement of Jacobs, the local concern put in operation a scheme to prevent the pharmacy company from being able to buy goods with which to conduct its business. The main features of that scheme were that the local concern, by circulars, letters, or otherwise, undertook to notify wholesalers and manufacturers throughout the country that the pharmacy company was an aggressive cutter, and to request the persons or concerns addressed not to sell it any more goods; further, to require all salesmen representing the manufacturers or wholesale houses to procure from the local association a card, in order to procure which such salesmen had to sign an agreement not to sell the pharmacy company any goods; and another part of the scheme was to give the manufacturers and wholesalers to understand that, unless they refused to sell the plaintiff any goods, the members of the local association would not buy any more goods from them. In this condition of affairs, the plaintiff brought its equitable petition against the defendants, alleging, in substance, the facts set forth above, and praying for damages for alleged injuries to its business already done, and for an injunction to prevent the defendants from carrying into effect the scheme above outlined. The petition charged that the scheme was an unlawful conspiracy to destroy the plaintiff's business, and it more fully set out the manner in which this scheme was to be effectuated, by setting forth as exhibits, marked "A," "B," and "C," certain letters, etc., by means of which the defendants were seeking to accomplish the alleged unlawful purpose which the plaintiff was seeking to restrain. . . .

The case was heard before Hon. J. H. Lumpkin, Judge of the Atlanta circuit, upon the application for an interlocutory injunction. A considerable amount of evidence was introduced, concerning which it is sufficient to say that the plaintiff established, substantially, the material allegations of its petition. . . . The judge granted the injunction substantially as prayed. After a careful investigation, we are satisfied that he was right in so doing, except in so far as it was made operative against the Lamar-Rankin Drug Company, one of the defendants which was not a member of the local association mentioned above, and against which, therefore, no injunction should have been granted. . . .

A conspiracy has been defined as a combination either to accomplish an unlawful end, or to accomplish a lawful end by unlawful means. . . . That contracts and agreements in general restraint of trade are contrary to public policy and void is a principle so universally recognized that citation of authority is unnecessary to support it. It has been crystallized in section 3668 of the Civil Code of this state, where the expression is that contracts "in general restraint of trade" are contrary to public policy. Differences of opinion arise only when this general principle is to be applied to a particular case. Thus it is suggested, inasmuch as the evidence shows that not all of the druggists of Atlanta are members of the local association, but only about three-fourths of them, that the combination or agreement was not obnoxious to this rule, or the rule declaring agreements or contracts tending to monopoly against public policy, even if it would have been so were all members. We do not think this distinction sound. Nothing is more common than for the courts to declare contracts between only two persons, who by no means control a particular kind of business, void, as contrary to public policy. It is the nature or character and tendency of the agreement which renders it objectionable, whether in fact the parties to it succeed in restraining trade generally, or stifling competition, or not. As to the matter of monopoly, it may also be said that if parties make contracts or agreements seeking to establish a monopoly, and do establish it as far as they can, surely they cannot say that the effort is legal if not completely successful.

... Judge Taft in the circuit court of appeals of the Sixth circuit of the United States, in an able decision in the case of U. S. v. Addystone Pipe and Steel Co., 29 C. C. A. 141, 85 Fed. 271, 46 L. R. A. 122 et seq., reviews the authorities on this subject. Among other things, he says (29 C. C. A. 152, 85 Fed. 283, 46 L. R. A. 131): "Much has been said in regard to the relaxing of the original strictness of the common law in declaring contracts in restraint of trade void, as conditions of civilization and public policy have changed; and the argument drawn therefrom is that the law now recognizes that competition may be so ruinous as to injure the public, and therefore that contracts made with a view to check such ruinous competition and regulate prices, though in restraint of trade, and having no other purpose, will be upheld. We think this conclusion is unwarranted by the authorities, when all of them are considered. * * * The manifest danger in the administration of justice according to so shifting, vague, and indeterminate a standard would seem to be a strong reason against adopting it." After considering a number of authorities, he says (page 160, 29 C. C. A., page 290, 85 Fed., page 136, 46 L. R. A.): "In the foregoing cases the only consideration of the agreement restraining the trade of one party was the agreement of the other to the same effect, and there was no relation of partnership, or of the vendor and vendee, or of employer and employé. Where such relation exists between the parties, as already stated, restraints are usually enforceable, if commensurate only with the reasonable protection of the covenantee in respect to the main transactions affected by the contract. But in recent years even the fact that the contract is one for the sale of property or of business and good will, or for the making of a partnership or a corporation, has not saved it from invalidity, if it could be shown that it was only part of a plan to acquire all the property used in a business by one management, with a view to establishing a monopoly. * * * Upon this review of the law and the authorities, we can have no doubt that the association of the defendants, however reasonable the prices they fixed, however great the competition they had to encounter, and however great the necessity for curbing themselves by joint agreement from committing financial suicide by ill-advised competition, was void at common law, because in restraint of trade, and tending to a monopoly."

This exactly answers one of the arguments advanced in the present case. It is contended that the members of the Atlanta Druggists' Association were not seeking to restrain trade or create a monopoly, but were only seeking to defend themselves against the cutting of prices by the Jacobs Pharmacy Company, and that really they were fighting an effort at monopoly. That 58 druggists in the city of Atlanta should seriously claim to be in danger of a monopoly from 1, which is not shown to have any more capital than any of them, or any more facilities for trade, or to be making any combination, or in fact doing anything to cause the present action on their part, except selling some articles of merchandise at low rates, is a position which cannot be sustained. This is the argument which is almost universally advanced by every monopoly or combination in restraint of trade. If it is sustained by the courts, then the rules of law as to such contracts and agreements might as well be wiped off the statute books. The decision just cited was affirmed by the supreme court of the United States in 1899. . . .

Again some courts have sought to draw a distinction between what they term "necessaries," or "the necessities of life," or "prime necessities," and contracts or agreements with reference to other articles of commerce or merchandise. But this distinction is not well founded. What is at one time a luxury at another is a necessity. The things which were considered sufficient to satisfy the description of necessities a few years ago, would be considered wholly insufficient now, under present conditions of civilization. How useful must a thing become before it enters the catalogue of necessities, so that contracts to restrain trade in regard to it, or to foster a monopoly in it, are void? The unsoundness in principle of such a distinction was treated of by Judge Taft in the Case of Addystone Pipe & Steel Co., already referred to. But if it were sound, it may be of interest to consider some of the articles which have been held of such necessity. In a note to be found in 74 Am. St. Rep. 268, 269, to the case of Harding v. Glucose Co. (Ill. Sup.) 55 N. E. 577, the following are set out as having been held of such necessity as to make a combination in regard to them illegal: Beer, alcohol, distilling products, preserves, gas pipes, powder, harrows, capsules, envelopes, wire cloth, bluestone, cigarettes, etc. Now, if these articles are to be ranked as necessities, within the rule, it might as well be said at once that the rule applies to articles of merchandise generally.

The next position of the defendants, and the one which, on first presentation, seems to be their strongest defense on this part of the case, is that at common law contracts or agreements in general or unreasonable restraint of trade were merely void and unenforceable; that either party could defend against an action based on them, but that they were not illegal, in such sense as to give a right of action to third parties. While there may be conflict among the authorities, it seems to us that some confusion might have been avoided by bearing in mind the distinction between a contract or agreement merely in restraint of trade as between the parties, and a combination or contract to stifle competition, or a conspiracy to ruin a competitor. Thus, if one of two rival merchants, not purchasing the business of the other, contracted with him that the latter should cease business, and never enter mercantile pursuits at any time or place, the contract would be in general restraint of trade, and void, and could not be enforced. But it alone would not give a right of action to third parties; and although the retiring from business of one of the merchants might lessen facilities for trading, and incidentally cause inconvenience, or even put it in the power of the other to raise his prices, the contract, as such, would merely be void. But on the other hand, suppose that two merchants should agree that one should retire from business, and that no other person should open a similar business, and, if he did so, that the two would drive away his customers, or break up his business by violence, threats, or like means; it would get beyond the domain of a mere nonenforceable contract, into the domain of a conspiracy. Or suppose that a number of merchants should agree to fix the price of certain goods, and not to sell below that price; if there were no statute on the subject, and the case rested on the common law, the agreement would simply be nonenforceable; but if they went further, and agreed that, if any other merchant sold at a less price, they would force him to their terms, or drive away those dealing with him, by violence, threats, or boycotting, it would cease to be a mere nonenforceable contract, and if, in its execution, damages proximately resulted to such other merchant, he would have a right of action. For two or more people to make an agreement which neither can enforce at law against the other is one thing; but to further agree, and under that agreement proceed to force another who is no party to it, against his will, to be governed by it, under penalty of financial ruin by driving off his customers, or the like, is, to use a favorite expression of Former Chief Justice Warner, "another and quite a different thing." There is no inherent wrong in the mere act of firing a pistol in a place where not prohibited by law, but it may become very wrong if it is fired at the person or property of another, and may give a right of action to him for resulting injury. A combination, like a revolver, should not be aimed maliciously or with a reckless disregard of the rights of others.

Courts and text writers have not infrequently asserted that, as a general rule, a conspiracy cannot be made the subject of a civil action unless something is done which, without the conspiracy, would give a right of action. But if this be advanced as a rule of universal application, it does not stand unchallenged. In Bailey v. Association (Tenn.; 1899) 52 S. W. 853, 857, 46 L. R. A. 561, it is said: "It is entirely true, as in effect observed in McCauley v. Tierney, 19 R. I. 255, 33 Atl. 1, 37 L. R. A. 455, 61 Am. St. Rep. 770, and in Manufacturing Co. v. Hollis, 54 Minn. 223, 55 N. W. 1119, 21 L. R. A. 337, 40 Am. St. Rep. 319, that, in the first instance, each member of the association had a perfect legal right to buy material and supplies exclusively from any dealer or dealers he might choose, and each dealer had an equal right to select members for his customers, and to confine his sales to them only. These were inherent rights, which no competitor was authorized to dispute, no court empowered to control or curtail. But in our opinion, it does not follow from this undoubted freedom of individual member and individual dealer that all of the members may, as ruled in those cases, lawfully enter into a general and unlimited agreement, in the form of by-laws, that they and all of them will make their purchases from only sively. The premise does not justify the conclusion. The individual right is radically different from the combined action. The combination had hurtful powers and influences not possessed by the individual. It threatens and impairs rivalry in trade, covets control in prices, seeks and obtains its own advancement at the expense and in the oppression of the public. The difference, in legal contemplation, between individual rights and combined action in trade, is seen in numerous cases. Any one of several commercial firms engaged in the sale of India cotton bagging had the right to suspend its sale for any time it saw fit. Yet an agreement between all of them to make no sales for three months without the consent of the majority 'was palpably and unequivocally a combination in restraint of trade.' . . . Any one of several companies had the right to sell the whole or only a part of its output to only such persons, in only such territory, and at only such prices as it pleased, yet it was inimicable [inimical] to the interests of the public, and unlawful for them to combine and agree that those matters should be determined and controlled by an agency jointly created for that purpose. . . . The same was held to be true as to the individual company and the combined company, respectively, in the Sugar Trust Case (Cir. Ct.) 3 N. Y. Supp. 401, and (Sup.) 7 N. Y. Supp. 406. So one railroad company has the unquestioned right to charge reasonable rates for transportation, but it is not lawful for competing companies to mutually bind themselves to maintain those rates. . . . Individual boat proprietors may establish rules and rates for the conduct of their separate business, but the law does not allow them to form a combination, and by mutual agreement establish joint rules and rates. . . . One grain dealer is perfectly free to decide for himself what price he will offer for grain, but he is not allowed to enter into an agreement with the other grain dealers of his town, and thereby fix the price that all of them shall offer. . . . Many other cases to the same effect in principle might easily be cited, were their citation deemed necessary."

Unquestionably, any person who does not occupy a public or quasi public position, like public officials, railroad companies, etc., or whose property has not become impressed with any public or quasi public use (Munn v. Illinois [1876] 94 U. S. 113, 24 L. Ed. 77), may ordinarily deal with any other person at his option. It may also be conceded, at least for the sake of the argument, that ordinarily a number of persons may, in concert, decline to sell or to buy from another. Yet the facts of the present case go much further than that. Here there was a combination not merely agreeing not to deal with the plaintiff, but undertaking also to drive off and prevent others from dealing with it, and seeking to ruin its business by destroying its power to purchase goods unless it should submit to regulate its business or fix its prices as they desired. If the defendants, as individuals, or in any way, claim to have the right to fix the prices at which they will sell, how can they claim that plaintiff has no such right as to its own business? In Boutwell v. Marr, that the view above referred to "would preclude a reliance upon an unlawful purpose, and require that the means used should be illegal. The agreeing together to effect an illegal purpose being itself illegal, it might seem that any act done in furtherance of the agreement, and resulting in damage, even though itself not a violation of right, would sustain a recovery. * * * If it be true, as a general proposition, that several may lawfully unite in doing to another's injury, even for the accomplishment of an unlawful purpose, whatever each has a right to do individually, it by no means follows that the combination may not be so brought about as to make its united action an unlawful means." . . .

Certain portions of the annual address (in 1899) of the president of the National Association of Retail Druggists, as published in the American Druggist and Pharmaceutical Record, were introduced in evidence, from which it appears that, in discussing the power of combination as compared with individual effort, he said: "Nature, too, forgets the individual always. To the species alone it is kind. In the general uplifting alone does it glory. So must it be with man. Man is of nature and must follow nature's bent. This tendency to associate, to unite, to combine, everywhere present, strangely active, is as resistless as is yonder great Niagara. Attempt to oppose it, and it spreads far and wide,—spreads with the opposing force, all the while accumulating power, until everything, even the mightiest, is swept before its immensity." And yet, when such mighty power, like a torrent, is turned upon an individual who declines to join or to do the bidding of those who direct the force and sell at prices dictated by them, for the purpose of crushing him and driving off those who would deal with him, under the threat that otherwise they will also be drowned in the resistless Niagara, shall courts of justice find no remedy? To protect the individual against encroachments upon his rights by greater power is one of the most sacred duties of courts. If there is any analogy between a combination of druggists to raise and maintain prices, and a biological species, the Darwinian theory is hardly a rule for a court in administering equity.

In contrast with this idea, the following vigorous language of Mr. Justice Bradley in the Slaughter House Cases, 16 Wall. 116, 21 L. Ed. 394, may be quoted: "For the liberty, preservation, exercise, and enjoyment of these rights [life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness], the individual citizen, as a necessity, must be left free to adopt such calling, profession, or trade as may seem to him most conducive to that end. Without this right he cannot be a freeman. This right to choose one's calling is an essential part of that liberty which it is the object of the government to protect, and a calling, when chosen, is a man's property and right. Liberty and property are not protected where these rights are arbitrarily assailed." This occurs in a dissenting opinion, it is true; but there was no difference among the members of the court as to the fact that a man's business is his property, the difference being as to the application of certain amendments of the constitution of the United States.

malicious, the person injured has a right of action. Indeed, it may be said that malicious injury to the business of another has long been held actionable. See Barr v. Trades Council, 53 N. J. Eq. 115, 116, 30 Atl. 881, and citations. In the case of Steamship Co. v. McGregor, 23 Q. B. Div. 608,—a case which will be referred to more fully presently,—Lord Justice Bowen said: "Now, intentionally to do that which is calculated in the ordinary course of events to damage, and which does in fact damage, another in that other person's property or trade, is actionable, if done without just cause or excuse. Such intentional action, when done without just cause or excuse, is what the law calls a 'malicious wrong'."

. . . "The law, as a rule, presumes that a person intends the natural result of his acts, and this is true with reference to civil as well as criminal acts." Courts will look at the real substance of things, and do not stop at the mere form of words that may be employed.

We will now refer to some authorities cited by defendants. A leading case, in modern times, is the English case of Steamship Co. v. McGregor, supra. It may not be amiss to give briefly its history. It was first heard on application for injunction before Lord Chief Justice Coleridge and Lord Justice Fry in 1885. They held that a confederation or conspiracy by an association of shipowners which was calculated to have, and had, the effect of driving the ships of other merchants or owners, and those of plaintiffs in particular, out of a certain line of trade, even though the immediate and avowed objects were not to injure the plaintiffs, but to secure to the conspirators themselves a monopoly of the carrying trade between certain foreign ports and England, was, or might be, an indictable offense, and therefore actionable, if private and particular damage could be shown. But under the facts disclosed on that hearing, injunction ad interim was denied. 15 Q. B. Div. 476. The case was afterward heard by Lord Chief Justice Coleridge without a jury, and he rendered judgment for the defendants, holding that the evidence failed to show an actionable conspiracy, as alleged, and that it showed only sharp competition in business, including holding out inducements by rebates, advantages, etc., to those who would deal with defendants exclusively. (1888) 21 Q. B. Div. 544. He stated, however, that he had long doubted and hesitated in reaching this conclusion. In the court of appeal the case was heard before Lord Esher, master of the rolls, and Bowen and Fry, L. JJ. Lord Esher was of opinion that the appeal should be allowed, but was overruled by the other two justices. (1889) 23 Q. B. Div. 598, 601. In the course of the opinion of Fry, L. J., which has been frequently cited in other cases, he says: "The ancient common law of this country, and the statutes with reference to the acts known as 'badgering,' 'forestalling,' 'regrating,' and 'engrossing,' indicated the mind of the legislature and of the judges that certain large operations in goods which interfered with the more ordinary course of trade were injurious to the public. They were held criminal accordingly. But early in the reign of George III. the mind of the legislature showed symptoms of change repealed (12 Geo. III, c. 71), and the common law was left to its unaided operations. This repealing statute contains in the preamble the statement that it had been found by experience that the restraint laid by several statutes upon dealing in corn, meal, flour, cattle, and sundry other sorts of victuals, by preventing a free trade in the commodities, had a tendency to discourage the growth and enhance the price of the same. This statement is very noteworthy. It contains a confession of failure in the past; the indication of a new policy for the future. This new policy has been more clearly declared and acted upon in the present reign; for the legislature has, by 7 & 8 Vict. c. 24, altered the common law by utterly abolishing the several offenses of badgering, forestalling, and regrating." He also says in reference to the statutes of 1871 and 1875, enlarging the power of combination among workmen and masters, is indicative of public policy in England at the time of the decision. We will presently compare this with the public policy of this state. The majority of the court of appeal found, as matter of fact, that the defendants were not engaged in a conspiracy or unlawful combination, and were not actuated by malice or ill will toward plaintiff, and did not aim at any general injury to plaintiff's trade,—the object being simply to divert the trade from plaintiff to defendants,—and that the damage to be inflicted was to be strictly limited by the gain which defendants desired to win for themselves; in other words, that it was a case of competition only. Of course, the loss which a rival may suffer from legitimate competition does not give a right of action. The case was carried to the house of lords, and the judgment of the majority was affirmed. (1892) 61 Law J. Q. B. 295; (1892) App. Cas. 25. Very full extracts from these decisions are made in 1 Eddy, Comb'ns, § 249. A careful consideration of the various decisions in this case will show that, in substance, it only held that where competition was lawful, even if sharp, and the acts complained of were adopted for the advancement of the defendants' own trade, there was no actionable conspiracy, although plaintiff may have sustained loss thereby. If this decision should be deemed adverse to the views here presented, it may be well to contrast the public policy of this state with that mentioned by Fry, L. J. Engrossing, forestalling, and regrating still stand in our Code as criminal offenses, and the presiding judge is required to give the law in reference to these offenses specially in charge of the grand jury at each term of court. See Pen. Code, §§ 662, 846. Our state constitution declares that the legislature "shall have no power to authorize any corporation * * * to make any contract, or agreement whatever, with any such corporation [i. e., other corporations], which may have the effect, or be intended to have the effect to defeat or lessen competition in their respective businesses or to encourage monopoly; and all such contracts and agreements shall be illegal and void." . . . As has been shown above, in the light of the evidence, it is futile for these defendants to claim that they were merely resisting an attack on the part of the plaintiff.

The following are some of the cases relied on by the defendants: . . . Mr. Freeman, in his note to Harding v. Glucose Co. (Ill. Sup.) 74 Am. St. Rep. 244 (s. c. 55 N. E. 577), says: "Massachusetts seems also to have gone astray on the question of illegal combinations, * * * having confused the doctrine relating to contracts in restraint of trade and the doctrine against restrictions upon competition." Printing Co. v. Howell (1894) 26 Or. 527, 38 Pac. 547, 28 L. R. A. 464, 46 Am. St. Rep. 640, might be quoted as an authority for the plaintiff, except as to the necessity for injunction. The court says (38 Pac. 553, 28 L. R. A. 474): "While conspiracy in itself is not an indictable offense under our law, all these authorities show conclusively that such a combination for the purpose of doing injury to the public or to individuals is per se wrongful. Civil consequences are not changed by reason of the fact that the combination is not made a statutory offense." . . . Macaulay v. Tierney (R. I. 1895) 33 Atl. 1, 37 L. R. A. 455, 61 Am. St. Rep. 770, is another case relied on by defendants. If this decision is sound, it can only be on the idea that the defendants were seeking to obtain trade for themselves by saying in effect: "If you deal with us, we will deal with you. If you deal with others, we will withdraw our patronage." Whether such an agreement was legally enforceable need not be discussed. There was no effort to compel or coerce others not members to be bound by their prices or views. If the decision in Manufacturing Co. v. Hollis, 54 Minn. 223, 55 N. W. 1119, 21 L. R. A. 337, 40 Am. St. Rep. 319, can be sustained, it must be on the same idea. No compulsory measures seem to have been used to enforce obedience on members; nor does there appear to have been any effort to drive away from plaintiff others than those voluntary acting together in concert, and no pressure on outsiders to maintain prices or incur ruin. In truth, however, some of what was said in that decision is unsound, and not in accord with cases already cited. It has been considerably criticized. . . . Park & Sons Co. v. National Wholesale Druggists' Ass'n, supra (supreme court of New York, 1900) is cited. We must leave to the honorable courts of that state to reconcile that decision with the principle ruled in Park & Sons Co. v. National Wholesale Druggists' Ass'n (Sup.) 50 N. Y. Supp. 1064, where, as quoted in 1 Eddy, Comb'ns, § 330, p. 213, it was held: "It is in restraint of trade and unlawful for a manufacturer to become a party to a combination which shall prevent any of his customers from obtaining other goods of other manufacturers because those customers violate the agreement with him in respect to the cutting of prices;" and also with People v. Sheldon, supra. It seems, too, that in some cases in New York and elsewhere an idea has arisen of determining how much competition is desirable, and apparently of holding that extreme competition is undesirable, and a combination to meet it is not unlawful. The fallacy of such a standard is clearly shown by Judge Taft in U. S. v. Addystone Pipe & Steel Co., supra, and by Mr. Freeman in his note to Harding v. Glucose Co., supra.

Finally, was the plaintiff entitled to an injunction? The usual grounds for the grant of an injunction in such cases are (1) an injury which threatens irreparable damage; or (2) a continuing injury, when the legal remedy therefor may involve a multiplicity of suits. "The difficulty of satisfactorily estimating damages to business is frequently recognized in applying those principles to suits relating to good will, trade-marks, patent rights, and copyrights. 3 Pom. Eq. Jur. §§ 1352, 1354." Barr v. Trades Council, 53 N. J. Eq. 126, 30 Atl. 881 et seq., and authorities cited. Mr. Eddy says: "An injury is irreparable when the damage cannot be measured by any known pecuniary standard. The destruction of, or even injury to, a growing business, cannot very well be measured in damages, since it is difficult, if not impossible, to lay down any rule whereby a jury can definitely ascertain the damages inflicted. The owner of the business himself probably could not estimate his loss, and yet the loss would be beyond dispute." . . . Several of the cases already cited arose upon applications for injunction, and apply to this feature of the case.

. . . The learned judge did not err in holding that the defendants who are members of the Atlanta Druggists' Association, in the name of such association or otherwise, should be enjoined from sending out to wholesale druggists or proprietors of proprietary medicines, through the mails, or delivering them to them otherwise, the letter and agreement set out in Exhibits A and B to plaintiff's petition, or seeking to cause the latter to be signed by means of the letter set out in Exhibit A, or other like means, or sending out any letter, circular, or agreement of similar character, purpose, directly or indirectly, to wholesalers, jobbers, or proprietors; and from issuing to salesmen, and causing to be signed, the card agreement attached to the petition as Exhibit C, or any card or agreement of similar import or purpose; and from in any manner threatening or seeking to intimidate wholesalers or proprietors, and so prevent them from selling to plaintiff, as a cutter or aggressive cutter; and from conspiring and from seeking to prevent wholesale or other druggists from dealing with or selling to plaintiff by direct or indirect threats of cutting off their means of obtaining goods or merchandise, or of causing such means to be cut off, or of causing them injury or loss of custom if they should deal with or supply the plaintiff; and from taking part in or carrying out any conspiracy or combination for that purpose; and from designating or pointing out the plaintiff to other druggists' associations or their representatives as an aggressive cutter; and from writing or sending through the mails any card, circular, letter, or other written or printed communication conveying or intended to convey to proprietors or wholesalers throughout the United States that plaintiff is an aggressive cutter, and under the ban of the local organization, or of similar import.

. . . Certain assignments of error in the bill of exceptions complain, in effect, that the injunction was too broad, because it was operative upon the individual members of the association to which the defendants belonged, and therefore had the effect of cutting them off from the exercise of individual rights which it was their privilege to exercise, provided there was no unlawful conspiracy. The reply to this is that the judge found there was a conspiracy. He could not enjoin the combination in the abstract, but, to render any effective protection to the plaintiff, was obliged to enjoin the individual members of the association from doing the unlawful acts which they had conspired to do, and were actually doing when the petition was filed. It was the only possible way in which to make the writ of injunction of any avail. The defendants could not, fresh from the conspiracy, and inspired by the purposes thereof, fail to injure the plaintiff, if allowed to continue their unlawful acts under the guise of doing so upon their individual responsibility.

Judgment affirmed, with direction. All the justices concurring, except Lewis, J., absent on account of sickness.

KIPLING LOSES HIS SUIT AGAINST THE PUTNAMs.

THE United States Circuit Court of Appeals on January 9 handed down a decision sustaining the lower court in the action brought by Rudyard Kipling against G. P. Putnam's Sons. Judges Wallace, Townsend and Coxe agreed with Judge Lacombe's decision that there was not a scintilla of evidence in the case on which the plaintiff was entitled to go to the jury. Judge Lacombe directed a verdict for the defendants on this account. The Appellate Court has now emphatically affirmed this decision.

Judge Coxe wrote the opinion of the court. In the course of his opinion he said: "There is no matter published in the Brushwood edition, secured by the plaintiff under the copyright laws of the United States, which was not purchased by the defendants, of publishers duly authorized by the plaintiff to sell.

. . . That the defendants, having purchased unbound copyrighted volumes, were at liberty, so far as the copyright statute is concerned, to bind and re-sell them, is a well-recognized principle of law. . . . We are unable to find any provision in the agreement with the plaintiff's publishers which prohibits the sale of the copyrighted sheets to the defendants, but, if such a provision were present, the plaintiff's remedy would be an action against the publishers for breach of contract.

"Whether such an action could be maintained by one who had participated in the profits of the sales is a question which would probably cause the pleader many moments of anxious thought."

Of the "Ken of Kipling" Judge Coxe says: "The defendants had an absolute right to publish it in any form they saw fit. They were also at liberty to make and publish an index of the matter contained in their volumes, even though the index, as it necessarily must, contained words and phrases found in the text." . . .

"The elephant's head was not registered as a trade-mark until long after the commencement of this action and there is no evidence that it was ever so used by the plaintiff until placed upon the Outward Bound edition. . . .

"We think there can be no doubt that the defendants had an unquestionable legal right to sell all the plaintiff's writings contained in the Brushwood edition. It is well-nigh impossible to suppose that any one intending to purchase the Outward Bound edition could be induced to purchase the Brushwood instead."

"There is no proof that any one was deceived. The two editions differed in almost all essential features. The volumes are unlike in size, shape, binding, color, arrangement and typography.

"In their advertisement the aim of the defendants was not to make the public believe that their edition was the same as the Outward Bound edition, but that it was more complete than that or any other edition. . . .

"The conduct of the defendants was that of fair-minded competitors, who had no purpose to misrepresent their own edition as the Outward Bound edition. They showed a disposition to remove all grounds of complaint, both real and imaginary, and, upon being informed of them, promptly discontinued all objectionable features of which the plaintiff had the least right to complain. . . .

"The Swastika edition, published in the spring of 1899, was properly received in evidence. As before stated, this was an edition of 20,000 sets, 'authorized' by the plaintiff, and made up precisely as the Brushwood was made up, by purchasing unbound sheets from the authorized publishers. On each of the 300,000 volumes were the words Author's edition, but there was no elephant's head. On the Swastika boxes, containing the volumes, are the words, 'This edition sold only in sets.'

"It was competent to show that after the publication of the Outward Bound edition the plaintiff's conduct regarding that edition had been in many respects identical with the defendants' conduct, of which he complained.

"The Swastika edition shows the plaintiff's acts to be in conflict with the law of unfair competition as interpreted by his counsel, and wholly inconsistent with the plea of damages advanced in his behalf.

"The judgment is affirmed."

After the issue of the original trial, it was alleged on the part of the plaintiff, that the case had been dismissed on a technicality, and this view was very carefully emphasized by him to the public, in this country and in England. To counteract this impression, in view of their recent complete vindication in the Court of Appeals, the following letter has been addressed to the editor of The Publishers' Circular, of London:

NEW YORK, January 13, 1903.

DEAR SIR: The United States Circuit Court of Appeals has confirmed the decision arrived at by the lower court in the suit brought, three years back, by Rudyard Kipling against G. P. Putnam's Sons. On the original trial, Judge Lacombe decided that there was no ground for the action, and, refusing to permit the case to go to the jury, dismissed the complaint.

The matter of which Mr. Kipling complained was the presentation for sale by the retail department of G. P. Putnam's Sons of one hundred sets of Kipling's works, which sets had been made up in a uniform binding, from supplies of the authorized editions of Kipling's various writings, purchased for the purpose, in sheets, from the four or five publishers who had charge of the sale of these writings for the United States. There was no "publication" of the sets so made up, in the sense in which the term "publication" is understood either in the courts or in the booktrade. The volumes bore neither on their title-pages nor on their covers the name of Putnam's. The only imprints on the title-page were those of Kipling's authorized American publishers.

The purpose of the preparation of these sets was to meet a demand on the part of retail buyers for a set of Kipling's writings in uniform covers. The only set of Kipling that was at that time available in the market had been prepared for sale by subscription and was not available for purchase through the booksellers. The Putnam set was sold at a higher price, and as well on this ground as because of the small number of copies available for sale, it could not in any way interfere with the sales of this subscription set. It was to be assumed that the author had received his proper royalty on these copies of his books sold to the Putnams by his authorized publishers. Of certain volumes of Kipling's works unauthorized American editions could have been secured at a much lower cost if the Putnams had been willing to handle such editions. To the set thus arranged was added, for the convenience of readers, a general index, the first that had as yet been produced for Kipling's writings.

The Putnams had naturally no expectation that the author could find in the sale, through their retail shop, of these few copies of such a set, any ground for dissatisfaction. There would, of course, have been no difficulty if he did find cause for objection in meeting any suggestion that Mr. Kipling might have been prepared to submit concerning the form in which the material should be arranged or concerning the wording of the description or announcement of the set. An application made direct to the booksellers for the correction of any detail that gave ground for annoyance to the author would have been the natural and courteous method of proceeding.

It might further be held that there was some special reason for considerate action in the case of a complaint against this particular firm. If it had not been for the Copyright Act of 1891, Mr. Kipling would have had no standing in any United States Court and would have had very much smaller receipts from his American market. This copyright legislation in behalf of European authors had been brought about chiefly through the efforts of the Publishers' Copyright League, and in the work of this League the senior member of G. P. Putnam's Sons was known to have taken a leading part, a service for which he had received due recognition from English authors.

The Putnams were advised by their counsel that there could be no possible legal ground for Mr. Kipling's complaint. This counsel was the Hon. George L. Rives, formerly Secretary of State, and now Corporation Counsel of the City of New York. His firm, Olin & Rives, are counsel for the Copyright League and for the Publishers' Association. This conclusion of their scholarly counsel has been very conclusively upheld by the courts. The Putnams were, however, not willing to rest their defense on purely technical grounds. It was a cause to them of very great regret that they had, quite unwillingly, caused annoyance to the author, a regret that not even the needless and discourteous haste of his legal proceedings could entirely dissipate.

Their counsel was instructed to offer to meet any suggestions that Mr. Kipling might have to submit which might not involve the sacrifice of the value of the books, rightfully purchased from the author's selling agents. Mr. Rives stated, on behalf of his clients, to Mr. Kipling's representatives that, entirely without regard to their technical rights, they were anxious to meet Mr. Kipling's wishes. The reply to this offer was that Mr. Kipling would be satisfied with nothing less than "substantial damages." It was, of course, impossible under the circumstances for the Putnams to make any such acknowledgment of wrong doing as would have been indicated by the payment of any damages whatsoever or by the sacrifice of the amount paid by them for the books. It is evident that at this stage of the matter and, in fact, through the case, Mr. Kipling was very badly advised by his counsel. A friendly consideration of the frank proposition submitted by the Putnams, would have saved him from some futile expenditure of money and would also have prevented him from doing the material injustice that his suit has caused to publishers whose house, through the three quarters of a century of its existence, has been among the most active of the supporters of the just claims of the producers of the world's literature.

Respectfully,

GEORGE HAVEN PUTNAM.

STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE DINNER.

THE STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE dinner, given on the evening of January 14 in the "Red Room" of Delmonico's, New York, was attended by upwards of one hundred members and their guests, and was one of the most successful of the many enjoyable dinners given by the Board, reflecting great credit upon the committee having charge of the entertainment.

After the coffee and cigars had been served, the president, Henry C. Bainbridge, claimed the attention of the company while he read the following:

HISTORY OF THE STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE.

... I can remember hearing my father talk about the proposed organization of a Stationers' Board of Trade, some time before it was started. He was deeply interested in the subject, and, with Mr. Willy Wallach and others, devoted much time to promoting it. By reference to the minute book I see that the first meeting for organization was held on October 7, 1875. The place is not given, but I believe it was in a lawyer's office on Broadway near Fulton Street.* The meeting was called to order, and Mr. Wallach was elected chairman, and Mr. Charles Harris Phelps, secretary. I will read an extract from the minutes:

"Mr. Andrew Geyer stated that the object of the meeting was the organization of a Stationers' Board of Trade.

"Mr. C. T. Bainbridge offered a resolution that it was expedient to organize such a Board. Mr. Phelps on request of Mr. Ivan Von Auw, read draft of proposed scheme, and same was adopted.

"Chairman Wallach appointed Messrs. Wm. I. Martin, Woodman and Von Auw, a committee to nominate a Board of Managers. Messrs. Willy Wallach, Chas. T. Bainbridge, Benj. Lawrence, Melvin Hard, Geo. S. Pease, Samuel Raynor, W. T. Pratt, Theo. V. Smith and Andrew Dougherty were nominated and elected."

This Board was truly a representative one. All these have passed away excepting Theo. V. Smith, who I believe is a stationer.

The minutes contain a list of the members, but they are not in the order in which they joined, and I cannot find that there is a list of all the men who attended the first meetings, nor does this list include all the firms who joined during the first two years. An attempt was made to make a list signed with the firm signature of each member, but for some reason this was not kept up. The following is the list as far as it went: Porter & Bainbridge, Boorum & Pease, Willy Wallach, Melvin Hard & Son, J. C. Smith & Sons, Samuel Raynor & Co., Slote, Woodman & Co., A. S. Barnes & Co., Koch Sons & Co., Andrew King & Co., The Esterbrook Steel Pen Mfg. Co., Liebenroth, Von Auw & Co., S. A. Tower & Co., John Foley, Keuffel & Esser, Rubens & Co., Henry Bainbridge & Co., B. & P. Lawrence, Henry Levy & Son, Wm. P. Dane, Wm. Everdell's Sons, Baker, Pratt & Co., Nic. Muller's Sons, Alexander Agar, Anderson & Cameron, J. F. Anderson, Jr. & Co., J. Q. Preble & Co., Thaddeus Davids Co., Kiggins & Tooker Co., McLoughlin Bros. & Co., Henry A. Smith, Wm. H. Mairs & Co., Powers Paper Co., W. C. Davey & Co., E. P. Dutton & Co., McFeeters & Co., Union Envelope and Paper Co., Valley Paper Co., and Agawam Paper Co. Thirteen of these firms are still using the old sign; eight have worthy successors; some are out of existence and a few I cannot speak for.

Frequent meetings of the Board of Managers were held during the fall of 1875. The business transacted consisted in electing new members, which seems to have been quickly done, and in adopting clause after clause of the proposed Constitution, every blessed one of which was amended several times. Wm. I. Martin seems to have been the leading spirit in these changes, as the minutes show that at nearly every meeting he came with a few amendments up his sleeve. ...

At the meeting of October 12, 1875, the Board of Managers elected their first officers, as follows: Willy Wallach, president; Ivan Von Auw, vice-president; Wm. Irwin Martin, treasurer. Samuel Raynor and Andrew Dougherty having resigned from the board, and Mr. Wallach having been elected president, the vacancies on the Board were filled by the election of John F. Andreson, Jr., Alfred C. Barnes and John George Bainbridge.

About this time the question of the appointment of a permanent secretary came up, and the honor seems to have been sought after with much strenuousness. J. Kent, Andrew Geyer and N. R. Monachesi filed applications for the position. Each had strong backing, but neither of them landed, as the question was referred to the Finance Committee, and this acted upon it later. At the meeting of December 13 was read the resignation from the Board of Benjamin Lawrence, who was one of the Finance Committee, and resolutions were passed regretting the causes which led to his action, namely, the failure of one of the largest and most respected wholesale stationery firms in the country at that time. While he never regained the position in the trade which he once occupied, he continued in business in New York and died about three years ago. ... H. C. Lamport was elected a member of the Board at this meeting.

The meeting of June 5 was important in some respects. The subject of incorporation was discussed. Six members were elected, Andrew Geyer was appointed the first secretary, and it was proposed to hold an annual dinner, a practice which was kept up for several years, and then for several years was neglected. This is the fourth dinner given since you elected me your president, and I hope that my successor, whoever he may be, will be as strong an advocate of Board dinners as I have been.

The Dinner Committee of 1876 seems to have had considerable trouble to get the affair started. Their first report was to the effect that while they deemed it advisable to give a dinner, they could not get the Astor House. They did not say what they wanted it for; I presume Mr. Astor wished to keep it. The subject dragged along until April, when the committee reported that they had made arrangements with the Grand Central Hotel for May 11, 1876. The price of tickets was placed at $2, and I fear the recollection of the price of this dinner deter some of our old members from paying present rates.

This was the first public dinner that I ever attended, and I remember some features of it very distinctly. There was a goodly number of the representative men of our trade there, and all, or nearly all, in business suits. . . . This dinner was said to have been a success, and the report of it printed in the American Stationer was adopted as the report of the Dinner Committee.

A feature of the meeting of May 24, 1876, was the appointment of a committee to meet with similar committees from other organizations to take concerted action to secure from hotel proprietors a uniform rate of $2.50 per day for travelling salesmen. There is no record that they met with any large degree of success, and if they did it was not permanent.

The first annual meeting of the Board of Managers was held at No. 128 Broadway. Mr. Phelps acted as secretary, and failed to record the date, except that it was 1876. It was no better attended than are our meetings now, only seven votes being cast. I presume the reason for the small attendance then was the same as now—the confidence the members have in the ability of those who do attend to elect the officers they want.

At the meeting of December 13, 1876, the Finance Committee reported on their efforts to find permanent office room. From the minutes of this meeting it appears that while Mr. Geyer was secretary of The Stationers' Board of Trade, without salary, the Finance Committee considered it unnecessary to appoint a secretary to the Board of Managers, and advised the appointment of Charles H. Hunter to that position, expecting him to devote his entire time to the Board, his salary to depend upon circumstances.

That Mr. Hunter laid the foundation of this organization is beyond question. Much that he did at that time is still in evidence, and the systems which he inaugurated in the office have been changed but very little, if at all. He took hold when there was little to show for the year's work. The receipts of the office from all sources for the first year were $1401 and the expenditures $1261.21, leaving a balance of $139.79. Permanent rooms had been hired at No. 133 Nassau Street, and the members got to work bringing in new members. Mr. Hunter seems to have put considerable ginger into the Board of Managers at every meeting; for several months propositions were received, in some months as many as twenty. I wish I knew where to buy some of Hunter's ginger, I would present a bottle to each of our present Board of Trustees.

In April, 1877, there was some discussion about changing the name of the organization. What the proposed change was the minutes do not say, but I believe somebody proposed to work in the word book or booksellers in some way. The committee appointed to consider the matter reported that they considered it inexpedient to make any change in the name at that time. It might be well to bring that subject up again. Many of our most loyal members are booksellers and publishers, and if changing the name of our organization by incorporating with it some suggestion of their trade would bring us into closer relations with them, and make them feel that they would be more a part of us, I say, do it. . . . I should like to see more of the bookmen attend our dinners, and see them come to our rooms and use the office more than they do. Much that they accomplish now through separate organizations I think could be done through our office. We have a room for meetings, etc., a well-equipped office, and an efficient office force. We are organized for mutual help, and any branch of any of the trades associated with us that have matters peculiar to their own line, which they wish to discuss or act upon in any way, are welcome to use our rooms and command every assistance our office affords.

Nearly all the men who were identified with this organization at its birth have passed away. John F. Anderson, Jr., Ivan Von Auw, Theodore V. Smith and Andrew Geyer, are the only ones left, so far as I know. Those who have gone we shall many of us remember to the end of our days—Wallach, Pease, Dougherty, Lawrence, Henry, John and Charles T. Bainbridge, Lamport, Melvin Hard, Boorum, Daniel Slot, Will Horn, Alex. Agar, Geo. Davids, Bernhard Illfelder and Mr. Liebenroth and the others. There are probably just as good men left in our trade; but who can name a like number who stir up the same feelings that these men do in our hearts! These worthy men all gave something to make this organization what it is to-day. Those of us who are now in harness think we are doing more to-day than ever before. We ask you to do your part to keep it running; somebody must keep working to keep up the membership. The Board of Trustees devote a large share of their time in directing the policy of the office. We have no fund from which to pay any one for soliciting subscribers, and we want you, if you are getting good service, to say so to some one in your trade, and influence them to apply for membership.

Our present secretary was a clerk in the office under Mr. Hunter, and should know his business. We have occupied one set of offices for over twenty years. We have a well-organized office force with a pay roll of about $600 per month.

A Board of eighteen trustees* direct the policy of the office, giving their time to the service for the general good. We have a carefully-selected list of correspondents all over the country with first-class facilities for collecting information and claims here and abroad. The cost of doing this work is practically divided pro rata among the membership, and the service rendered cannot be duplicated by any organization which is run for a profit.

I have wandered somewhat from the line of thought on which I started, but I have told you something about how the Board started, and it is only natural that I should drift into a sort of "missionary" talk, and try and convert some sinner who is hungry for commercial reports, and who has trouble to collect claims, to join The Stationers' Board of Trade.

The following is a list of the presidents and secretaries of the Board since its organization:

Willy Wallach.....	1875-1882..	Chas. H. Hunter.
Geo. L. Pease.....	1882-1885..	H. L. Boorum.
		Chas. H. Hunter
Wm. I. Martin.....	1885-1887..	Chas. H. Leeds.

Henry C. Bainbridge.	1896-	Wm. W. Davis.
		E. H. Loveless.

The following guests then addressed the gathering: The Rev. Dr. J. M. Buckley, editor of The Christian Advocate, representative of the oldest printing concern in New York City—the Methodist Book Concern; A. E. Pearsall, who favored the company with song and reading that were uproariously applauded; James Logan, of Worcester, Mass., who made the best and most impressive speech of the evening, taking for his topic the application of economics to business, and giving sound philosophic advice to the young men present and helpful suggestions to their seniors; the Rev. George Maddock, chaplain of the State Prison at Trenton, N. J.; and Sam. Ward, ex-president of the Boston Stationers' Association.

Letters of regret were read from Colonel George Harvey and others, a telegram of congratulation was received from the Chicago Stationers' Association and a cable from some friends in London.

A souvenir of the occasion was presented in the shape of a copy of an imaginary literary work, entitled "Ice-Bound," by Dr. Farrelly, in which the bisque glacée was served. The book was a dummy of a paper bound novel, hollowed out in the centre to hold the dessert. The order for the souvenir was given to a binder, who, after he had finished the insides of the book, was ambitious to make a facsimile of the original cover. After some time he called up the secretary of the Board and inquired whether he could not let him have a copy of "Dr. Farrelly's" book, as he had been unsuccessful in a two days' search to find a copy of it in any bookstore or library in New York and vicinity.

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees, held at the rooms of the board on the 13th inst., the following officers were elected: President, Henry C. Bainbridge; 1st vice-president, James C. Aikin; 2d vice-president, Charles S. Kiggins; secretary-treasurer, Edwin H. Loveless; attorneys and counsellors, Rounds & Dillingham. The following were elected to serve as Executive Committee: James C. Aikin, chairman; Frank D. Waterman, Robert Dickson, Lyman B. Sturgis, Miles Vernon, the president, ex-officio, and the treasurer, ex-officio. The following were elected to serve as the Arbitration Committee: Charles McLoughlin, chairman; Patrick Farrelly, Franklin Weston, William Keuffel, William B. Boorum, Jr., David A. Tower, and the president, ex-officio.

THE MILLARD PALMER COMPANY AND ITS PRESIDENT.

THE firm of Lyon, Kymer & Palmer Company which has done business at 20 and 22 Monroe Street, Grand Rapids, Mich., for nearly fifteen years, has been succeeded by the Millard Palmer Company. The head of the present company, Mayor W. Millard Palmer, hardly needs an introduction to the readers of the WEEKLY being well and favorably known through his long connection with the firm of which he is now the leader, and through his energetic work on behalf of book-trade reform, and as one of the members of the Executive Committee of the American Booksellers' Association.

Mayor Palmer was born July 9, 1861, on a farm near Grand Rapids. His family moved to Grand Rapids when his father entered the Union Army. Mr. Palmer accepted a clerkship in the store of Eaton & Lyon, wholesale and retail booksellers and stationers, June 16, 1880. After an absence of nine months, from January 1 to October 1, 1881, he resumed connection with Eaton & Lyon. He was in the law office of Fletcher & Wanty for two years, from October, 1885 to October, 1887, Mr. Wanty being the present United States Judge for Western District of Michigan. In the fall of 1887 Mayor Palmer again became associated with Eaton & Lyon until January, 1892, when he organized the firm of Palmer, Meech & Co., with which firm Lyon, Beecher & Kymer, (successors to Eaton, Lyon & Co.,) was consolidated in June, 1897. This firm subsequently became Lyon, Kymer & Palmer Company, of which Mr. Palmer was treasurer and general manager since July, 1899. Now Mr. Palmer has bought out the interests of Charles D. Lyon and J. Leo Lyon, president and vice-president of the old company, and organized the new company. While Mr. Palmer has had considerable experience in all departments of the book and stationery business, he is essentially a book man, having taken the position of book buyer in 1883. It is expected that he will make many changes in the store and make it one of the finest in the country when the improvements are completed.

Mayor Palmer was a member of the committee of booksellers that canvassed the trade with a view of combining it for an effort to institute reform. He was from the first a member of the Executive Committee of the American Booksellers' Association of which he was one of the organizers. In 1902, after repeatedly declining to allow his name to be used for the office of mayor, the City Republican Committee selected him to head the ticket after the sudden death of his friend the nominee two days before the election in April. He was elected by the largest majority ever given to a candidate for mayor by the voters of Grand Rapids, a city of over 100,000 inhabitants. We are confident that the trade will join us heartily in wishing the new company and its president a generous share of the success which we hope the future has in store for the booktrade.

EXPENSIVE AND VOLUMINOUS BOOKS.

THE most expensive book produced thus far in the world is undoubtedly the official history of the War of the Rebellion, published at the expense of the United States Government. The work, which it took ten years to print, comprises 110 volumes and cost $2,800,000.

Another expensive book, issued at the expense of the French Government, was the edition of the "Imitation de Jésus Christ," prepared for the World's Exposition at Paris in 1855. The work was in one volume and cost $300,000 to produce, or at the rate of $2900 for each of the 103 copies which comprised the edition.

The most expensive single volume, however, in existence to-day is the copy of the Koran recently presented by the Ameer of Afghanistan to the Shah. It is a handsomely illuminated manuscript, bound in solid gold and set with precious gems at a cost of $400,000.

The most voluminous work in the world probably is the Chinese Encyclopædia, written during the reign of Emperor Kang Hi, 1662-1722. The encyclopædia, which, in six divisions, treats of the celestial and terrestrial bodies, of the human race, of nature, philosophy and history, comprises 5020 volumes. Only three sets are known to be in existence, of which one is in the British Museum.

THE SALE OF "DAVID HARUM."

AN interesting announcement is made by D. Appleton & Co. in regard to the continued sale of "David Harum." It is now four years since this book first made its appearance, and yet it continues to sell in a single month more copies than constitute the entire run of an average novel. Toward the end of October the hundredth edition was reached, and to signalize this event a souvenir edition of 10,000 copies was prepared, printed from the plates of the $2 illustrated edition, and containing all the illustrations. This was sold at the regular price of $1.50, and the entire 10,000 copies were disposed of in five weeks. The only copies now obtainable are in the hands of the retail booksellers. The publishers announce that, beginning with the one hundred and first edition, now in press, the regular edition will be printed from the illustrated plates and will contain eight full-page illustrations. It will return to the familiar yellow cover, however. The sales of this book have now reached 671,000 copies.

WOOD PULP NOT ON FREE LIST.

THE Ways and Means Committee, January 13, decided against the application of the National [Newspaper] Publishers' Association for a hearing on the bill to put wood pulp used in the manufacture of paper on the free list. This bill, whose passage is urgently desired by the newspaper publishers of the country, has never had a chance for favorable consideration at this session, but until recently the Republican members of the Ways and Means Committee were willing to grant the concession of hearing what the publishers had to say, although they said at the same time that it was "of no use." The decision was reached on the ground that there was no use in giving a hearing on a bill that was predestined to die.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE annual meeting of the American Publishers' Association was held at the rooms of the Aldine Association, on the afternoon of January 14. A large attendance was present. Mr. Charles Scribner, President of the Association, presided, and Mr. Brett acted in his capacity of Secretary.

Three recommendations were submitted by the Board of Directors as follows:

(1.) That the third paragraph of Article IV. beginning with "When" and ending with "postage" be annulled; that is ["When a work of fiction published under this rule is sent postpaid the price to the purchaser shall not be less than the minimum price plus the postage."]

(2.) That the following paragraph (making the third) be added to Article III.:

"It is further agreed by the members of the Association that they will not themselves offer, nor sell their books to any one who offers, protected books in combination with a periodical at less than the trade subscription price of such periodical plus the net or minimum retail price of the book."

(3.) That the following be adopted as Article XII. of the plan:

"That in making sales and contracts of sale of their books involving future delivery members shall stipulate that such delivery is contingent on the observance by the purchaser of the rules of the Association."

After some discussion the above recommendations were all adopted, being acted on separately.

The president announced that the terms of the following directors expired at this time: Col. Daniel Appleton, George P. Brett and W. F. Zimmerman.

On motion a Nominating Committee consisting of Dr. Funk and Messrs. Putnam and Doubleday was appointed, who made a report renominating the directors whose terms expired. This report was unanimously approved.

Mr. Cook, of The G. W. Dillingham Co., addressed the meeting and moved the adoption of a resolution recommending that juveniles be placed on the same basis as fiction, instead of remaining at net prices. The resolution was carried. The adoption of this resolution referred the matter to the Board of Directors for further consideration, it being necessary under the By-Laws for the Board to recommend changes in the rules.

Mr. Stokes offered a resolution which was adopted, providing that the Board of Directors be requested to investigate the matter of jobbers' discounts, and the demoralized condition of the trade in this respect, with a view to ascertaining if some means could not be adopted by which the present situation could be improved. Mr. Stokes made a few remarks explaining why an amendment in this direction was necessary.

The meeting adjourned to meet the second Wednesday in February.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE.

THE January dinner of The Booksellers' League was given at the rooms of the Aldine Association on the evening of the 14th inst. An unusually large number was present, tempted no doubt by the attractive programme promised by the Entertainment Committee. The League was favored with a pleasant evening and by the attendance of every one of the guests who had promised to speak—namely, Henry Harland, Charles George D. Roberts, Willis H. Drummond and Homer Davenport. Mr. Harland's talk was pleasantly reminiscent of life in the literary and artistic haunts of Paris and London; Mr. Roberts talked entertainingly of many interesting things; Mr. Drummond fairly took the members of the League off their feet by his charming and inimitable recitations of French dialect stories and verse; and Mr. Davenport, well known for his "Trust" cartoons, talked of his early experiences in Oregon and drew sketches of some famous politicians. The speaking was brought to a close by Colonel Marshall, a companion of President Castro, of Venezuela, who gave some glimpses of the conditions in that much revolutionized country.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

IRVING BACHELLER, the author of "Eben Holden," etc., is working on a new novel, to be entitled "Darrell o' the Blessed Isles." He is also about to publish a volume of poems.

ANOTHER American university has lured a scholar from abroad for the benefit of American students. Professor Joseph John Thomson, D.Sc., F.R.S., who was Cavendish Professor of Experimental Physics at Cambridge, has accepted the Chair of Physics at Columbia University. Professor Thomson is known to American readers by his articles in Harper's Magazine, the latest of which, on "Becquerel Rays," appeared in the January number.

DR. GOLDWIN SMITH, the author, who was regius professor of modern history at Oxford from 1858 to 1866 and afterward professor, for a time, at Cornell University, New York, has formally bequeathed his brain for scientific purposes to another Cornell professor, "when I myself am finished with it." He is now approaching his eightieth birthday. The bequest, Dr. Goldwin Smith says, originated in a joke, but he has now confirmed it. Mark Twain a short time ago made a similar bequest.

IN Aberdeen, Scotland, there is a stationer and news agent who sits behind his shop counter and writes when customers fail. In his day he has been ploughman, shoemaker and policeman, but Aberdeen University has added LL.D. to his name, John Mackintosh, and a movement is now on foot to offer him a public testimonial in recognition of the services he has rendered Scottish literature through his "Historic Scotland," "History of Civilization in Scotland," and the other books he has written behind the counter.

ALFRED AUSTIN has written a new three-act drama in blank verse, entitled "Flodden Field," which Beerbohm Tree will produce in London at His Majesty's Theatre. This is the third work produced by Mr. Austin within a year, the other two being a collection of prose essays and a volume of poems, "A Tale of True Love, and Other Poems," which the Harpers published here. Apropos of poetry, the Academy expresses its "continual wonder" that good contemporary poetry is so little read, and asks, "Are the free libraries doing their duty in this matter?"

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The American Quarterly has succeeded to Poet Lore, under the editorship of Charlotte Porter and Helen A. Clarke, with whom will be associated George Willis Cooke. The next issue will be dated January-March.

BLISS CARMAN, who has been the literary adviser of L. C. Page & Co. for some time, will take editorial charge of the Literary World, which, as has already been announced, has become the property of L. C. Page & Co.

THE great series on the Government of the United States will begin in the February Scribner's with James Ford Rhodes's article on "The Presidential Office." Mr. Rhodes's historical studies and his wide acquaintance with public men and the special facilities which he has had to study the Executive Office make this paper one of intense interest. Men of the highest authority, like Justice Brewer, of the Supreme Court, Senator Lodge, Captain Mahan, Frank A. Vanderlip, and Governor Taft will contribute to this series.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

OTIS G. HAMMOND, of Concord, N. H., has compiled and published a "Bibliography of the Newspapers and Periodicals of Concord, N. H., 1790-1898." The matter is arranged alphabetically by the name of the publication. The author describes 126 separate publications as fully as the available data has permitted. (32 p. 8°.)

AT the annual meeting of the Modern Language Association of America, held at the Johns Hopkins University, December 29, Professor F. N. Scott, president of the pedagogical section, made a successful motion that a committee be appointed to prepare a bibliography of modern language philology for 1901 or 1902, as the committee may desire, and that the sum of $250 be appropriated for that purpose. The committee will be named later.

THE CARNEGIE INSTITUTION, Washington, D. C., has undertaken to revive the publication of The Index Medicus, which was established in 1879 by the late Mr. Frederick Leyboldt, under the editorship of Drs. John S. Billings and Robert Fletcher. After Mr.

Leypoldt's death, the Index Medicus, which, from the start, was a losing venture, was taken over by Parke, Davis & Co. and continued by them for several years, when they abandoned it. Dr. Billings then carried it along, by special guarantee of a number of subscribers insuring him against loss, until 1899, when the publication was suspended. The Index Medicus as a record of current medical literature as well as the supplement to the "Index Catalogue of the Library of the Surgeon-General's Office" always was indispensable to the student and the writer on medical subjects. Unfortunately that constituency, as a rule, was too poor in the first place, and too small in the second place, to give adequate support to so expensive a publication as it was necessary to make the Index Medicus, notwithstanding that the editors gave their services practically gratis. It will be welcome news therefore to those interested in the subject that the Carnegie Institution, with the editorial co-operation of Drs. Robert Fletcher and Fielding H. Garrison, will begin this month to publish the Index Medicus—Second Series. It will include full titles of books, pamphlets, theses, contributions to co-operative works and original articles in journals, transactions of medical and scientific societies and the like, arranged under subject headings. A full table of contents will be given with each number, and on the completion of each volume an annual index of authors and subjects will be issued. The undertaking deserves the hearty support of every public institution whose constituency may be interested in medical literature. The subscription price is $5 a year.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

FROM "The Sign of the Hop Pole," Crockham Hill, Eden Bridge, Kent, Eng., will be published an edition of Mérimée's "Carmen," with illustrations by Lionel Lindsay. One thousand copies will be published to subscribers at one guinea net.

J. COLLIER has prepared and published for the Leland Stanford, Jr., University, Palo Alto, Cal., a handsome souvenir showing by means of artistically grouped photographs the various buildings on the college grounds and their most interesting points.

WILLIAM R. JENKINS, New York, has just ready "Fables de la Fontaine," prepared for school use by Dr. L. Sauveur. This book was formerly published by Dr. Sauveur himself, but with his other books has now been taken over by William R. Jenkins.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. will publish at once a volume entitled "The New America: a study of the Imperial Republic," by Beckles Willson, in which the author sets forth the growth of this country along the departments of politics, industry, commerce, its development in literature, art, etc.

D. C. HEATH & Co. have in press for immediate issue in Heath's Modern Language Series Galdós's "Marianela," one of the most interesting and characteristic of Galdós's stories. The book is provided with notes and vocabulary by Professors Geddes and Josselyn, of Boston University.

HARPER & BROTHERS will bring out at once a volume of religious papers by G. W. E. Russell, author of "An Onlooker's Notebook" and "Collections and Recollections." The new book will be entitled "The Household of Faith," and the subject will be the unifying element of all religious life.

T. FISHER UNWIN has just published a translation, by Miss Johanna Volz, of Nietzsche's "Morgenröthe," ("Dawn of Day.") This will be the fourth volume of the complete English edition of Nietzsche's works which is in course of publication. The Macmillan Company have the American market.

THE OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS has just issued two neat little booklets entitled "Select Passages from the introduction to 'Plato,' by Benjamin Jowett," and "Select Passages from the Theological Writings of Benjamin Jowett," both edited by Lewis Campbell. The volumes are printed on thin paper and are of a convenient pocket size.

MOSES KING has sued the New York Sun for libel for criticising the manner in which Mr. King seeks to obtain subscriptions for a lithograph plate representing a number of prominent financiers. The plaintiff claims exemplary damages in the sum of $50,000. The alleged libellous publication appeared in the New York Sun for December 28, 1902.

THE CONSOLIDATED RETAIL BOOKSELLERS, an organization of some two hundred booksellers in the country, that was organized in January, 1900, and through whose initiative the American Publishers' Association was called into existence, will hold its third annual meeting next month to elect officers and directors and to outline plans for the immediate future.

CHURCHILL WILLIAMS' new novel, on which he has been at work for nearly two years, will be issued at the end of this month by the Lothrop Publishing Company. The publishers announce that its title will be "The Captain," and that A. I. Kellar, who illustrated "The Virginian," has almost completed the pictures for the book. The chief figure in the story is General Grant.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish in May the second volume of Mme. Adam's autobiography, which will tell about her literary work, of her experience during the Franco-Prussian War, during which time her husband was Préfet de Police in Paris, of her connection with the Nouvelle Revue, which she started about thirty years ago, and has been conducting since, and other literary efforts.

THE firm of Martinus Nijhoff, booksellers and publishers at the Hague, which has recently established an American branch in New York, celebrated on the 3d inst. its fiftieth anniversary, having been founded January 1, 1853. We extend to P. A. M. Boele van Hensbroek and Wouter Nijhoff, the present proprietors, our congratulations, and wish them many happy returns of the day.

THE BOWEN-MERRILL COMPANY announce as their first book of the new year "Under the Rose," a new romance by Frederic S. Isham, author of "The Strollers." The title strikes the keynote of the story, and its implication of secrecy has been carefully maintained by the author in the development of his plot. Howard Chandler Christy has respected the spirit of silence in his illustrations, and in drawing the actors and the scenes he gives no hint of the outcome of the story.

MRS. WHARTON'S novel, "The Valley of Decision," has recently received the honor rarely bestowed in similar circumstances of being chosen for publication in the principal review of the country with which it is concerned and whose society at a critical historical period it portrays. The novel will appear as a serial in La Nuova Antologia, of Rome, the leading magazine published in the Italian language and occupying the same relative position in Italy that the Revue des Deux Mondes does in France.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY publish this week "Studies in Christian Character, Work and Experience," by the Rev. Wm. L. Watkinson. "The Bane and the Antidote" and "The Blind Spot," the two previous publications of this author, have received almost universal commendation from various Christian denominations, and this, his latest book, is said to demonstrate even to a greater extent the truth of Newell Dwight Hillis's statement that "Watkinson has what this poor world needs—vision."

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. have in preparation for early publication a story of the Civil War, by Joseph A. Altsheler, entitled "Before the Dawn." The scene of the story is laid in Richmond just before the surrender of that city and the close of the Civil War. Among the personages that figure in the novel are Jefferson Davis, his cabinet, and several Confederate generals. They will publish early in the spring "The Land of Joy," by Ralph Henry Barbour, author of several successful college stories, "The Half Back," etc.

MCCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. will publish next month a new novel by Edward W. Townsend, the author of "Chimmy Fadden," to be entitled "Lees and Leaven." Like the author's former books the story will deal with life in New York in both the upper and lower crusts. They will bring out at the same time Joseph Conrad's new book "Youth," which consists of three stories—the one which gives the title to the book, and two others entitled "Heart of Darkness" and "The End of the Tether." The book has already been published in England and has been unqualifiedly praised there.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY, encouraged by the unprecedented success with which its efforts were crowned last year, awarded to every member of its staff in its various branches, excepting its president, a share in its profits based upon the salary drawn. Mr. Revell, the president, who, for the first time was in New York during the holiday season, received a cordial greeting and vote of thanks, with the autograph signatures of all concerned, handsomely printed and bound. This generous treatment, and the promise held out for its recurrence another year, has inspired every member employed by the firm to aid in greatly increasing the business of the house of Revell during the ensuing year.

THE TONNELÉ COMPANY, 30 East Twenty-first Street, New York, have just brought out an attractive volume of "Book-Plates of Today," edited by Wilbur Macey Stone. The volume contains articles on "American Designers of Book-Plates—William Edgar Fisher," by W. G. Bowdoin; "The Artistic Book-Plate," by Temple Scott; "Book-Plates and the Nude," by Wilbur Macey Stone; "The Architect and Book-Plate Designer," by Willis Steele; and "A Check-list of the Work of Twenty-three Book-Plate Designers of Prominence," compiled by Wilbur Macey Stone. The illustrations consist of eight book-plates, in color, designed specially for the book by Jay Chambers, Thomas Tyron, E. D. French and others, and a number of book-plates from the London Studio and other sources.

DODD, MEAD & Co. have just ready the fifth volume of "The New International Encyclopedia," which covers the subject from Coleoptera to Desiderius. Among the many topics included in this volume the following are remarkable for fulness of treatment: Colleges, especially American; Communism, Congregationalism, Constitution, Copyright, Coral, Cotton, Cromwell, Dams and Reservoirs, Dante and Democratic Party. Geographically the volume treats comprehensively Colorado, Connecticut, Constantinople, Cuba, Delaware and Denmark. Two colored plates, one of Octopods and Decapods and one of Decorative Art, (Pompeian Mural Decoration,) ten maps, forty-one full-page plates and a number of illustrations in the text add to the usefulness and attractiveness of the volume. This important undertaking, with each new volume, justifies fully its claim to be an "international" literary work in every respect.

INGALLS KIMBALL, 150 Fifth Avenue, New York, has just published in a dainty volume "Some Letters by Robert Louis Stevenson," with an introduction by Horace Townsend. There are five letters addressed to A. T. Haddon, the first of which is undated, but was probably written soon after Stevenson's return from America with his newly-wedded wife. The last of the five letters is dated April 23, 1884. Mr. Trevor Haddon, to whom the letters are addressed, is now a member of the Royal Society of British Artists and a fashionable portrait painter. Twenty-three years ago, however, he was a young student, utterly unknown outside of his own small circle and with all his worldly triumphs yet to come. The tone of the letters, if not exactly intimate, is yet of a kindly, elder-brother-like nature which is altogether delightful. The volume has a portrait of Stevenson by Sir William B. Richmond and a facsimile of one of the letters. Mr. Kimball announces that "Christmas Eve at St. Kevin's," of which he printed a limited edition of two hundred copies last Christmas time, is entirely out of print, both in the hand-made and vellum editions, and no more can be supplied at any price.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just ready a reply to Crosland's "The Unspeakable Scot," entitled "The Egreious English," by Angus McNeill, who finds an abundance of vulnerable points in the Englishmen, and who has gone at his task in the spirit of the ancient Romans, who spared "nor son nor wife, nor limb nor life;" "St. Augustine and His Age," by Joseph McCabe, author of "Peter Abélard," who treats of Augustine rather as a man than as a saint, differing in this respect from most of his predecessors; also, a little volume entitled "The Education of Christ," by Professor W. M. Ramsay, a series of simple and reverent studies on the life of Christ, dealing especially with the influence of environment on the development of Christ's character. They will publish at once the long-promised "Life and Times of Georg Joachim Goschen, Publisher and Printer of Leipzig." Goschen was the publisher of the men who molded the intellectual life of modern Germany, such as Goethe, Klopstock, Wieland, Körner and Schiller, many of whom were his intimate friends throughout life, and necessarily Goschen's accounts of his relations with them form a valuable addition to literary knowledge. The biography is the work of his grandson, the present Viscount Goschen.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have secured an edition of William Arkwright's magnificent history of the dog, entitled "The Pointer and His Predecessors." The author has spent nine years in gathering the material and even learned a new language of one of the countries involved in the research. The book is illustrated with forty photogravures from paintings and steel engravings, early and modern. The photogravures are printed on Japan paper and the text on the best hand-made deckle edge paper. Of the entire edition of 750 copies only twenty-five copies were allotted to this country. Among Scribner's recent importations is "The Fatherhood of God," a series of lectures by Rev. John Scott Lidgett, delivered to his class of theological students at the Bermonsey Settlement which Rev. Lidgett, with the late Dr. Moulton, founded. The author has sought to express the conception of God's relationship to man in Christ. "Only the doctrine of the Fatherhood in God," he says, "seen in its full significance, can unite men's efforts in every sphere of life in a consistent whole. For the lack of this, many are perplexed and distracted by the seemingly rival claims of spiritual work and of the motives of natural and generous sympathy." Rev. Lidgett's object is to seek a reconciliation between the two.

JOHN LANE announces a work entitled "Man Visible and Invisible—examples of different types of men, as seen by means of trained clairvoyance," by C. W. Leadbeater, author of "The Christian Creed," "The Astral Plane," etc., who is at present making a lecturing tour in America. The work will appeal specially to all who may be interested in the recent phases of psychological research. Mr. Lane has also in preparation a work on "The Ancient Halls of the City Guilds," drawn in lithography by Thomas R. Way, with an account of the history of the great merchant corporations of London by Philip Norman. The edition for the United States is limited to 100 copies. The next supplement to the International Studio will be entitled "Representative Art of Our Times." In size this will be uniform with the recently-published monograph on "English Water Colour." Publication will begin at once, and it will be produced monthly, part by part. The first number will be devoted to "The Modern Aspect of Wood-Engraving." Subscribers to the eight parts will be presented with a portfolio to hold the complete publication. The reproductions will include almost all conceivable processes, as they appear most suitable for the rendering of etchings, drypoints, lithographs, xylographs, pastels water colors, etc. The greatest masters in every field of the arts will be represented, irrespective of nationality. To those interested in art, be it from a professional, technical, educational, or æsthetic standpoint, this series will prove of value as a comprehensive survey of art to-day.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just published a little handbook on "Toy Dogs and How to Breed Them," by Muriel Handley Spicer, who gives a careful account of all the foods and medicines she has found most useful in rearing her dogs. A glance at the index reveals references to prescriptions, teeth, diseases, exercises, diets, training, washing, housing, every conceivable question in fact which may arise in the care of a favorite and delicately reared dog. They announce for early publication a new edition of Brooks Adams's work, "The New Empire," dealing with problems of national supremacy; Vogel's "Practical Pocket-Book of Photography," edited by E. C. Conrad, with illustrations and index; "Highways and Byways in London," by Mrs. E. T. Cook, with illustrations by Hugh Thomson and F. L. Griggs; "Ancient Athens," by Ernest Arthur Gardner; "Rome and Reform," by T. L. Kingdon Oliphant, in two volumes; "Jena Glass and Its Scientific and Industrial Applications," by Dr. H. Hovestadt, translated and edited by J. D. Everett; an édition de luxe in three volumes of "John Inglesant," with a portrait from a drawing by F. Sandys; "Matthew Arnold's Note Books," with a preface by the Hon. Mrs. Wodehouse, and a portrait; "The Poetical Works of John Keats," edited, with introduction and memoir, by Walter S. Scott, revised by George Sampson; "Around the World Through Japan," by Walter Del Mar; Robert Louis Stevenson's "Treasure Island," edited, with notes and an introduction, by Hiram Albert Vance; "An Elementary Treatise on the Mechanics of Machinery," with special reference to the mechanics of the steam engine, by Joseph N. Le Conte; "The Boy's Iliad," by Walter Copland Perry; also, "Life of Queen Victoria," by Sidney Lee, editor of "The Dictionary of National Biography."

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word (Cash).

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

PUBLISHED THIS WEEK

THE SOCIAL UNREST

Studies in Labor and Socialist Movements. By JOHN GRAHAM BROOKS. Cloth, 12mo, 394 pp., $1.50 net (postage 13 cts.).

A readable study of "live questions" such as Strikes, Trade Unions, Arbitration, Child Labor, Time Work, the Influence of Machinery, subjects on many of which no literature is accessible or is but partially applicable to American conditions of the present moment. The personal observations on which the book is based range over eighteen years and include direct investigation of every important strike and the problems related to it, in the anthracite coal regions during that time.

A story that will command widespread attention. Original, absorbing, and abounding in heart interest.

OF good education and artistic temperament, no condemned man in America was ever better able to portray the remarkable delineations at Sing Sing, where, as he wrote, death itself was the shadow of his pencil, reminding us of "The Count of Monte Cristo," and of "The Man in the Iron Mask."

Size, 5x7 inches, beautifully bound in cloth. Price, $1.25

Estate of JOSEPH M. CUSHING

The ENTIRE STOCK OF BOOKS AND STATIONERY of the late
JOSEPH M. CUSHING, trading as CUSHING & COMPANY, 34
West Baltimore Street, Baltimore, Md.

AN UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITY TO PURCHASE the Valuable Good Will and Complete Stock of AN OLD ESTABLISHED BUSINESS

A rare chance to enter at once upon a business as successor to a firm well known throughout this country and abroad.

The business since the death of Mr. Cushing on November 23, 1902, has been carried on as usual without interruption by authority of the Circuit Court No. 2 of Baltimore City.

The stock of books is one of the largest and most varied in the United States, consisting of the Standard Sets in various bindings, Illustrated Books, Reference Books, Law Books, Medical Books, Religious and Devotional Books, School Books, College and University Text Books, Scientific Books, Nature Books, Books of Games, Sports, etc., Juvenile Books, Agriculture Books, Classical Books, Latin, French, Greek, Spanish, Italian, Hebrew, Portuguese, etc.

Bibles, Testaments, Episcopal Prayer Books and Hymnals.

The Stationery Department is a very important part of the business and the stock large and attractive.

Cushing & Company have for many years had as customers the leading Banks and Mercantile Houses in Baltimore and its vicinity, and do a very large amount of printing, binding, etc., for commercial use.

Having a bindery in the same building, and owned by them, they were enabled to do this work under their own supervision. It is a regular job bindery, equipped for ruling and making every style of printed and blank books, including binding for Public Libraries. There is no printing or engraving department in the building, but with the facilities open to them in the city, an extensive business is done in job printing, engraving in every form, including Wedding Invitations, Crests, Monograms, Street Address Dies, and in everything that is demanded of a first-class establishment in the way of fine work.

Among the regular customers of the business are most of the numerous educational institutions of Baltimore, including the Woman's College, Johns Hopkins University, Johns Hopkins Hospital, Medical and Dental Colleges, Law Schools, very many private schools, also Public Libraries, including the Peabody and the Enoch Pratt Free Library, with its seven branches. The trade of Cushing & Company extends in its various branches throughout our entire State, and largely in Virginia and North Carolina, including a large jobbing trade.

The entire stock, including Bindery and Good Will, we desire to sell as a whole, and we think satisfactory arrangements may be made to occupy the present building, which is a centrally located store of five stories and basement, in which the business has been carried on for over fifty years.

Intending purchasers will be furnished by the administrators, in confidence, with price and full information upon application to JOHN HINKLEY, 215 North Charles Street, Baltimore, and will be allowed full opportunity for inspection of stock upon the administrators being satisfied of their responsibility and serious contemplation of purchasing.

The acceptance of any proposal of purchase will be subject to its approval by the Court.

THOS. J. MORRIS,
WILEY E. CUSHING,
JOHN HINKLEY,

Joseph M. Cushing

THE STAR DREAMER

By AGNES and ECERTON CASTLE

Authors of "The Pride of Jennico," etc.

I. It is the most romantic love-story that these authors have written.

II. Its heroine is a beautiful young widow, Ellinor Marvel; its hero—the Lord of Bindon—the "star dreamer"; its arch plotter, Lady Lochore, a woman of fashion.

III. Its plot is unusual, absorbing and at times thrilling.

IV. Its period is that when George III. lay dying—when Bath was in its heyday.

V. It is NOT an historical novel, a sex novel or a problem novel.

VI. It is the first new "Castle" novel since 1901, and should have a warm welcome because its authors have waited to offer a polished and perfected work.

VII. Its vein is that of "The Light of Scarthey" and "Young April," rather than of "The Secret Orchard."

This most important book will be ready the last week in February : : : : :

MESSRS. CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS,
New York, N. Y.

Gentlemen:

The February BOOKSELLER will contain a résumé of the books that have found place on the lists of those mostly in demand as reported for us by dealers all over the country. Among them we find The Fortunes of Oliver Horn occupying an honorable place. We would like further information as to editions and numbers, together with biographical data for a short sketch. We can also use a single column portrait of its author if you will furnish an electrotype for that purpose.

Other books of yours on the lists were Ranson's Folly and Captain Macklin, by R. H. Davis; The Cavalier, by Cable; Mrs. Wharton's Valley of Decision, The Blue Flower and Bylow Hill, a greater number than from any other house. We congratulate you on this fact.

Yours respectfully,

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS, NEW YORK

MESSRS. L. C. PAGE & COMPANY
 beg to announce that they have taken over from Messrs. E. H. Hames & Company the publication of

LITERARY WORLD
FEBRUARY NUMBER

Dr. Edward Abbott, the former editor, having retired, the magazine will in future be conducted under the editorship of MR.
 BLISS CARMAN.

It will be the aim of the new publishers to maintain the excellent reputation for fairness, thoroughness, and dignity, which THE LITERARY WORLD has always enjoyed; at the same time no pains will be spared to improve and strengthen it in every way possible. Full details will be announced later.

READY JANUARY 26th

AS SEEN BY A NEW YORK WOMAN
 By KATHARINE BINGHAM

COMMONWEALTH SERIES No. 7. $1.25

A bright and breezy tale in which are set forth in a keen and caustic, yet not unfriendly way, characteristics of life in the Quaker city, as well as the foibles of the "first families." The writer is evidently one who knows whereof she speaks, and her identity, if revealed, would cause no small comment in Philadelphia and other circles.

The Lively Leopard

IN the four weeks since Christmas—about the “deadest” time of the year—we have sold 10,902 copies of

“The Leopard’s Spots”

Thomas Dixon, Jr.’s, extraordinary “epic of the South.”

At this rate he will pass the first hundred thousand mark long before his first birthday. ($1.50.)

Three large advance editions of THE PIT placed before publication last Thursday. Yet we had four different orders for a thousand copies each, besides dozens of smaller ones between that day and Monday. It is clearly the Big Novel of 1903.

TO THE TRADE

A Story of Unusual Power and Interest

"In youth we dream that life is a straight line; later we know it to be a circle in which the present presses on the future, and the future on the past."

As an example of bookmaking "The Circle" will be extraordinarily attractive and striking, both in cover design and in manufacture, and will be well adapted to window display. The illustrations, six in all, are by the well-known artist, Reginald Birch.

To be published about February 10th.
Orders in advance of publication are solicited.

NOTES IN SEASON.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish shortly Cyrus Townsend Brady's story, "The Southerners." They will bring out in March a new novel by W. E. Hornung, entitled "No Hero."

L. C. PAGE & Co. have just published a bright book entitled "The Philadelphians as seen by a New York Woman," by Katherine Bingham, who sets forth in a keen and caustic, yet not unfriendly way, many characteristics of life in the Quaker City. The book forms No. 7 of the Commonwealth Series.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & Co. have in press a description of a trip "Down the Orinoco," by Señor Perez Triana. The author describes a journey from the Andine Plateau of Bogota to the upper watershed of the river. Then by canoe he proceeds by several portages to the upper rapids of the Orinoco, and returns down the stream to the Atlantic.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish on February 6 "The New Boy at Dale," by Charles Edward Rich, a story for boys and girls of a kidnapped boy who through a series of adventures finally is joined to his family. They will bring out on February 20 "In the Garden of Charity," a story of the Nova Scotia coast, by Basil King, author of "Let Not Man Put Asunder." They have in preparation a new novel by William Farquhar Payson, author of "John Vytal," to be entitled "The Triumph of Life." The scene is laid in the bohemian life of old Washington Square and in Bristol, R. I.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just brought out A. C. Laut's "Story of the Trapper," in the Story of the West Series, with illustrations by Arthur Heming and others; also, "The Story of Alchemy and the beginnings of chemistry," by M. M. Pattison Muir, in the Library of Useful Stories series. They will publish before the end of the month "The Journal of Arthur Stirling," describing the trials and tribulations of a man of education and culture who had high literary aspirations, his wanderings among publishers and magazine editors, the impressions he gained by the way, and his death by drowning himself in the North River last June.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish during February "Zut and Other Parisians," by Guy Wetmore Carryl, eleven stories written from an unusual knowledge of the types of the French capital and in a style of Parisian vivacity and cleverness; "A Daughter of the Pit," by Margaret Doyle Jackson, the story of a Lancashire coal miner's daughter, full of thrilling incidents of colliery life told with emotional power; also, "Human Destiny in the Light of Revelation," by John F. Weir, a devout study of man's future according to the Bible and as manifested in Jesus Christ. The 1903 edition of "The Satchel Guide to Europe" will also appear thoroughly revised.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. have now ready Frank Norris' last book, "The Pit," of which 20,000 copies were exhausted a month before the book appeared, and of which two more large editions were printed before the day of publication. They will publish on February 6, instead of February 12, Justus Miles Foreman's novel, "Journey's End," with illustrations by Karl J. Anderson. They have in preparation for early publication "The Small Country House and Garden," a series of papers that appeared in the Ladies' Home Journal, and which the editor, Edward Bok, has collected into a volume, with illustrations and plans; also, an exhaustive work on "Poultry and Poultry Keeping" is in preparation.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk **, and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (16mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Ts. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Ps. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Addison, Jos. Sir Roger de Coverley papers from The Spectator; The vicar of Wakefield, by Oliver Goldsmith; and The man of feeling, by H. Mackenzie. N. Y., Century, 1902. c. 108+9+164+7+94 p. il. 12° (English comédie humaine, 1st ser., v. 1.) cl., subs. for ser. of 12 v., $24.

Angell, Ja. Rowland. A preliminary study of the significance of partial tones in the localization of sound. Chic., University of Chicago Press, 1902. [Dr.] 11 p. Q. (University of Chicago Decennial publications, printed from v. 3.) pap., *25 c. net.

This paper is a report of experiments made in the Psychological Laboratory. The results show that tonal complexity is practically essential for such accuracy of localization as we commonly possess.

Austen, Jane. Pride and prejudice. N. Y., Century, 1902. c. 329 p. il. 12°, (English comédie humaine, 1st ser., v. 5.) cl., subs. for ser. of 12 v., $24.

Babcock, Mrs. Bernie. An uncrowned queen: the story of Frances E. Willard. N. Y. and Chic., Revell, 1902. [N.] 270 p. por. 12°, cl., *75 c. net.

Ballou, Emma L. Guide right: ethics for young people; il. by Effie Louise Koogle. Lebanon, O., March Bros., 1902. 6-150 p. il. S. cl., 40 c.

This work, says the author, was primarily intended for use in the schoolroom, and is especially adapted to such use. In the thirteen stories contained she has endeavored to present the principles which underlie the moral laws in simple language in order that the lessons will be within the comprehension of the youngest children.

Bayliass, Sir Wyke. Rex regum: a painter's study of the likeness of Christ from the time of the apostles to the present day. Library ed., rev. and enl. N. Y., Macmillan, 1903. 41+211 p. il. 8°, cl., $2.50.

Brandea, Georg Morris Cohn. Main currents in nineteenth century literature. In 6 v. v. 3. The reaction in France, (1874.) N. Y., Macmillan, 1903. 7+300 p. 8°, cl., *$2.75 net.

Brontë, Charlotte. [Mrs. Nicholls, "Currer Bell" pseud.] Jane Eyre. N. Y., Century, 1902. c. 12+486 p. il. 12°, (English comédie humaine, 1st ser., v. 9.) cl., subs. for ser. of 12 v., $24.

Brooklyn Daily Eagle almanac, 1903. N. Y., Office Brooklyn Daily Eagle, 1903. c. 8°, (Eagle lib.) cl., *50 c. net; pap., *25 c. net.

Brooks, J. Graham. The social unrest: studies in labor and social movements. N. Y.,

Macmillan, 1903. [Ja.] c. 5+394 p. O. cl., **$1.50 net.

The author, the well-known lecturer on economics, was born in New Hampshire in 1846; graduated from Hartford Divinity School, studied three years in German universities, was Instructor in Harvard University, Lecturer at University of Chicago and Expert in U. S. Department of Labor at Washington, making report of 1893 upon Workmen's Insurance in Germany. He claims that the best-known experts in economics do not put their most personal opinions into print. He has met almost all of them and voices many thoughts received from them though he does not always quote. Both sides of all questions relating to capital and labor are clearly set forth. Specially timely are his statements concerning every coal-strike that has thus far taken place.

Brown, G. M. Ponce de Leon land and Florida war record. 4th ed. St. Augustine, Fla., G. M. Brown, 1903. c. 1902. 180 p. por. 12°, pap., 50 c.

Bulwer-Lytton, Sir E. G. Earle Lytton. [Lord Lytton.] The Caxtons: a family picture. N. Y., Century, 1902. c. 530 p. il. 12°, (English comédie humaine, 1st ser., v. 8.) cl., subs. for ser. of 12 v., $24.

Clapin, Sylva. A new dictionary of Americanisms: being a glossary of words supposed to be peculiar to the United States and the Dominion of Canada. N. Y., L. Weiss & Co., [1902.] 12+581 p. O. hf. leath., $5.

The words and phrases which are here collected under the general term Americanisms may be fairly classed under four heads. First, genuine English words obsolete or provincial in England and universally used in the United States. Second, English words conveying in the United States a different meaning from that attached to them in England. Third, words introduced from other languages than the English, French, Dutch, Spanish, Indian, etc. Fourth, Americanisms proper, i.e., words coined in the country, either representing some new idea or peculiar product. Particular attention has been paid to the fauna and flora and to the words derived from foreign languages, especially the French and Spanish.—Preface.

DIFFICULTIES OF THE FRENCH PUBLISHING TRADE.

IN contrast with the steadfast prosperity which has been enjoyed in our own country for some years past, based fundamentally on the phenomenal crops of these years, is the general experience of hard times in most of the leading countries across sea—England, Germany, and, most of all, France. Every branch of industry has felt the effect of industrial depression, and, of course, the book trade has been a common or an uncommon sufferer among them. In France particularly, as is interestingly set forth in a literary letter to the New York Tribune, the publishers have been experiencing hard times reaching almost to a crisis. Aside from the general industrial depression, the causes adduced by this well-informed correspondent are similar to difficulties which have met the American book trade, although on this side of the water the general prosperity has enabled the book trade to hold its own and share in the good times which we have happily been experiencing. The writer does not point out what, however, is the fact, that the demoralization of trade methods has been only less troublesome in France than in Germany, England and America. The French book trade has perhaps held its own in this respect better than those of other countries; but it has had also an advantage, and a corresponding difficulty, in the extremely low prices at which books have been sold in the usual paper-covered binding of France—an advantage because it promotes popular sale, a difficulty because prices have become so low as to cut down quality of paper and printing as well as the margin of profit.

The two difficulties referred to by the correspondent, which are common to-day in all countries, are the over-supply of books, and the great competition from daily and weekly newspapers and the cheap popular magazines, which productions of the press can easily take all the time which the ordinary citizen has for reading. Of 6000 or more books offered through the retail trade it is said that only a dozen, more or less, attained a sufficient sale to pay author and publisher; while the average sale of books published is reckoned to be as low as from 200 to 300 copies. This over-production is likely to be an even greater difficulty in our own country of culture than in foreign countries, because great numbers of people are capable of writing a fairly readable book, and there are those to be found, whether the authors themselves or sanguine publishers, who will venture the market. Moreover, no publisher is wise enough to predict with accuracy which books will sell and which will not—although a great number of books are published which will not sell. No "trust," if one were possible, could cure this difficulty of over-competition, and the remedy is in the hands of the retail trade only. A retailer must discriminate and select out of the thousands of books which are now offered to him in all book-producing countries; and by using care and good judgment, and refusing to buy books which have no probability of sale, the retail trade may put the brakes on reckless publishing, and throttle the over-supply in some measure. The result will be that publishers will have reason to resist the importunities of authors and deny themselves the risk of books not likely to sell, or not of the literary value to invite "taking chances."

The competition of periodicals can be met and faced only by publishing enterprise in presenting books which will wholesomely attract the public and be of the highest literary standard. Of course, the best magazines in this country are themselves largely the source of supply of books; but it is astonishing how many copies of a good book will be sold for new readers or for permanent use by old readers, after their contents have appeared in very widely-circulated magazines. It is very interesting to note that the French publishing trade is showing a decided uplift in the character of books sent out, especially at Christmas time—which is also more or less evident in this country where the old-fashioned Christmas book, made to invite or to fit illustrations, has in great measure given way to standard literature in attractive form, or to nature works of definite literary value.

Happily, the American trade has been spared one element of competition which the correspondent points out, in the salacious attractions of "yellow novels and pink stories." Human nature has the same temptations the world over, and of course such books exist here, despite the activities of the police and post office, whose rigid prohibition of obscene literature has been a great safeguard in this country. But these have never come much to the surface here as in France, and it is to be hoped that they never will.

Such facts from abroad should give American publishers and the American book trade reason for self-congratulation, because of the better opportunities and environment which exist here. With the progress of book trade reform, giving better distributing machinery, and the elevation of the literary character of books, which is sometimes evident and sometimes not very visible, let us hope that there may be also a conservatism in the number of books issued, which, together, will continue the prosperity of the American book trade, even in years which are not so fortunate in general conditions as those immediately behind us.

THE FIRST FOLIO SHAKESPEARE.

THE OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS has just brought out the long-promised Oxford facsimile of the Chatsworth "First Folio of Shakespeare's Plays," with an introduction by Sidney Lee, from which we extract the following:

"The First Folio Edition of Shakespeare's Plays, which was published at the end of the year 1623, more than seven years after the author's death, forms the greatest contribution made in a single volume to the secular literature of any age or country. By the English-speaking peoples it must always be regarded as the proudest monument of their literary history. Its publication first gave permanent record to the full range of Shakespeare's work. Of the thirty-six plays which appeared in the volume, only sixteen had been printed at earlier dates—fifteen in the author's lifetime, and one, 'Othello,' posthumously. (One play, 'Pericles,' which was also issued in the author's lifetime, was excluded from the collection.) No less than twenty dramas, of which the greater number rank among the literary masterpieces of the world—nine of the fourteen comedies that were here brought together for the first time, five of the ten histories, and six of the twelve tragedies—were rescued by the First Folio from urgent peril of oblivion. Whatever be the typographical or editorial imperfections of the First Folio, it is the fountain-head of knowledge of Shakespeare's complete achievement.

"The text of the First Folio continues to provoke much conjectural emendation, not all of which is justifiable. The profitable opportunities which the volume offers for new exercises in textual criticism are no longer abundant. It is needful to resist temptation: many a passage which has puzzled the uninitiated reader and has been denounced by him as a corruption of scrivener or compositor has lost its obscurity, even as it stands, in the seeing eye of the trained Shakespearean scholar. At any rate, none should now endeavor to repair the typographical errors of the First Folio who is not very specially equipped for the task. It is requisite to acquire beforehand a thorough knowledge of the orthography, the phraseology, the prosody, the technical vocabulary, the printers' and publishers' methods of work, which were in vogue in Shakespeare's era. The textual critic must be gifted with a natural appreciation of the rhythm of prose and verse. He must above all things have faith in the resources of Shakespeare's genius, and some capacity to realize its working. The typographical defects of the volume should neither be extenuated nor exaggerated; but the unique place that the First Folio holds in the world's literature as the sole surviving source of first-hand knowledge of Shakespeare's noblest writings, gives its text indefeasible right only to be handled in the spirit of reverent scholarship.

"The First Folio was four times reproduced in facsimile during the nineteenth century. The first attempt was made in 1806. The result was a very tall and wide folio volume (15 in. x 9¾ in.) bound in boards, and the inexperienced owner of this reprint has often of late years mistaken it for the original. The paper has the watermark 'Shakespeare,' to which is sometimes appended the name of the paper manufacturer, 'J. Whatman, 1806.' At the back of the portrait appear the words, 'Printed by E. & J. Wright, St. John's Square,' while at the bottom of the last leaf are the words, 'J. Wright, Printer, No. 38 St. John's Square.' The second and best facsimile of the First Folio was that issued by Lionel Booth, at 307 Regent Street, in 1864, in three parts. It was printed by J. Strangeways and H. E. Walden, 28 Castle Street, Leicester Square. At the bottom of each page is a consecutive number. The type is smaller than the original, but it is very clear, and the typography is at all points trustworthy. Both these reproductions were in ordinary print. In 1866 there came out a third large folio reproduction in facsimile by the then newly-discovered process of photolithography. This was made partly from the Grenville copy at the British Museum and partly from the Ellesmere copy at Bridgewater House. It was executed under the superintendence of Howard Staunton, and was published in London by Day & Son. A fourth and much reduced photographic facsimile in octavo, published by Messrs. Chatto & Windus, appeared in 1876, with an introduction by J. O. Halliwell-Phillips."*

A CRISIS IN THE FRENCH PUBLISHING TRADE.

THE Paris correspondent of the New York Tribune writes that "this winter the French book trade is undergoing a severe crisis. Leading publishers declare that for over thirty years they have not experienced a period more disastrous or discouraging than the present season. According to the representatives of the firm which has the reputation of issuing the greatest number of holiday books in France, 'the book business is in complete decadence.'

"The unanimous complaint of the booksellers is that people 'write more and more, and read less and less.' Out of upwards of six thousand new books that have made their appearance on the stalls and in the windows of the retail shops, there are scarcely six or a dozen which have attained a sale large enough to be profitable either to authors or publishers. There are several reasons for this. In the first place, the daily newspaper, with its weekly supplement of eight pages treating of literary or historical subjects, and profusely illustrated, provides in convenient form for five cents intellectual material that could not be issued in the shape of a book for less than 50 cents. It is the daily and weekly newspaper that is killing the book trade. Then, again, a goodly number of 10 cent magazines, monthly or fortnightly, have caught the popular taste, and reach enormous sales in Paris and in the smaller towns, where they are exhibited at the railroad stations. The newspaper and the magazine—the two legitimate competitors of the book—have diminished the sale of books during the last three years by at least 20 per cent.

"The book market has also suffered from the alarming increase of unsavory illustrated papers, sold for three cents each, which have become an abominable feature of the public newsstands in the streets of Paris and throughout France. These papers, the pernicious influence of which is enhanced in many instances by the cleverness of the illustrators who contribute to them, have, in the opinion of Senator Bérenger, become a 'national danger.' The attention of young persons of both sexes is unavoidably attracted by the disgracefully obtrusive display of this vile rubbish, and the literary appetite of the younger generation is gradually perverted by daily inoculation with what might be called an intellectual absinthe, becoming diseased and incapable of wholesome diet. There are, unfortunately, too many authors who, in the hope that by setting their sails to catch this breeze they may find a good profit, have inundated the market with 'yellow' novels and 'pink' stories, bound in meretriciously decorated paper covers and bearing such titles as 'Chair en Folie,' 'Courtisanes des Salons,' 'Un Corps de Femme,' etc. In short, the book trade in this period of decadence is characterized by spasmodic attempts to tickle the public palate by highly seasoned sauces and aromatic condiments. These efforts, however, have failed. Stimulated by a passing curiosity, the sales of two or three works of the sort just described have risen for a few days, only to fall to the zero point, and newspapers and magazines continue to enjoy their wide popularity.

"It is only fair to the French publishers to call attention to their courageous efforts to supply the nation with sound, wholesome, yet bright and amusing, books. The annual publication of the French Publishers' Club, 'Le Cercle de la Librairie,' contains lists and brief descriptions of holiday books issued by eighty-three Paris publishing firms. The total number of these works exceeds four thousand. It is estimated by an expert that the average sale attained for these books will not be over three hundred copies. A few exceptional works may mount up to fifty thousand, while the sale of other works of merit, produced with taste and at considerable cost, will not find as many as a hundred purchasers. A salient feature in the holiday field is that works treating of military adventure have almost completely disappeared. Hairbreadth escapades and ferocious encounters with pistol or sword are replaced in popular favor by retrospective descriptions, such as D'Allemagne's 'History of Toys' and the history of dancing. Narratives of travel hold their own, and there is a profusion of holiday books illustrating picturesque parts of France."

PRICE OF RARE BOOKS ADVANCING.

BERNARD QUARITCH, a son of the famous bookseller, is at present in this country with a small collection of rare books and manuscripts, including some rare Americana, the Gospels in Greek made in 1150, also autographs of Thackeray, Lamb, and Scott. At the Waldorf-Astoria, on the evening of the 18th inst., Mr. Quaritch said to a reporter of the New York Times, that the price of old books was constantly increasing abroad because new collectors, many of them from this country, were entering the purchasing field. "The American private collectors," he said, "are bringing over here many of the rarest books now, but the American libraries, except a few, are not getting many of these rare books, except by bequests."

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

THE CHICAGO STATIONERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE CHICAGO STATIONERS' ASSOCIATION held its first quarterly meeting at the Grand Pacific Hotel, on the evening of January 8. There were present twenty-three members. President H. F. Sawtell congratulated the association upon its growth and upon the work already accomplished. The secretary, L. E. Barnes, reported a balance of $420.39 in the treasury. In his report he incorporated the minutes of the first meeting, at which an attempt was made to organize a similar organization, from which the following is an extract:

"On April 22 last (1897) about one hundred of the prominent booksellers, publishers and stationers of this city met in response to a call of a committee in the banquet room of the Chicago Athletic Club for the purpose of organizing an association to promote a more general acquaintance and good fellowship among those engaged in these kindred vocations.

"After the inner man had been satisfied and the set program of speeches had concluded, Mr. P. F. Pettibone, as chairman, called the meeting to order and on motion appointed a committee to report in fifteen minutes a name for a permanent organization and a list of officers and directors to be elected for the ensuing year.

"In due time the committee made its report through its chairman, Mr. Joseph Scammell. 'The Booksellers', Publishers' and Stationers' Association of Chicago' was decided upon as the title of the organization, and the following ticket, which was presented, was unanimously elected:

"P. F. Pettibone, president; Andrew McNally, first vice-president; Fred B. Smith, second vice-president; G. W. Ford, secretary; O. D. Erwin, treasurer; executive committee, R. K. Smith, chairman; G. W. Cone, B. E. Pike, Robert Foresman, T. S. Denison. The executive committee and officers to constitute the board of directors.

"A motion prevailed that a committee of three be appointed by the chair to draft suitable resolutions. No further business being presented, the meeting adjourned subject to the call of the president."

The organization died in the hands of the Committee on Resolutions.

The following were unanimously re-elected officers of the association: President, H. F. Sawtell; Vice-president, J. C. Ryan; Secretary, L. E. Barnes; Treasurer, A. H. Childs; Executive Committee: C. A. Stevens, M. D. Rider and L. L. Burr; Membership Committee: Harry W. Thayer, William H. Dietz and Charles H. Coles; and Arbitration Committee, John H. Amberg, L. T. Marshall, A. E. Riddle, Alex. Klappenbach and F. B. Gibbs.

The banquet held in the Auditorium on the 17th inst. was attended by upwards of one hundred guests, and was a very enjoyable affair. A number of visiting stationers were present and participated in the speaking.

The stationery trade now seems to have organizations in Buffalo, N. Y., Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Mo., Los Angeles, Cal., Providence, R. I., New York City and Minneapolis, Minn. The trade in New Orleans and Toledo, O., are contemplating forming similar organizations.

OBITUARY NOTES.

THE death has occurred of the widow of George Henry Lewes. Mrs. Lewes was the daughter of Gwynfen Jervis, M.P., and married Lewes in the face of strong opposition on the part of her relatives. The melancholy results of the marriage are matters of history. It has been authoritatively stated, since Mrs. Lewes's death, that she left her husband long before he and George Eliot had ever met.

ORLANDO D. CASE died suddenly on January 21, at his office on Asylum Street, in Hartford, Conn. He was born in Sandisfield, Mass., in 1826. For fifty-two years he had been head of the firm of O. D. Case & Co., in Hartford, publishers and manufacturers of school furniture. Among his publications are Greeley's "American Conflict," which nearly swamped the firm, the public refusing to buy the book after Greeley signed Jefferson Davis' bail bond. Later the firm published some of Mark Twain's earlier works.

HENRI GEORGES STEPHANE ADOLPHE OPPER DE BLOWITZ, for many years correspondent of the London Times, died in Paris January 15. He was born December 28, 1832, in Pilsen, Bohemia, but concerning his descent there has been much dispute that was not enlightened by M. Blowitz. From 1850 to 1860 he was teacher of German in a number of French lycées. In 1860 he devoted himself to the study of politics and began to write for the press. In 1870-1871 he obtained the post of correspondent for The Times, succeeding Laurence Oliphant, and maintained his connection with that paper until the beginning of this year, when for some unexplained reason The Times dropped him. Besides his newspaper work Blowitz was the author of "Feuilles Volantes," "L'Allemagne et la Provence," "Le Mariage Royal d'Espagne," and "Une Course a Constantinople." Blowitz wrote all his dispatches in the French language. They invariably had to be translated before they could be published by The Times. He never carried a note-book, and dictated all his information from memory. He even memorized the text of the Treaty of Berlin, which he sent to The Times before it was signed.

JULIAN RALPH, author, war and special correspondent and Eastern representative of the St. Louis Exposition, died January 20 at his boarding place in New York City. For some time Mr. Ralph had been suffering from stomach and liver troubles, brought about by his long sojourn in South Africa as war correspondent for several English papers. Julian Ralph was born in New York City on May 27, 1853. He left school at thirteen and learned the printer's trade. He drifted into journalism, and at the age of eighteen joined the staff of the New York Daily Graphic. In 1875 came the turning point of his career. He was appointed to report "scenes and incidents" in the trial of Henry Ward Beecher. His work attracted the attention of Charles A. Dana, of the Sun, and he secured him for his paper and retained his services for eighteen years. Of recent years he has reported almost all the great events for many papers. He travelled extensively and wrote for many magazines. Among his published books are "On Canada's Frontier," "Our Great West," "Dixie: Southern Scenes and Sketches," "People We Pass," "Alone in China," "Towards Pretoria," "Chicago and the Word's Fair," "An Angel in a Web," "A Prince of Georgia," and "The Millionairess," his latest novel. In collaboration with Kipling and others he brought out "War's Brighter Side."

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

SIDNEY COLVIN has at last decided to write a personal memoir of Robert Louis Stevenson.

HOWARD PYLE has written a serious novel dealing with the second coming of Christ, entitled "Semper Idem." It is to be published by Harper & Brothers.

GEORGE WHARTON JAMES, explorer, ethnologist and author of "In and Around the Grand Canyon," is at work on a book devoted to "The Indians of the Painted Desert Region."

G. H. PIKE, author of "Oliver Cromwell and His Times," has written a book entitled "Wesley and His Preachers: their Conquest of Britain," which Fisher Unwin will publish before long. The author has endeavored to present a picture of the great preacher and his work, and of the old world in which he lived, and he has utilized some of the most interesting material contained in Wesley's journals.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE publication of the first regular weekly issue of John Bull has been delayed, owing to arrangements necessary for completing the guaranteed subscription to a first edition of 100,000 copies. At the end of the present month "John Bull's Year Book for 1903" will be ready, for which the staff of compilers have provided many novel features. John Bull Press, Limited, Covent Garden, London, are the proprietors of this popular journal.

THE American edition of The Book of Book-Plates, a pretty and most interesting quarterly edited by Stewart Dick, will be issued by A. Wessels Co. The current volume, (No. 3,) is intended to survey the field of modern book-plate designers—English, German, American and French. The first number contains two supplements of book-plates, one in colors, and reproductions of book-plates by Gordon Craig, J. W. Simpson and C. R. Ashbee.

The Leader is the title of a new semi-monthly "magazine of modern education," published by the Leader Publishing Company, Providence, R. I. The editor-in-chief is Thomas W. Bicknell, the founder, and for many years editor of the Boston Journal of Education. The aim of the editorial management is to make The Leader of the "highest value to every worker in the field of secondary education as well as to those in the grades of primary and higher education which flank the secondary work."

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

COL. W. F. PRIDEAUX has nearly ready for the press a bibliography of the works in prose and verse of Robert Louis Stevenson, 1866-1902. To the end that the work may be as complete as possible he would be glad to hear of any articles by Stevenson in the less-known magazines and newspapers, whether they have been printed or not. A notice of any papers which appeared in the American press during Stevenson's lifetime would be particularly welcome. Colonel Prideaux's address is 1 West Cliff Terrace, Ramsgate.

FRANKLIN PIERCE HILL, librarian of the Brooklyn Public Library, and Varnum Lansing Collins, reference librarian of the Princeton University Library, have compiled and privately printed a bibliography of "Books, Pamphlets and Newspapers Printed at Newark, N. J., 1776-1900." Though apparently an unpromising subject, the compilers nevertheless succeeded in bringing together 1553 titles, and are convinced that they have by no means exhausted the subject. Though Hugh Gaine, "the straddler," cannot properly lay claim to the honor of being Newark's first printer, the seven issues of his New York Gazette, which he printed in Newark from September 21, 1776, to November 2, 1776, at a time when he was uncertain whether the Revolutionists or the British would get the upper hand, are really the first to bear a Newark imprint. In 1791 John Woods established himself as a printer in Newark and began the publication of his Newark Gazette and the New Jersey

Advertiser. Then came Daniel Dodge, Jacob Halsey, Stephen Gould, Mathias Day, John Wallis, the Tuttles, and so on to the present time. The bibliography makes a fine book of 295 octavo pages, including a full index of 23 pages, and is a creditable contribution to the growing literature of local history. The edition is limited to 300 copies and the price is fixed at $3 net. Mr. Collins will supply orders.

CATALOGUES OF NEW AND SECOND-HAND BOOKS.—Edward Baker, 14 John Bright St., Birmingham, Eng., Miscellaneous, including works on occultism, sport, drama, etc. (No. 213, 671 titles.)—Davis's Bookstore, 35 W. 42d St., New York, Miscellaneous. (No. 26, 228 titles.)—Francis Edwards, 83 High St., Marylebone, London, Books relating to Australasia, Malaysia, Polynesia, the Pacific Coast of America and the South Seas. (2931 titles;) also, Works relating to Africa and African Islands. (3454 titles.)—Karl W. Hiersemann, 2 Königsstr., Leipzig, Works on Russia. (No. 282, 897 titles.)—Noah Farnham Morrison, 314 W. Jersey St., Elizabeth, N. J., Works on Egypt, the drama, South America, Mexico, etc. (No. 49, 607 titles.)—Edward Nield, 4 Upper Arcade, Bristol, Eng., Books illustrating the principal navigations, voyages and discoveries in America. (No. 45, 307 titles.)

BUSINESS NOTES.

NEW YORK CITY.—Henry Malkan will open up, at once a branch bookstore at 74 Broadway, under the direction of Mr. Charles T. Parrett.

NEW YORK CITY.—Through a fire that destroyed a factory building at 394-396 Bowery, which backs upon Lafayette Place, the Funk & Wagnalls Company sustained a loss of about $12,000 to books and paper stored in their basement. The Winthrop Press, and Publishers' Printing Company also sustained loss through water. Volker Brothers and Peter Führer, printers, H. F. McCafferty, electrotyper, and J. Holt & Son, bookbinders, suffered total loss through fire.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

ANDREW CARNEGIE'S "Empire of Business" has been translated into Italian and German.

"THE LEOPARD'S SPOTS," by Thomas Dixon, is rapidly approaching the sale of 100,000 copies in this country, and has also been translated into German.

THE SPRAGUE PUBLISHING COMPANY, Detroit, Mich., has just issued a book of stories of young American heroes by Mrs. Annah Robinson Watson, entitled "On the Field of Honor." The book presents true stories of the Civil War told for boys.

MCLURE, PHILLIPS & COMPANY have arranged with Mr. E. J. Clode, who has been manager of the publishing department of Brentano's for the last eight years, to represent them on the Pacific Coast. He will leave New York about the first week in February.

THE PAFRAETS BOOK COMPANY, of Troy, N. Y., will shortly publish "Chips and Splinters from a Literary Work-Shop," a new book by the Rev. Dr. Frederic Rowland Marvin, author of "Last Words of Distinguished Men and Women" and "Flowers of Song from Many Lands."

HOWARD V. SUTHERLAND has been appointed manager of the publishing department of Brentano's, to fill the position formerly occupied by Mr. Clode. Mr. Sutherland was long connected with The Sign of the Lark, and has several volumes of prose and verse to his credit.

THE BURROWS BROTHERS COMPANY, Cleveland, have decided to discontinue their jobbing business, for many years under the control of Harris Bradbury Burrows, in order to give their undivided attention and strength to their retail business, which has almost quadrupled in volume since they established themselves in their present quarters.

We are informed that the Baskett Bible in Mr. McKee's collection and the one once owned by John Anderson, Jr., are two different issues. The copy that turned up in the McKee sale is dated 1752, while the copy once owned by Mr. Anderson, but some time ago sold to a collector whose name we are not at liberty to give, is dated 1761.

THE EVERETT PRESS Co., Boston, have published "The Real Diary of a Real Boy," being the diary kept by Judge Shute, of Exeter, N. H., (Harvard, '79,) in his boyhood thirty-five years ago. The incidents are said to have actually occurred as the book sets them forth, and nearly all of the 125 persons who supply the fun are living to-day in New York or some part of New England.

HERBERT S. HOUSTON, who organized the advertising department for Doubleday, Page & Co.'s two successful magazines, The World's Work and Country Life in America, has become a member of that thriving firm. Mr. Houston has been well known in publishing and advertising circles for some years. He is a graduate of the University of Chicago, and received his first professional training in a Chicago newspaper office.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish at once Professor Lane Poole's "Mediæval India," in the Story of the Nations Series. They have in preparation a work on "The Great Siberian Railway from St. Petersburg to Peking," by Michael Myers Shoemaker, author of "Palaces and Prisons of Mary Queen of Scots," etc., which gives a record of a journey taken by the author in the spring of 1902 across Siberia on the new railway. Mr. Shoemaker describes the building of the railway from the Russian standpoint.

SILVER, BURDETT & Co. have just ready "Government: Its History and Development in the United States," by Robert Lansing and Zarz M. Jones; "Business Forms," an addition to "The Normal Review System of Writing," "First Days in Number," by Della Van Amburgh; and the "Fourth Reader," in The Rational Method of Reading. A supplementary reader soon to be issued will be "Hans the Eskimo," by Christiana Scandlin, tales of the lives of little children of the North, with many characteristic illustrations.

J. F. TAYLOR & Co. have just ready a mystic and spiritual interpretation of "Omar Khayyám" by Dr. C. H. A. Bjerregaard, one of the librarians of the New York Public Library. The book is gotten up in styles ranging from $5 to $100. They will also issue "Among the Palms," by Nina Larré Duryea, depicting life along the winter resorts of the Atlantic coast. They announce an edition of the "Life and Works of Charles Lamb," printed by Mr. Updike, of the Merrymount Press, on Arnold hand-made paper, and illustrated with numerous mezzotints, etchings and photogravures.

HENRY HOLT & Co. have just issued "The Natural History of Plants, their Forms, Growth, Reproduction and Distribution," from the German of the late Anton Kerner v. Marilaun, by F. W. Oliver, with the assistance of Lady Bush and Mrs. M. F. McDonald, which takes the place of the original four-volume edition published in 1895, now out of print. Volume I. covers "Biology and Configuration of Plants," and Volume II. "The History of Plants." The work contains about 2000 original woodcut illustrations. This house also has in press "Lord Leonard the Luckless," by W. E. Norris; and "A Summer in New York," by Edward W. Townsend, author of "Chimmie Fadden."

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. have just brought out here Sir Horace Rumbold's book, "Recollections of a Diplomatist," which describe events that came under the author's notice or in which he took part from 1849 to 1873; "The Scientific Writings of the late George Francis FitzGerald," edited by J. Larmor; also, a new issue of "Spiritual Studies in St. Matthew's Gospel," by the Rev. Arthur Ritchie, rector of St. Ignatius's Church, New York. They will publish shortly a work on "The Age of the Fathers," by the late Dr. William Bright, Regius Professor of Ecclesiastical History at Oxford, who deals with the history of the church in the fourth and fifth centuries. The work is edited by Dr. Walter Lock, of Keble College, and C. H. Turner, of Magdalen College.

JOHN LANE has secured Emile Zola's last book, "Truth," in a translation by E. A. Vize-telly. This is the third of the series which was to have been known as the Four Evangelists. "Labor" and "Fruitfulness" are already widely read, and "Justice," the final volume, will remain unwritten. The story of "Truth" deals with a horrible crime committed by a Jesuit priest, master of a Catholic school in a small French town, which the culprit contrives to fix upon the Jewish schoolmaster of the secular school, who in his turn is vindicated by a brother school teacher, a Gentile. With this material for narrative Zola treats exhaustively the question of secular and church schools and of Jewish persecution. The Gentile's part in the plot will remind readers of Zola's Dreyfus experiences.

THE BAMPTON LECTURES at Oxford, England, will this year be delivered by the Rev.

W. H. Hutton, of St. John's College, well known as a brilliant historian and theological writer. The subject is "The Influence of Christianity on National Character, Illustrated by the Lives and Legends of the English Saints." The opening lectures will deal with the subject generally, showing various national saints—St. Louis, for example, or St. Elizabeth—as expressive and formative of the national character, and proceeding thence to the influence of the several typically Christian characters to which the English were at first exposed, e.g., St. Martin, St. Augustine, St. Colombo, and lastly to English saints in general. Appendices will include a hitherto unpublished ms. life of King Edward, the martyr, and a discussion of mediæval miracles.

NEW AMSTERDAM BOOK COMPANY are paying special attention to reprints of famous books. Among their spring publications will be "Joe Miller's Complete Jest Book," the world-renowned collector of the wit and humor of the men who have made history, brought together by John Mottley in 1739, but now for the first time indexed and furnished with an introduction by Andrew G. Dickinson, jr.; "Chess Openings Ancient and Modern," a new and cheaper edition of one of the great standard works on chess, by E. Freeborough and Rev. C. E. Rankin; Shakespeare's "Tempest," and with text of the Cambridge edition; "For Auld Acquaintance," a loving-cup book compiled by Adam Goodfellow, edited by William Payne. To the Arthurian Romances Series will be added "Sir Cliges" and "Sir Libeaus Desconus," two old English metrical romances rendered into prose by Jessie L. Weston, the first being of the fifteenth, the second of the fourteenth century; and a new Irish Saga Library will be opened with "The Courtship of Ferb," an old Irish romance of the twelfth century. Three new volumes are planned for the Commonwealth Library, eight for the Red Letter Series Books, and a new library will be The Favorite Fiction Library, for which thirty volumes are in preparation. In new fiction there will be "The Trail of the Grand Seigneur," by Olin L. Lyman, an American story; "The Mahony Million," by Charles Townsend; and "The Price of Freedom," by Arthur W. Marchmont.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 20 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 20 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

[W] In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

[W] Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is understood to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

CUSHING & COMPANY

34 West Baltimore Street, - - BALTIMORE, MD.

Estate of JOSEPH M. CUSHING

The ENTIRE STOCK OF BOOKS AND STATIONERY of the late JOSEPH M. CUSHING, trading as CUSHING & COMPANY, 34 West Baltimore Street, Baltimore, Md.

AN UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITY TO PURCHASE the Valuable Good Will and Complete Stock of AN OLD ESTABLISHED BUSINESS

A rare chance to enter at once upon a business as successor to a firm well known throughout this country and abroad.

The business since the death of Mr. Cushing on November 23, 1902, has been carried on as usual without interruption by authority of the Circuit Court No. 2 of Baltimore City.

The stock of books is one of the largest and most varied in the United States, consisting of the Standard Sets in various bindings, Illustrated Books, Reference Books, Law Books, Medical Books, Religious and Devotional Books, School Books, College and University Text Books, Scientific Books, Nature Books, Books of Games, Sports, etc., Juvenile Books, Agriculture Books, Classical Books, Latin, French, Greek, Spanish, Italian, Hebrew, Portuguese, etc.

Bibles, Testaments, Episcopal Prayer Books and Hymnals.

The Stationery Department is a very important part of the business and the stock large and attractive.

Cushing & Company have for many years had as customers the leading Banks and Mercantile Houses in Baltimore and its vicinity, and do a very large amount of printing, binding, etc., for commercial use.

Having a bindery in the same building, and owned by them, they were enabled to do this work under their own supervision. It is a regular job bindery, equipped for ruling and making every style of printed and blank books, including binding for Public Libraries. There is no printing or engraving department in the building, but with the facilities open to them in the city, an extensive business is done in job printing, engraving in every form, including Wedding Invitations, Crests, Monograms, Street Address Dies, and in everything that is demanded of a first-class establishment in the way of fine work.

Among the regular customers of the business are most of the numerous educational institutions of Baltimore, including the Woman's College, Johns Hopkins University, Johns Hopkins Hospital, Medical and Dental Colleges, Law Schools, very many private schools, also Public Libraries, including the Peabody and the Enoch Pratt Free Library, with its seven branches. The trade of Cushing & Company extends in its various branches throughout our entire State, and largely in Virginia and North Carolina, including a large jobbing trade.

The entire stock, including Bindery and Good Will, we desire to sell as a whole, and we think satisfactory arrangements may be made to occupy the present building, which is a centrally located store of five stories and basement, in which the business has been carried on for over fifty years.

Intending purchasers will be furnished by the administrators, in confidence, with price and full information upon application to JOHN HINKLEY, 215 North Charles Street, Baltimore, and will be allowed full opportunity for inspection of stock upon the administrators being satisfied of their responsibility and serious contemplation of purchasing.

The acceptance of any proposal of purchase will be subject to its approval by the Court.

THOS. J. MORRIS,
WILEY E. CUSHING, } Administrators, cts., of
JOHN HINKLEY, } Joseph M. Cushing

TO THE MEN WHO SELL BOOKS

LETTERS from a SELF-MADE MERCHANT to his SON

advance orders were solicited from the booksellers of the country. It was a "first" book by an author unknown to the trade. We did not try to force the book on the buyers, but asked each bookseller to read as much of the book as he had time to read and order on his own judgment. The result was advance orders for 10,000 copies before the book went to press.

THE BOOKSELLER BELIEVED IN THE BOOK.

The tremendous sale since its publication has justified the confidence of the booksellers. They are back of the Merchants' Letters. That is one of the three reasons why the book is selling so largely.

Another reason is that the reading public is getting back of it and its readers are advertising it by word of mouth, which is the best thing that can happen to a book.

The third reason is to be found in the book itself. It is the most humorous book of the year and contains more sense than any book of modern times.

Can we help you in any way in pushing the book locally?

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk **, and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price. ■

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JANUARY 31, 1903.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, should reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE BOOKS OF 1902.

THE books of 1902 differ little in quantity and quality from the books of 1901. The year was a full and prosperous one, unmarked by sensational elements or events inside or outside of the book trade. With the nations of the world at peace with one another, there were neither national nor foreign happenings to lend color or bias to the publications of the year. The "booming" of special novels ceased to be an advertising feature, and great sellers were not as plentiful as in 1901. Normal sales were reported all around, the good books of all classes coming in for a fair share of success.

The novel still holds its own as the favorite mental pabulum of the majority. The strain and hurry of American life is not favorable to study or serious reading in leisure moments. We naturally seek rest and recreation, turning to sources of simple enjoyment such as we find in fiction. That we are not always severely critical in our choice of entertainment is testified to in the immense sales credited to the great "sellers" of previous years. In the many novels written and published, however, there is always a remarkably large percentage of good, readable books. In the output of the year the young or unknown author was not noticeably in evidence. The successes of the year, both in fiction and other classes of literature, were achieved generally by our older writers. Scarcely a name of well established fame is missing from the long lists of books to be credited to 1902. Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Bret Harte, Aldrich, Crawford, Francis Hopkinson Smith, Henry James, William Dean Howells, G. W. Cable, Frank Stockton and Joel Chandler Harris are a few among the numerous favorite American writers whose names appeared on title-pages. It was particularly an American year, books by our own writers far outranking in numbers and in interest those taken from foreign sources.

Again, as in a former year, the second popular class was that of Biography, Correspondence and Memoirs. Although falling behind in figures several other classes of a less literary quality it was so rich in original works as to deserve mention after Fiction. Next to it in important works may be named Description and Travel, showing this year unusually valuable volumes of travel and exploration in all parts of the globe. The new editions of standard works were, as in 1901, most noteworthy. The decrease in religious or theological works, works of history, of political or social science, poetry and the drama, and especially of expensively illustrated works and of the regular gift book, is even more marked than in previous years. Many works on music, the drama and art were issued.

A number of our older and best-loved writers dropped out of the ranks during 1902. We regret to record the death of many typical Americans that time can never replace. Francis Bret Harte has passed away, Frank R. Stockton, Dr. Edward Eggleston, Mrs. Mary Hartwell Catherwood, Mrs. E. D. B. Stoddard, E. L. Godkin, and William Allen Butler, chiefly known to a former generation as the author of "Nothing to Wear." Horace E. Scudder, Prof. Charles K. Adams, and E. S. Brooks are representatives of a strenuous literary activity that will be sadly missed. Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton and T. De Witt Talmage are striking personalities that the public will mourn as silenced forever. Paul Leicester Ford and Frank Norris belonged to the younger group of novelists. Mrs. Annie French Hector, (Mrs. Alexander,) the popular English novelist, has written her last story, as has George Alfred Henry, so dear to the young in heart. Another English novelist, George Douglas Brown—so full of promise—died in the first glow of his fame. A great English historian was lost in Samuel Rawson Gardiner, and two celebrated poets in Aubrey de Vere and Philip James Bailey. The Rev. Joseph Parker has also gone, and Emile Zola, the greatest of French novelists. Prof. Rudolph Virchow, the world-renowned author and pathologist, was claimed by death during the year.

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY put on record during 1902 through its "Weekly Record of New Publications" 7833 books. Included in this total are the many new editions of standard works and issues of series. These new editions counted 2348 books. The new books counted 5485, making together the total of 7833. While practically we put on record as many new books as in 1901, the total falls short of that year on account of less new editions of fiction—as our table following shows—many of the cheap series having stopped publication, under the new postal rulings. Of these books 3285 were received at this office and 4548 had their titles gathered from copyright entries, from publishers' notes and in various other ways.

The first table which follows gives in classes the figures, approximately, of the book production in this country in 1902, with those of 1901 for comparison.

The second table attempts to show the number of books manufactured in the United States in 1902—first those by American authors, second those by English or other foreign authors made in this country according to the demands of copyright law, and third the books in English imported bound or in sheets; these three classes comprising the book production of the United States in 1902. The first and second classes are almost all copyright books. This table, like the former, scarcely claims to be exactly correct, as it is impossible always to trace the history of a work, from its author to its final publication. The table shows 5210 books by American authors against 4701 of 1901; 1578 books by English or other foreign authors (made here) against 2122 of 1901; and 1045 books, or sheets imported, against 1318 of 1901. The reprints were as usual the largest in Fiction, amounting to 818 books.

FICTION.

Among the numerous good novels from American authors published in 1902, "The Confessions of a Wife," sent out under the admitted pseudonym of "Mary Adams," aroused intense curiosity as to the real name of its author, while its subject and characters created the most violent and opposite criticism. The guesses as to its authorship have been as wide apart as the opinions regarding its merits or demerits, but the majority have settled upon Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, (Mrs. Herbert D. Ward,) as the writer masquerading as "Mary Adams." Her story of "Avery," issued about the same time as "The Confessions of a Wife," lends color to the surmise. The stories are singularly alike in motive, and both bear testimony in many ways of coming from the same pen. Only a trained and experienced writer could possess the cultured style in evidence all through "The Confessions of a Wife." The grace and distinction of style shown in the telling of Edith Wharton's "The Valley of Decision" have also been warmly praised. The story is historical, presenting an interesting phase of Italian politics at the end of the eighteenth century. That thought and research largely entered into the making of the book may be seen on every page. Crawford's "Cecilia," a story of modern Rome and reincarnation, was to the liking of many readers, and is generally voted to be one of his best efforts. "Cecilia" herself is not only charming, but the two heroes are fine specimens of manhood, their ideal friendship for each other being delightful reading.

Two of our veteran writers, Francis Hopkinson Smith and Joel Chandler Harris, drew upon their own personal experience in creating two remarkably readable novels. "The Fortunes of Oliver Horn" carries one back to the South before the Civil War, and afterwards to many amusing scenes in studio life in Bohemian quarters in the New York of forty years ago. Mr. Smith is particularly felicitous in describing the humors of student and boarding-house life. The biographical element in Mr. Harris's "Gabriel Tolliver" is even more strongly marked than in "The Fortunes of Oliver Horn." It is practically the story of the author's own boyhood and manhood during Reconstruction times in the South. Many others of our senior novelists came again before the reading public during the year. Howells gave us a novel of the middle west, called "The Kentons;" Henry James claimed to have returned to an earlier and less involved method of composition in "The Wings of a Dove," while Frank Stockton in "Kate Bonnet"—his last literary effort—was as quaintly funny as his warmest admirers could desire.

Two stories of Virginia, by two women of Virginia, were deservedly awarded the warmest praise. Mary Johnston's "Audrey," rich in poetry and romance, has a historical setting, in a century later, than her former novels. Ellen Glasgow's "The Battlefield," the second of the pair, is a most sympathetic story of southern home life immediately before and during the Civil War. The hero goes through the war in the ranks of the Confederate Army. The picture of the battlefield as seen through his eyes is wonderfully real. "The Virginian," who gives name to Owen Wister's novel—another of the year's successes—is seen chiefly in Wyoming as a ranchman. Mr. Wister's clever sketches of the humorous conditions of life on the plains, gathered in a great measure from his own observations, have been highly appreciated. As bright and dainty as anything he has written is Henry Harland's "The Lady Paramount." Its heroine is an Italian woman of rank, who seeks a cousin in England and becomes the centre of an ingenious love story. "Naughty Nan," one of John Luther Long's sentimental narratives of life and love, is most characteristic. It is nearly as elusively attractive as "Madame Butterfly." "Captain Macklin," a story of modern life and adventure, is related with all the dash and wealth of invention of which Richard Harding Davis is master. "Wanted—a Chaperon" was the last piece of fiction we had from the pen of Paul Leicester Ford. It is unusually fresh and witty. Booth Tarkington is to be credited with "The Two Vanrevels," a bright love story of Indiana in the time of the Mexican War. Paul Laurence Dunbar added greatly to his literary reputation with the pathetic story of "The Sport of the Gods." Hobart C. Chatfield-Taylor wrote "The Crimson Wing," a vivid story of the Franco-German War, with the scene mostly in Alsace, over which passed "the crimson wing" of war. Mary Tappan Wright is the author of "Aliens," which breaks almost unworked ground in its pictures of present social and political conditions at the South. "The Rescue" is from one of our most talented young writers—Anne Douglas Sedgwick—and deals chiefly with heredity. "The Desert and the Sown" is another of Mary Hallock Foote's western stories. Music and its influence is the leading theme in a novel of New England life by Jeannette Lee, entitled "The Son of a Fiddler." Frontier life with its striking incidents is pictured in Hamlin Garland's "The Captain of the Grayhorse Troop." European scenes and history were the inspiration of the following novels by American authors: "Francezka," a tale of France in the days of Louis xv., by Molly Elliot Seawell; "Castle Cranecrow," by G. Barr McCutcheon; "Mr. Whitman," a story of the brigands of southern Italy, by Mrs. Elizabeth Pullen; and "King for a Summer," a story also of brigands and of Corsican life and adventure, by Edgar Pickering; and "Her Serene Highness," by David Graham Phillips, in a "Prisoner of Zenda" vein.

name all the novels of the year worthy of mention, so will have to content ourselves with quoting a few others that come readily to memory at the present time, such as "The Diary of a Goose Girl," by Kate Douglas Wiggin; "The Misdemeanors of Nancy," by Eleanor Hoyt; "Hardwicke," by H. E. Rood; "The Courage of Conviction," by T. R. Sullivan; "The Henchman," by Mark Lee Luther; "Vive L'Empereur," by Mary R. S. Andrews; "The Things That Are Caesar's," "Oldfield," by Nancy Huston Banks; "The Millionairess," by Julian Ralph; "Mrs. Tree," by Laura E. H. Richards; "A Pastebord Crown," a story of the New York stage, by Clara Morris; "Bayard's Courier," by B. K. Benson; "The Right Princess," by Clara Louise Burnham; "The Maid-at-Arms," by Robert W. Chambers; "The Spenders," by Harry Leon Wilson; "The Strollers," by F. S. Isham; "The Strength of the Weak," by Chauncey C. Hotchkiss; "The Mississippi Bubble," by Emerson Hough; and "To the End of the Trail," by Frank Lewis Mason.

That the short story is still popular is testified to by the many volumes from representative American writers. A number of Frank Stockton's recent stories were gathered under the title of "John Gayther's Garden and the Stories Told Therein;" Joel Chandler Harris sent out short stories in a volume named "The Making of a Statesman;" "A Sea Turn and Other Matters" stands for a collection of short stories comprising practically all that Thomas Bailey Aldrich has written since the publication of his collected works several years ago; another "household name," Bret Harte, is on the title-page of nine stories of vigorous Western life entitled "Openings in the Old Trail;" Rev. Henry Van Dyke's "The Blue Flower" represents nine of his best stories. Other volumes of the year were Mrs. Cruger's "World's People," Josephine Dodge Daskam's "Whom the Gods Destroyed," Richard Harding Davis's "Ranson's Folly," James B. Connolly's "Out of Gloucester," Elizabeth G. Jordan's "Tales of Destiny," and Karl Harriman's "Ann Arbor Tales." Stage life found realistic depiction in Clara Morris's "Stage Confidences" and Ada Patterson's and Victory Bateman's "By the Stage Door." "Alabama Sketches," by S. Minturn Peck, and "On Fortune's Road," by Will Payne, are transcripts of life south and west.

The number of fine editions of standard works were even larger than in former years. In fiction we have chiefly to record several editions of Hawthorne, the Riverside edition of the writings of Bret Harte, a new uniform edition of the works of Francis Marion Crawford, and the novels, stories and sketches of Francis Hopkinson Smith.

Reprints of English novels were abundant and generally of a very good quality. One of the best English novels of the year was A. E. W. Mason's "The Four Feathers," a finely-told story of a young English soldier's redemption of his good name, after having been suspected of cowardice. Elizabeth Godfrey's "The Winding Road," and Mrs. Dudeney's "Spindle and Plough" belong to a class of novels English authors are particularly happy in the writing. Without any strongly defined plot, they include an interest in so many topics of the hour and are written with so much intellectual vigor as to be altogether delightful. Music and gardening are the sub-topics here to two interesting love stories. "The Hound of the Baskervilles" is Conan Doyle's contribution to fictitious literature. It is thrilling and startling enough, introducing our old friend Sherlock Holmes. Ernest W. Hornung is becoming a strong rival to Arthur Conan Doyle in the detective story. He is at his best in his two novels of the year—"At Large" and "The Shadow of the Rope." "The Credit of the County" is one of W. E. Norris's capital stories of English country life. The author of "Dodo," E. F. Benson, again castigates the "smart" set of London in "Scarlet and Hyssop." "The Cat's Paw" is one of Mrs. Bertha M. Croker's fascinating stories of Anglo-Indian life. "Love and the Soul Hunters" is the puzzling title of "John Oliver Hobbes's" only novel of 1902. Other novels that claimed attention were T. Quiller-Couch's "The Westcotes," a pathetic, old-fashioned story of an English town during the Napoleonic wars; T. Anstey Guthrie's "A Bayard from Bengal," F. Frankfort Moore's "A Damsel or Two," Justin Huntly McCarthy's "If I Were King," "The Founding of Fortunes," by Jane Barlow, a story of the west coast of Ireland; "The Sea Lady," one of Herbert G. Wells's wildly imaginative stories; Anthony Hope Hawkins's "The Intrusions of Peggy," witty and amusing; S. R. Crockett's romance of Galloway, "The Dark o' the Moon;" and "The Banner of Blue," a story of the disruption period in Scotland: Sir Walter Besant's "No Other Way," J. M. Barrie's "The Little White Bird," Arthur Morrison's "The Hole in the Wall," Marie Corelli's "Temporal Power," Mrs. Clifford's "Margaret Vincent," Ellen Thorneycroft Fowler's "Fuel of Fire," Mrs. Walford's "Charlotte,"

Henry Seton Merriman's "The Vultures," S. Harden Church's "Penruddock of the White Lambs," and "Glengarry School Days," by Ralph Connor. The English short stories are easily named. Jane Barlow's "At the Back of Beyond" is an admirable collection of Irish character sketches. "Moth and Rust, and Other Stories" are from Mary Cholmondeley, the author of "Red Pottage." Then there were "Tales About Temperaments," by "John Oliver Hobbes;" "Donovan Pasha and Some People of Egypt," by Gilbert Parker; "Deep-Sea Plunderings," by Frank T. Bullen; "The Lady of the Barge," by W. W. Jacobs; "The Thousand Eugenias, and Other Stories," by Mrs. Andrew Dean; and "The White Wolf, and Other Fireside Tales," by T. Quiller-Couch.

Fine new editions were published of Jane Austen's works, Kingsley's, Bulwer-Lytton's, Scott's, Smollett's, Trollope's, Lever's and Lover's, and English translations of the romances of Dumas, Paul de Kock, Alphonse Daudet and Theophile Gautier.

The translations of current novels from foreign languages grow less and less. From the Russian there were two more volumes of short stories by Maxime Gorky, both realistic and pessimistic. "The Romance of Leonardo da Vinci," by Dimitri Merejkowski, known in the original Russian as "The Resurrection of the Gods," is the second volume of the author's trilogy, entitled "Christ and Anti-Christ," of which the first volume was entitled "The Death of the Gods"; and from Henry Iliowizi came "The Archierey of Samara." From the German is to be noted a translation of Felix Dahn's "Captive of the Roman Eagles;" from the Austrian novelist, Rosegger, "The Earth and the Fullness Thereof," a romance of modern Styria, and from the Dutch "The Deeps of Deliverance," by Frederick Van Eden, one of the most distinguished of living Dutch authors. Valdes's "José" was taken from the Spanish and put into an English dress; the Polish yielded us a historical novel of ancient Egypt called "The Pharaoh and the Priest," by Alexander Glovatski, translated by Jeremiah Curtin; the Hungarian, a romantic tale of Jokai's called "Told by the Death's Head." From the Italian was taken Matilde Serao's "The Conquest of Rome," a tale of modern life and politics in the Italian capital, and from the French "The House of the Combrays," by G. Le Notre, translated by Mrs. Joseph B. Gilder. This novel is a dramatic setting forth of the Royalist intrigues of the

BIOGRAPHY, MEMOIRS, CORRESPONDENCE.

This class for some years has taken a lower place, numerically in our tables than several others of less literary interest. It touches Fiction so close, however, in popular favor, and is so rich in original works, altogether out of proportion with its figures, that it claims early notice in our review. Our noted men of literary and political fame indulged largely in 1902 in autobiography, their reminiscences covering fifty or even more years in many cases and vivifying in fine literary style the prominent men and events of their past. The venerable Edward Everett Hale gave us "Memories of a Hundred Years," an interesting and condensed history of the nineteenth century; George Sewall Boutwell, for many years Secretary of the U. S. Treasury, in "Reminiscences of Sixty Years in Public Affairs," put into permanent form invaluable details of some of the occurrences of the most strenuous period of our existence as a nation; George Francis Train also turned back to former days in his seventy-fourth year, dictating in a miraculously brief time, the romance and adventure of which he has been the central figure in "My Life in Many States and in Foreign Lands;" "Colonel Alexander K. McClure's Recollections of Half a Century," embraces the story of a celebrated journalist's contact with Lincoln, Jefferson Davis, Grant, Hayes, Arthur, Cleveland and other famous men; the great Brooklyn preacher, pastor and author, the Rev. Theodore L. Cuyler, offers a fascinating volume in his "Recollections of a Long Life," rich in anecdote and reminiscence. Other great Americans were the subjects of loving biographies. Barnard Alderson, in writing his biography of "Andrew Carnegie," had the advantage of the assistance of people who knew Mr. Carnegie best. It may be accepted as the most authentic record yet prepared regarding "the man and his work." "Philip Freneau," the poet of the Revolution, was the hero of a sympathetic monograph by Mary S. Austin. John Newton was equally impartial and frankly admiring in his little book on "Captain John Brown, of Harper's Ferry." "Thoreau, his Home, Friends and Books," besides being the story of his life, is also an estimate of his rank and services as naturalist and author. Annie Russell Marble, from whose careful pen, it is received, has made a fresh and delightful work. The Bishop of Massachusetts wrote a life of Roger Wolcott, the late governor of Massachusetts, one of the most patriotic public servants.

John Burroughs' study of the great American ornithologist, "John James Audubon," was one of the issues of Beacon Biographies; notable additions to the Riverside Biographical Series were William Garrott Brown's "Stephen Arnold Douglas," the first life that has appeared of Douglas since the Civil War, and Henry Dwight Sedgwick's life of "Samuel de Champlain," the great French explorer and colonizer. "General Forrest," the dashing Confederate cavalry officer, was admitted into the Great Commanders' Series, his eventful career being depicted by J. Harvey Mathes. American Men of Letters Series was enriched by fresh biographies embracing new details and new view points of "Henry Wadsworth Longfellow," by Thomas Wentworth Higginson, and of "Nathaniel Hawthorne," by George E. Woodberry. Appleton's Series of Historic Lives received two works from the pen of Reuben Gold Thwaites, one a new telling from new material of the life of "Daniel Boone," the other the story of "Father Marquette," the explorer of the western wilderness.

Daniel Webster excited new interest in writers. He was the subject of two new biographies, one by John Bach McMaster, the other by Samuel W. McCall. His letters were also published from documents owned principally by the New Hampshire Historical Society. Aaron Burr still remains a fertile topic for discussion. We had "The True Aaron Burr," by Charles Burr Todd and "Aaron Burr, his Personal and Political Relations with Jefferson and Hamilton," by Isaac Jenkinson. And to the many, many works on the first Emperor of France were added "Napoleon," by T. E. Watson and "The True Napoleon," by Charles Josselyn.

Works of a biographical or an autobiographical nature relating to the stage and to art generally are to be noted in the following interesting group: Fanny Reed's "Reminiscences, Musical and Other," James H. Stoddard's "Recollections of a Player," Strang's "Players and Plays of the Last Quarter Century," (2 v.), and Marghereta Hamm's "Eminent Actors and their Homes."

Still to be mentioned as coming from American authors are Elisabeth Luther Cary's fine study of "William Morris," as poet, craftsman, socialist; Harry Spurr's "Life and Writings of Alexandre Dumas," Riley's "The Founder of Mormonism," a psychological study of Joseph Smith, Jr.; Helen M. Winslow's "Literary Boston of To-Day;" D. M. Wilson's "Where American Independence Began;" "A Doffed Coronet," a true story of a life by the author of "The Martyrdom of an Empress;" "Nathan Hale," the ideal patriot, by W. Ordway Partridge, and the "Life of Ulrich Zwingli," the Swiss patriot and reformer, by Samuel Simpson.

Even more elaborate biographies and a greater number came from the other side in reprints and importations. Among the more important from English authors we may mention as leading the list, Dr. James Drummond's "Life and Letters of James Martineau, LL.D." (2 v.). This great English divine and profound thinker and metaphysician could not have fallen into better hands than those of Dr. Drummond, who knew him long and well and thoroughly appreciated his great life work, not only for the Unitarian body of Christians—but for Christianity itself. The "Autobiography of Sir Walter Besant" appeals to a larger class of readers than those who have known him merely through his popular novels. "William Black, Novelist," is a personal testimony to another appreciated novelist, by Sir Wemyss Reid. T. Edgar Pemberton wrote charmingly of "Ellen Terry and her Sisters." "Mozart" is the latest volume of the series of Master Musicians, the author being Eustace J. Breakspeare. "Henry V., the Typical Mediæval Hero," written by C. L. Kingsford, and "Edward Plantagenet," by Edward Jenks, were the most recent volumes of Heroes of the Nations Series. "Plato," by D. G. Ritchie, belongs to the World's Epoch-Makers Series, and treats both of Plato's life and the Platonic writings. "Robespierre" is a new portrait based upon fresh research, by the author of "Danton"—Hilaire Belloc. What might be considered a chapter in the life of the great Shakespearean scholar is represented by Mary Cowden Clarke's "Letters to an Enthusiast," written between 1850-1861, and brimming over with details and allusions to London literary and society people. New volumes were added to English Men of Letters of William Hazlitt, John Ruskin, Matthew Arnold, Tennyson, George Eliot, Samuel Richardson and also of four Americans.

Outside of our own literature probably no books of 1902 were so eagerly read as those relating to the South African war. Two of the more important ones were General De Wet's "Three Years' War," and "The Memoir of Paul Kruger." Both works are largely historical, but are limited somewhat to the personal narrative. They are of unusual interest, especially De Wet's story, which has been highly praised by the English press as well as our own. Madame Adam's "The Romance of my Childhood and Youth," introduces the interesting French woman—editor of the Nouvelle Revue and author of long standing. Two French adventuresses are celebrated in "Memoirs of Mme. Du Barri" and Ida Saint-Elme's "Memoirs of a Contemporary." Both are from the French. Most valuable biographical works were shown in limited imported editions, chiefly from English sources which we regret we have not space to enumerate.

LITERARY HISTORY AND MISCELLANY.

The inclusion in this classification of works of reference and the many new editions of standard works, gives it the appearance in numbers of being much richer than it really is. The important literary works from American authors were not very great. William Dean Howells's "Literature and Life," John Burroughs's "Literary Values," and Charles Dudley Warner's "Fashions in Literature," a posthumous collection of essays, are volumes of essays and reminiscences of intrinsic worth. A polished style and profound thought and deep culture are qualities that characterize each. Francis Whiting Halsey's "Our Literary Deluge and Some of Its Deeper Waters" embraces the literary essays of a well-known journalist. "Work and Days" stands for recent short papers contributed to periodicals by Hamilton Wright Mabie.

The literary student is directed to carefully prepared works in literary history and criticism such as Liddell's "Introduction to the Scientific Study of English Poetry," Moody and Lovett's "History of English Literature," Leo Wiener's "Anthology of Russian Literature," Sears's "American Literature in the Colonial and National Periods," E. G. Bourne's "Essays in Historical Criticism," one of the valuable Yale Bicentennial Publications, and T. R. Lounsbury's "Shakespeare and Voltaire." Other works of this class to be enumerated in the history of the year were Ludlow's "Incentives to Life," Bliss Perry's "Study of Prose Fiction," and Lee's "Lost Art of Reading."

From the English we note the second series of Austin Dobson's "Miscellanies," Stopford A. Brooke's "The Poetry of Robert Browning," a thoughtful study of a great poet's best works, and Browne's "A Literary History of Persia." "The Buried Temple" is the latest collection of essays from Maurice Maeterlinck, translated by Alfred Sutro.

The year brought some works of reference of unusual importance. Three volumes are out of "The New International Encyclopædia," edited by Daniel Coit Gilman, Harry Thurston Peck and Frank Moore Colby, who control a staff of experts a "partial list" of whose names occupies eight pages. This thoroughly modern work, abreast of its date in every particular, is scheduled to be contained in 17 volumes. Two more volumes were issued of the "Jewish Encyclopædia," edited by I. Singer, the combined work of more than 400 European and American scholars, a monumental undertaking to be completed in twelve volumes. "The Literature of American History," with Josephus Nelson Larned as chief editor, gives the scope, character and comparative worth of about 4000 books in selected lists. The departments of the history of the United States is divided geographically and chronologically. The Index to the "Trade List Annual," (the collected catalogues of American publishers,) was brought out and is proving a valuable help in bookstores and libraries. Alice B. Kroeger's "Guide to the Study of Reference Books" also deserves attention.

HISTORY.

The book of the year in American history is "A History of the American People," by T. Woodrow Wilson, President of Princeton University. It is a most comprehensive work in five volumes, bringing the picturesque narrative of our story as a nation down to date. With its wealth of pictures it is a unique work in every way. The last volume from the pen of Dr. John Fiske is "New France and New England"—it forms the only remaining link needed to complete the chain of histories of this country, upon which the author had for so many years been engaged. The American History Series was extended by a new volume by J. W. Burgess on "Reconstruction and the Constitution, 1866-1876." James Kendall Homer told in detail "The History of the Louisiana Purchase," presenting new and interesting phases of a most important historical event. "New Amsterdam and its People," by J. H. Innes, is a collection of studies based upon the original records, social and topographical, of the town under Dutch and early English rule. "The Story of the Mormons," from the date of their origin to the year 1901, is a secular and not a religious narrative, by William Alexander Linn. "The Private Soldier Under Washington," by Charles Knowles Bolton, is a vindication of the soldier in the ranks. James Curtis Balagh wrote "A History of Slavery in Virginia." It was one of the Johns Hopkins University Studies. "Ohio and Her Western Reserve," by Alfred Mathews, "The True History of the American Revolution," by Sydney G. Fisher, "Schley and Santiago," by George E. Graham, and "The Colonials," by Allen French, are all worthy of mention.

From English sources we have to acknowledge Justin McCarthy's "The Reign of Queen Anne" (2 v.). It describes one of the most brilliant periods in English history, with its great soldiers and authors and romantic events. The second volume was published of Andrew Lang's "A History of Scotland from the Roman Occupation." There is still another volume to come of one of the most thoroughly studied works from original documents we have examined. The element of personal character and adventure, which he introduces, with his fascinating manner of telling his story, give a rare charm to the work. Another work with all the alluring qualities of fiction, also from Andrew Lang, is "James VI. and the Gowrie Mystery," offering a solution of one of the problems of Scotch history that no one has ever been able to explain. The 62d and 63d numbers of the Story of the Nations Series belong to 1902. The first was Owen M. Edwards' "Wales," the second William Miller's "Mediæval Rome" from Hildebrand to Clement VIII., 1073-1600. Arthur Conan Doyle's "The War in South Africa," Michael Davitt's "The Boer Fight for Freedom," and Hiley and Hassell's "The Mobile Boer" were contributions to a topic of timely interest. Emerson's "History of the Nineteenth Century," in 3 volumes, gives year by year the happenings of a century. Published simultaneously in Germany, England and the United States in the early part of the year was the first volume of the voluminous "History of the World," edited by Hans F. Helmolt and others. It is offered as a companion to every encyclopedia and as a picture of the development of mankind in the light of modern discovery and research. There will be eight volumes in the work, the first and fourth being the only ones issued so far. "The Unspeakable Scot," a half humorous, half serious and wholly ironical indictment of the Scottish character and temperament, was the production of T. W. H. Crossland, an English journalist. It seems to have a place midway between history and description. We call attention to it, as it was one of the much talked about books of the year. A study of the origins of the French Revolution may be sought in James Mackinnon's "The Growth and Decline of the French Monarchy." Charles Oman's "A History of the Peninsular War" had its first volume, covering 1807 to 1809, sent out. This exhaustive work will embrace an enormous bulk of valuable material that has accumulated since Napier's "Peninsular War" was published some sixty years ago. "The German Empire of To-Day" outlines its formation and development. "Studies in Irish History," by C. Litton Falkiner, sketches striking events and personages in eighteenth century Ireland, and "China and the Powers" is a narrative of the outbreak of 1900, by H. C. Thomson.

DESCRIPTION AND TRAVEL.

New York City was an unusually popular subject with American writers of 1902. Six descriptive works, all of importance and value and rich in pictures of fleeting scenes of the metropolis, call for notice. The most elaborate and expensive work was "Famous Families of New York," by Margherita Hamm (2 v.). While comprised of the life stories of well-known families of the city—the work is also descriptive and historical, and seems to find its most fitting place here with its companion volumes, which are "New York, Old and New" (2 v.), by Rufus Rockwell Wilson, "Annals of Old Manhattan," by Julia M. Colton, "When Old New York was Young," by Charles Hemstreet, "New York Sketches," by Jesse Lynch Williams, and "Social New York Under the Georges," by Esther Singleton. The latter work is most beautiful and interesting, devoting itself to a reproduction of the artistic home adornments of a period of lavish living in old New York. The eruption of Mount Pelée called forth numerous books. The really authentic account appears to be that of George Kennan's "The Tragedy of Pelée." Italy was a country that had fresh attractions for the American traveller, judging from the books it inspired. Katharine Hooker's "Wayfarers in Italy" is genuinely appreciative of Italian scenery, history and art. E. H. and E. W. Blashfield's "Italian Cities" describes a dozen or more places to which will forever cling literary and artistic memories. Théophile Gautier's "Journeys in Italy," charmingly translated from the French by Daniel B. Vermilye, and handsomely illustrated, formed one of the holiday publications and may be cited in this place. Also "Italian Life in Town and Country," by Luigi Villari, an Italian writer, we judge, though the work was published in the copyrighted series—Our European Neighbours—which includes other copyright books, such as L. Higgin's "Spanish Life in Town and Country" and Alfred T. Story's "Swiss Life in Town and Country."

An elaborate work, profusely illustrated, is Carl Lumholtz's "Unknown Mexico." As a record of five years' research in Northwestern Mexico, made under the auspices and support of the American Museum of Natural History and the American Geographical Society, it is unparalleled, being, without doubt, one of the most important additions made to the literature of exploration and discovery on this continent in recent years. Another little known country was visited by Francis H. Nichols, also an American, in the autumn of 1901; he gives the history of his journey in "Through Hidden Shensi." This province—Shensi—of China includes the "Boxers' country," and is peopled by strange inhabitants of whom some account is given. "Glimpses of China and Chinese Homes" naturally follows the former book. Mr. Edward S. Morse, in a short visit to China, made a thorough study of the domestic ways of the people, rapidly sketching in outline their rooms, kitchens and other homely details of Chinese life, which are all included in this work. Bishop Potter's "The East of To-Day and To-Morrow" reflects his impressions gained of the people, their religions, etc., in recent visits to Japan, China, India, Hawaii and the Philippines. Two works on Greece—"In Argolis," by George Horton, and "The Story of Athens," by Howard Crosby Butler—deal with its life, literature and art, and its exquisite scenery. James J. W. G. Walker, in "Ocean to Ocean," gives an account, personal and historical, of Nicaragua and its people. "An American at Oxford" is an interesting impression of life at the great English university by a Harvard man—John Corbin. "On an Irish Jaunting-Car Through Donegal and Connemara" abounds in fun and vivid descriptions culled in a journey made by S. Gamble Bayne. "Vienna and the Viennese," by Maria Horner Lansdale, "Spain and Her People," by Jeremiah Zimmerman, and "Japan and Her People" (2 v.), by Anna C. Hartshorne, were issues of the holiday season, generously illustrated. During the year a new series was begun—"Historic Highways of America," by Archer Butler Hulbert—which has a strong historic interest to Americans. The first volume treated of "Paths of the Mound-Building Indians," the second of "Indian Thoroughfares." Of special attraction to all readers who care for the romance of our merchant and naval ships are Abbot's "American Merchant Ships and Sailors," Marvin's "The American Merchant Marine," and Hill's "Twenty-six Historic Ships."

"All the Russias," by the well-known English journalist, Henry Norman, is the outcome of fifteen years' interest in Russian affairs, culminating in four journeys in European and Asiatic Russia. Part of the same ground is covered in G. F. Wright's "Asiatic Russia." "Across Coveted Lands," by A. H. Savage Landor, author of "China and the Allies," is associated in interest with the foregoing. It is the result of an extraordinary tour through Persia, Beluchistan, and Afghanistan, and has reference to Russia's long-planned designs to reach the Indian Ocean. Still to be named from English writers are: Lady Agnes Grove's "Seventy-one Days' Camping in Morocco," Frances Macnab's "A Ride in Morocco," Campbell's "Siam in the Twentieth Century," the third volume of the scientific results of the Nansen Norwegian North Polar Expedition, 1893-1896, Spender's "Two Winters in Norway," Webber's "Forests of Upper India," Fraser's "The Real Siberia," Paul Fountain's "The Great Mountains and Forests of South America," "Through the Heart of Patagonia," by H. H. Prichard, and "The Path to Rome," by Hilaire Belloc.

POETRY AND THE DRAMA.

There was very little poetry written in 1902, even less than in 1901. Among American poets Will Carleton gathered his poems of recent years together under the title "Songs of Two Centuries." Charming verses for and about children are comprised in James Whitcomb Riley's "The Book of Joyous Children." Robert Bridges ("Droch") sent forth a characteristic volume—"Bramble Brae." Also belonging to the year were Owen Innsley's "Love Songs and Other Poems," James Vila Blake's "Songs" and "Sonnets," Robert Underwood Johnson's "Poems," E. S. Martin's "Poems and Verses," and Joseph Crosby Lincoln's "Cape Cod Ballads."

The latest collection of poems of Alfred Austin, England's poet laureate, was entitled "A Tale of True Love and Other Poems." "Ulysses," Stephen Phillips' Homeric drama, found favor both with the reading public and theatre-goers. "Iris," a drama by Arthur Wing Pinero, one of England's popular dramatists, was also brought out in book form. Two of Gabriele d'Annunzio's recent plays were translated and published, namely, "The Dead City" and "Francesca Da Rimini." "The Joy of Living" (Es lebe das leben), Sudermann's masterpiece, was taken from the German by Edith Wharton and made into concise English for the American stage.

ART BOOKS AND WORKS OF ART.

The only real art book of the year from an American source was Timothy Cole's "Old English Masters." Mr. Cole's wonderful technique as an engraver proves him truly a great artist. His reproductions of these masterpieces of English eighteenth century art, it is safe to say, will never find duplication. Original work was displayed in Charles Dana Gibson's "The Social Ladder," and also in Frederic Remington's "Done in the Open," transcripts of wild western life. Finely illustrated books of the Christmas season were Hamilton Wright Mabie's "Under the Trees," Mrs. Alice Morse Earle's "Sun-Dials and Roses of Yesterday," Mary C. Crawford's "The Romance of Old New England Roof-trees," Clara Crawford Perkins's "French Cathedrals and Chateaux," and Frances Clary Morse's "Furniture of the Olden Time," "Stories of Authors' Loves," by Clara E. Laughlin, "Historic Houses of New Jersey," by W. Jay Mills, and "Social Life in the Early Republic," by Anna H. Wharton. That the group possesses, individually, strong literary qualities, the titles indicate.

Works relating to music were quite numerous. "From Greig to Brahms," by Daniel Gregory Mason, was a collection of studies of some modern composers and their art; "Musical Pastels" represents a series of sketches, setting forth certain rare musical events from George Putnam Upton; the same writer prepared a volume on "The Standard Light Operas" and their plots and their music; the second series of "Symphonies and Their Meanings," by Philip H. Goepp, was published; Arthur Elson's "Orchestral Instruments and Their Use" gives a description of each instrument now employed by civilized nations; "The Organ and its Masters," by H. C. Lahee, is an account both of the development of the organ and of celebrated organists; "Music in the History of the Western Church," by E. Dickinson, tells its own story, as does "The Story of the Art of Music," by F. J. Crowest. These are mostly from our own writers. To the German we are indebted for Alfredo Untersteiner's "A Short History of Music" and Lili Lehmann's "How to Sing." "Reminiscences of a Dramatic Critic" comes from a noted Boston critic, Henry Austin Clapp, for many years attached to the Boston Advertiser.

On the art of painting is J. C. Van Dyke's brief monograph on "Italian Painting;" also Charles H. Caffin's "American Masters of Painting." Esther Singleton is the editor of "Famous Paintings," illustrated and described, and Mary Knight Potter in "The Art of the Vatican" gave a brief account of this vast treasure house and its contents.

Illustrated works of merit from various sources, not to go unmentioned, are Le Gallienne's "An Old Country House," illustrated by Elizabeth Shippen Greene; "Pictures of Romance and Wonder," a collection of prints reproducing the more important of Burne-Jones' paintings; "Old English Songs and Dances," decorated by W. Graham Robertson; "William Blake," being all his woodcuts photographically reproduced in facsimile; "The Art of Walter Crane," by Paul G. Konody; "Modern Mural Decoration," by Alfred Lys Baldry; and "William Hogarth," by Henry Austin Dobson.

POLITICAL AND SOCIAL SCIENCE.

Probably the most popular contribution to this department was Andrew Carnegie's "The Empire of Business," which treats in a practical, common-sense method many questions of the hour relating to labor and capital, thrift, business success, trusts, etc. "The Trusts" were considered by many men, on all sides, in a book under that title. Related topics are the subjects of F. A. Cleveland's "Funds and Their Uses," Barnett's "State Banking in the United States Since the Passage of the National Bank Act," and Davis's "Tracts Relating to the Currency of the Massachusetts Bay, 1682-1720."

Social experiments and studies are comprised in the following group: "Americans in Process," a Settlement study, edited by Robert A. Woods; "The Battle with the Slum," by Jacob A. Riis; "The Spirit of the Ghetto," by Hutchins Hapgood; "The Blood of the Nation," a study of the decay of races through the survival of the unfit, by David Starr Jordan; "Human Nature and the Social Order," by Charles Horton Cooley; "The Leaven in a Great City," a book showing the advance in social life among the working people of New York, by Lillian W. Betts; "Prisoners of Russia," a personal study of convict life in Siberia, by Dr. Benjamin Howard; Bishop Potter's "The Citizen in His Relation to the Industrial Situation"—the "Yale Lectures on the Responsibilities of Citizenship;" Madison Peters' "The Jew as a Patriot," and David J. Brewer's "American Citizenship," in the same series.

Suggestive and thoughtful volumes on government are found in Paul S. Reinsch's "Colonial Government," belonging to The Citizen's Library of Economics; in Snow's "The Administration of Dependencies," a study of the federal empire, with special reference to American colonial problems; Wood's "Government and the State;" and "Retrospect and Prospect," studies in international relations, by Captain Mahan.

"West Point in the Early Sixties," by J. P. Farley, and "Life at West Point," by Harry Irving Hancock, are rich in useful and interesting information. Other books that might still be quoted are Bates's "American Navigation," Fernow's "Economics of Forestry," Burton's "Financial Crises," "Labor and Capital," edited by J. J. Peters for Questions of the Day, and "Insurance and Crime," by Alexander Colin Campbell. Wolf von Schierbrand's "Germany, the Welding of a World Power," is the result of his long career as a newspaper correspondent on the Continent, where he had quite unusual opportunities of becoming familiar with the inner workings of the German government. W. T. Stead's "Americanization of the World" was full of suggestion. The many publications of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, of the Johns Hopkins University and the Columbia University embrace most valuable monographs upon all the allied subjects considered under this heading.

RELIGION AND THEOLOGY.

The additions here are less even than in any former year. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, the successor of Henry Ward Beecher, wrote inspiringly of "The Quest of Happiness;" Dr. Rainsford of "The Reasonableness of Faith." Bishop Spalding sent forth a volume of essays entitled "Religion, Agnosticism and Education." A course of lectures by Newman Smyth is comprised in "Through Science to Faith." Arthur Tappan Pierson discoursed on "The Gordian Knot; or, the Problem Which Baffles Infidelity," Dr. Schenck on "The Ten Commandments," Amory Howe Bradford on "The Ascent of the Soul," E. Everett Keedy on "The Naturalness of Christian Life," Washington Gladden on "Social Salvation," and W. De Witt Hyde on "Jesus' Way." "Eternalism" is a strenuous argument for the pre-existence of the soul. Orlando Jay Smith is the author. "One World at a Time," a contribution to the incentives of life, comes from a Unitarian minister, J. R. Slicer. An interesting record of personal observation is embraced in Ernest Hamlin Abbott's "Religious Life in America."

These are from American authors and divines. From the English were the third series of the Gifford lectures for 1901-1902, by W. James, under the name of "The Varieties of Religious Experiences," Dr. Robert Rainy's "The Ancient Catholic Church," in the International Theological Library, and "The Theology and Ethics of the Hebrews," by Prof. Archibald Duff, in the Semitic Series. Add to these Leighton's "Typical Modern Conceptions of God," Dr. Orr's "Progress of Dogma," and the Rev. Dr. Newbolt's "Priestly Blemishes."

SCIENCE.

The output in Science proper was indeed meagre. The department is chiefly represented by even a greater number of nature books than were published in 1901. Educational works of general interest were almost entirely absent from those grouped here, the large figures in our tables counting for regular text books. We might name under the heading Benjamin Kidd's "Principles of Western Civilization," which the author of "Social Evolution" describes as "the first volume of a system of evolutionary philosophy," James Mark Baldwin's "Fragments in Philosophy and Science," being collected essays and addresses, and John Grier Hibben's "Hegel's Logic," an essay in interpretation. Otherwise the classification is unusually devoid of interest.

BOOK PRODUCTION IN FRANCE IN 1902.

THE number of books published in France during 1902, according to the official record in the Bibliographie de la France, was 12,199, or 854 less than in 1901. The number of musical compositions recorded was 6719, showing an increase of 169 over those of 1900. The number of engravings, lithographs and photographs recorded during the past year show an increase of 65, being 843 in 1902 as against 778 in 1901.

REPORT OF THE REGISTER OF COPYRIGHTS FOR 1902.

THE report of Thorvald Solberg, Register of Copyrights, on the copyright business and the work of the Copyright Office for the fiscal year from July 1, 1901, to June 30, 1902, inclusive, appended to the report of the Librarian of Congress, presents the following facts:

RECEIPTS.

The gross receipts during the year were $68,405.08. A balance of $1250.19, representing trust funds and unfinished business, was on hand July 1, 1901, making a total of $69,655.27 to be accounted for. Of this amount $3752.37 was refunded, having been sent to the Copyright Office as excess fees, or as fees for articles not registerable, leaving a net balance of $65,902.90. The balance carried over July 1, 1902, was $1217.40, (representing trust funds, $915.91, and unfinished business since July 1, 1897, $301.49,) leaving for fees applied during the fiscal year 1901-2 $64,685.50. In addition $1.50 was applied during the year for copyright entries out of the fees received and paid into the Treasury prior to July 1, 1897, making a total of applied fees of $64,687; and $1 was refunded in the same way, making a total refund of $3,753.37, credit being allowed by the Treasury Department for the sum of $2.50 in settlement of the yearly account.

EXPENDITURES.

Of the appropriations made by Congress for salaries for the Copyright Office for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1902, the sum used amounted to $56,714.23, and the expenditure for supplies, stationery, all other articles not designated as "furniture," postage on foreign matter, etc., was $954.40, making a total of $57,668.63, leaving a credit balance when this amount is deducted from the amount of fees earned during the year of $7016.87.

The copyright fees received and paid into the United States Treasury during the last five fiscal years, from July 1, 1897, to June 30, 1902, amount to $307,774.001, while the sum used of the appropriations for salaries during that period was $215,956.26, leaving an excess of fees over appropriations used for service of $91,817.74 for the five years.

In addition to this excess of fees over appropriations for service it should be remembered that two copies of each article, (exclusive of original works of art,) are required to be deposited for the use of the library. This deposit for the fiscal year 1901-2 amounted to 169,726 articles, including books, maps, engravings, musical compositions, photographs, etc., many of them of considerable money value and such as would otherwise have been required to be purchased and paid for by direct appropriation by Congress.

COPYRIGHT ENTRIES.

The total number of entries of titles during the fiscal year was 92,978. Of this number 84,345 were titles of productions of persons citizens or residents of the United States, and 8633 were titles of productions of persons not citizens or residents of the United States. The fees for these entries were: United States, $42,172.50; foreign, $8633, or a total of $50,805.50.

Of the foreign entries 2412 were with certificates and of the United States entries 22,343, or a total of 24,755 certificates, at fees amounting to $12,377.50. In addition, 1692 copies of record were furnished at fees amounting to $846; 533 assignments were recorded and certified at a charge of $636, and search fees charged to the amount of $22.

The number of entries in each class from July 1, 1901, to June 30, 1902, were:

Class A, books, pamphlets, leaflets, and periodical contributions.....	24,272
Class B, periodicals.....	21,071
Class C, musical compositions.....	19,706
Class D, dramatic compositions.....	1,448
Class E, maps or charts.....	1,708
Class F, engravings, cuts, or prints.....	5,999
Class G, chromos or lithographs.....	2,016
Class H, photographs.....	13,923
Class I, original works of art—paintings, drawings, and sculpture.....	2,841
Total.....	92,978

COPYRIGHT DEPOSITS.

The various articles deposited in compliance with the copyright law, which have been receipted for, stamped, credited, indexed and catalogued during the fiscal year amount to 169,726. This is a gain of 7443 over the previous fiscal year.

There has been a steady growth in the number of these deposits during the last five fiscal years, the total deposits being in each year, respectively, 112,805, 120,143, 141,444, 162,283 and 169,726. These deposits for the five years are classified as follows:

The whole collection of articles deposited to complete copyright up to October 1, 1902, and now in the possession of the Copyright Office, has been gone over and each article counted. The total number of articles is 1,052,906. This is, of course, exclusive of all articles which have been forwarded to the reading room or to any of the other divisions of the library. This grand total includes 114,264 uncredited articles in addition to such uncredited music as may be discovered when the collection of musical compositions, numbering 256,721 pieces, shall have been gone over.

The credited articles consist of the following productions:

COPYRIGHT CATALOGUE AND INDEX.

The titles filed for record are carefully indexed, each entry having a card under the name of the proprietor; and books, periodicals, dramatic compositions and maps have, in addition, title or author cards. These index cards number 139,782 for the fiscal year, of which number 6783 are cards for books proper made in the Catalogue Division of the Library of Congress. After having been first used as the copy for the Catalogue of Title Entries required to be printed weekly by act of Congress of March 3, 1891, (Fifty-first Congress, second session, chapter 565,) these cards become part of the permanent indexes of the Copyright Office. The articles deposited during the fiscal year were catalogued and the catalogue printed in four volumes, as follows:

	Pages.
Volume 28, third quarter, 1901, 13 numbers...	1,544
Volume 29, fourth quarter, 1901, 13 numbers...	1,597
Volume for first quarter, 1902, 13 numbers...	1,388
Volume for second quarter, 1902, 13 numbers...	1,653
Total.....	6,182

Sixty-one hundred and eighty-two pages of octavo print in all.

It is very desirable that all copyright registrations should be thoroughly indexed in order that the frequent inquiries received at the office relative to entries made, or supposed to have been made, can be fully and authoritatively answered. The current indexing is fairly complete, the index cards for the fiscal year numbering nearly 140,000, and this thorough indexing dates back to January 1, 1898. Entries from 1870 to 1897, however, numbering nearly one million, are not so adequately indexed, and it is a constant occurrence to receive inquiries as to entries made during this period, which cannot be authoritatively answered, because these entries are at present incompletely indexed. The still earlier entries, from 1790 to 1870, in the record books of the offices of the clerks of the district courts, have no general index, but only imperfect indexes for each volume. It would be a decided gain to the clients of the Copyright Office if all the entries made from 1790 to 1897, inclusive, could be indexed in the same complete and careful way in which the entries made since the latter date have been indexed, and I trust Congress will be willing to grant a sufficient force to enable the undertaking of this work.

COPYRIGHT OFFICE WORK.

The report of the current work makes a satisfactory showing, all remittances having been recorded and acknowledged to October 17, inclusive, the account books of the book-keeping section written up and posted to October 16 and accounts with Treasury Department settled to September 30, in short all business has been cleared up well towards the middle of October.

As an index to the enormous amount of detail work accomplished by the Copyright Office we quote the following note on copyright business prior to July 1, 1897:

Congress, in the appropriation act for the fiscal year, continued the special force of five persons, (three clerks, a porter and a messenger,) for work on the arrears of Copyright Office business prior to July 1, 1897. The examination and arrangement of the great mass of deposits (consisting of more than 1,000,000 articles) has been continued, and some 40,000 additional uncredited articles have been sifted out, increasing the uncredited articles to a total of 114,264. Of credited articles received prior to July 8, 1870, 3236 books have been shelved and 4454 pamphlets, 100 newspapers, 1073 photographs and 36 prints have been put up in packages. Of articles received between July 8, 1870, and July 1, 1897, and previously credited, 19,668 pamphlets, 5025 blank books, 16,873 prints and chromos, 1101 insurance and other maps, 1408 musical compositions, and 22,362 photographs (66,437 articles in all) have been arranged by year of entry, while the following (83,521 articles) have been arranged by year and copyright number: 48,790 books, 28,219 pamphlets and 6512 photographs. Of the credited dramas, 2202 have been enveloped, indorsed with statement of titles, dates of entry, and copyright numbers, and arranged alphabetically by title. Of the periodicals 27,315 numbers have been alphabetized and bundled and indexed upon 3283 cards, giving title, size and place of publication of each separate periodical.

Of uncredited matter the following have been segregated and placed in packages: 41,016 pamphlets, 825 maps, 613 musical compositions, 6584 engravings, 7079 photographs, and 13,700 newspapers, while 196 books were shelved and 221 dramas enveloped, indorsed and alphabetized—70,013 articles in all; 1398 photographs, 175 maps and charts and 235 engravings, (total, 1808 articles,) have been identified by comparison with records, indexed and credited. Summary: 290,610 articles arranged, 1808 articles credited, 3283 index cards made, 2423 dramas enveloped, indorsed and alphabetized.

COPYRIGHT LEGISLATION.

Regarding the need of further copyright legislation Mr. Solberg says: "In view of the many and diverse interests affected by such legislation, I suggested that it would seem more probable that these would receive the proportionate attention they require if the task of preparing a codified text of the copyright laws were intrusted by Congress to a commission adequately representing the different interests concerned. This recommendation, that a copyright commission be appointed, I beg to urge again upon your attention.

"Such a commission would be able to reconcile conflicting interests and also have the opportunity to formulate a text for a law more nearly on a par with the existing progressive copyright legislation of other countries. No attempt at a general revision of our copyright laws has been made since 1873, but between that date and the present time no less than twenty-nine foreign countries have codified their copyright laws: Austria, 1895; Belgium, 1886; Bolivia, 1870; Brazil, 1898; Canada, 1886; Colombia, 1886; Costa Rica, 1896; Ecuador, 1887; Finland, 1880; Germany, 1901; Guatemala, 1879; Haiti, 1885; Hungary, 1884; Italy, 1882; Japan, 1899; Luxembourg, 1898; Mexico, 1883; Monaco, 1889; New Zealand, 1896; Netherlands, 1881; Norway, 1893; Russia, 1887; Salvador, 1900; South African Republic, 1887; Spain, 1879; Sweden, 1897; Switzerland, 1883; Tunis, 1889, and Venezuela, 1894. On the part of many of these countries careful investigation has been made into the numerous questions involved, and during this period of nearly thirty years few subjects of legislation have received a greater amount of active and widespread attention. But in the two great English speaking countries this interest in copyright has had the least effective results. The legislation in both England and the United States has been but partial and admittedly inadequate.

Our law as it stands is not only inadequate by reason of being based on antiquated models and because its modification has not kept pace with the great material development of the last quarter of a century; but it is difficult of interpretation, application, and administration because of textual inconsistencies and contradictions. In justice to the interests of the literary and artistic producers of the United States, and also of foreign countries, the various copyright acts now in force should be welded into one consistent statute, simple in phraseology, broad and liberal in its principles, and framed to secure not only the fullest protection within our own widely extended territory, but the reciprocal international exchange of copyright privileges."

ENGLISH BOOK PRODUCTION IN 1902.

THE annual statistics of the activity of the English publishing trade during the past year, prepared by the London Publishers' Circular, shows that "the total number of books recorded in 1902 is slightly above that of 1900, nearly two hundred below 1899 and 1898, more than five hundred below 1897, just 800 above 1896, and a thousand above 1901; but about five hundred of that 1000 were 'Miscellaneous'—chiefly pamphlets at a few pence each—and about two hundred and fifty were sixpenny fiction. If up in number, the books of 1902 are down in value compared with those of 1901. The number under 'Miscellaneous' is almost the same as in 1898. In Fiction the number is almost the same as in 1898, slightly above 1900 and 1896, but below 1897 and 1899. In six other subjects the increase is not large; in the case of Theology it is partly due to the issue of pious pamphlets, and of sermons, and in that of Politics and Trade to publication of political skits and economical tracts. In History and Biography the numbers were almost the same in 1901 and 1902—531, 537; in Medicine precisely the same, 237, which is lower than in 1900. Law books and Educational publications in 1902 show a falling off, the number being lower than in either of the previous six years. In Travel it is almost the same as in 1896, 1897, 1899, 1901, 44 lower than in 1900. Belles Lettres show almost the same number as in 1897, much less than in 1900 and 1901. The number of Year Books is almost the same as in 1897 and 1900. In the Drama and Poetry the number is higher than in 1901, lower than in the five previous years."

THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY.

THE name of the Bowen-Merrill Company, of Indianapolis, Ind., was changed on the 22d of January to the Bobbs-Merrill Company, with William C. Bobbs, Charles W. Merrill and John J. Curtis as the Board of Directors of the concern, there being no change in the ownership, control or policy of the firm. The change in name simply brings into deserved prominence the name of one of the new men who has given this old firm its prestige as publishers.

The firm was originally organized as a bookselling concern under the style of Samuel Merrill & Co. The firm name since then has been changed a number of times, having been known as Bowen, Stewart & Co., Merrill, Meigs & Co., Merrill, Hubbard & Co., Merrill & Field, Merrill & Co., and, since 1885, The Bowen-Merrill Company, of which at the time it was reorganized S. T. Bowen was president; Charles D. Meigs, Jr., secretary; W. H. Elim, treasurer, and S. Merrill, superintendent. As the older officers retired or died, the younger men who are now in control were admitted to the firm. After Mr. Bowen's retirement from active business life an effort was made to persuade Mr. Bobbs to allow his name to take the place of Mr. Bowen's, but he refused. Another effort was made after Mr. Bowen's death, when the company bought out the interests of the heirs, but still Mr. Bobbs refused. Recently, however, he consented that the change should be made.

NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF ARTS AND LETTERS.

At the fourth annual meeting of the National Institute of Arts and Letters, held after the usual dinner, on the evening of January 21, William Dean Howells was re-elected president of the institute and Edmund Clarence Stedman, William M. Sloane, James Ford Rhodes, Bronson Howard, John La Farge and Augustus St. Gaudens were elected vice-presidents. James Breck Perkins was re-elected treasurer. Hamilton W. Mabie, having requested to be relieved from further service as secretary, Robert Underwood Johnson was elected to fill that position.

AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE following official communication has just been made public:

We beg leave to announce that at the annual meeting of the American Publishers' Association, held January 14th, 1903, the following amendments to the rules were adopted:

I. Article III. was amended as follows:

It is further Agreed by the Members of the Association that they will not themselves offer, nor sell their books to any one who offers, Protected books in combination with a periodical at less than the trade Subscription price of such periodicals plus the NET or Minimum Retail price of the book.

The above amendment was made in view of the many instances where periodicals have been offered in combination with a protected book at the cost of the book or but little more. This created considerable dissatisfaction, and we hope the trade will approve of the above amendment.

II. The following paragraph was added to the plan as Article XII.:

That in making sales and contracts of sales of their books involving future delivery members shall stipulate that such delivery is contingent on the observance by the purchaser of the rules of the Association.

The propriety of this rule is obvious, and its necessity has been made apparent by questions which have recently arisen.

III. The Rule known as Section III. of Article IV., requiring the addition of postage to the Minimum price of Fiction was repealed.

No doubt there are some members of the trade who will regret this action, but it was made necessary by advice of our counsel, who hold that we cannot legally enforce a rule which discriminates against one dealer in favor of another. It must be borne in mind, however, that the annulment of this rule does not permit a dealer to advertise or offer to send copyright works of fiction, (taking a $1.50 novel as an example,) at 95 cents, plus postage 13 cents. This is in violation of the letter and spirit of our plan, and will not be tolerated by the Association.

AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE AMERICAN BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION ON REMOVING JUVENILES FROM NET LIST.

THE following communication, issued from the office of the American Booksellers' Association, explains itself:

To the Members of the Advisory Board of the American Booksellers' Association:

GENTLEMEN: At the request of certain of our members, your Secretary has petitioned the Honorable Board of Directors of the American Publishers' Association to delay action upon the proposed resolution to remove juveniles from the net list and place them on the same list with protected fiction, until an expression on this matter can be received from our Advisory Board.

The following resolution has just been adopted by the Pittsburgh Booksellers' and Stationers' Association and forwarded to this office and filed by your Secretary, with the Publishers' Association:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of the Pittsburgh Booksellers' and Stationers' Association, that all juveniles published by members of the American Publishers' Association should remain at net prices as heretofore, and not be classified with fiction at (28 %) discount."

Will you be so good as to write us by return mail, advising us of your judgment and wishes with reference to this matter, to the end that a fair consensus of the opinion or wishes of the bookselling trade may be filed with the Honorable Board of Directors of the American Publishers' Association before they feel constrained to take final action in this matter.

By promptly complying with this request you will greatly serve our organization.

J. W. NICHOLS, Sec'y.

THE PITTSBURGH BOOKSELLERS' AND STATIONERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE gathering of the Pittsburgh Booksellers and Stationers at the Monongahela House, at Pittsburgh, Pa., on the evening of January 20, was the largest and most representative in the history of that association. Nearly every member was present, the notable exceptions being Charles H. Clough, the president, and H. Lee Mason, Sr., both absent on account of illness. Mr. H. Lee Mason, Jr., the first vice-president of the association, acted as chairman.

Among the speakers of the evening was Charles Walton, representing Charles Scribner's Sons, who bore a message of encouragement from the head of his house which was heartily applauded. Mr. Walton, speaking for himself, hoped that in time all books should be put on the net list, so that all who deal in books might reap an adequate return on their investment of money and work.

George A. Olney, of Edward Kimpton & Co., of New York, one of the oldest, both in years and point of service of the travelling men known to the local dealers, told of the thriving conditions of trade everywhere, and of the demand, on all sides, for "young men to bolster up the business."

Rev. Dr. Joseph Horner told of over thirty years in the business, and W. W. Waters, of the Presbyterian Book Store, upheld the honor of the bookselling profession and the good a conscientious salesman could do in the selling of books.

W. Lockwood, president of the Buffalo Stationers' Association, spoke of the possibility of a national organization, and praised the Pittsburgh association for the work it is doing.

Other speakers of the evening were L. E. Waterman, who happily responded to the toast of "The Ladies;" J. F. VanSaum, John Epping, G. E. Alexander, T. McK. Reed, U. H. Myers and H. F. Davis.

Throughout the evening a strong feeling was evinced in favor of the net price system, and every mention of the reform movement was received with ringing applause. After a long discussion of the proposed resolution to put juveniles on the same basis as fiction, the following resolution was passed by a unanimous vote:

Resolved, "That it is the sense of the Pittsburgh Booksellers' and Stationers' Association that all juveniles published by the American Publishers' Association should remain on the net list as heretofore, and not be classified with Fiction at (28%) discount."

OBITUARY NOTES.

WILHELM JORDAN, the so-called "rhapsodist," a well-known German poet, died at Baden-Baden, January 27. He was born at Intersburg, Prussia, February 8, 1819. He participated in the revolutionary movement of 1848, and was a member of the National Assembly at Frankfort-on-the-Main. Later he broke with the Radicals and was attached to the Imperial Ministry. He wrote about thirty volumes, among them a history of Haiti, and renderings of the Niebelung Saga. About thirty years ago he visited the United States, and gave readings from his reconstruction of the Niebelungen Lied in a number of the larger cities.

ISAAC GEORGE REED died in the Manhattan State Hospital for the Insane, at Ward's Island, New York, January 22. Mr. Reed was born in Philadelphia in 1836, and was the grandson of the man who invented the nib now used on gold pens and for whom Reed Street in Philadelphia is named. He first studied for the ministry, then he studied law and finally adopted literature as his profession. In 1897 he collapsed and since then had been in several sanitariums, sometimes being discharged as cured only to have a relapse of mental trouble. Most of Mr. Reed's work was for New York newspapers, but among his individual published efforts are "Head and Heart Fruit" and "Ode to a Dying Wife," poems, and "The Divine Tramp," "Erring Yet Noble," "From Heaven to New York," "America by an American," "Monogamy and Polygamy," "The Conflict That Came," and "The Queen of New York."

PERTH AMBOY, N. J.—J. Rabinowitz is offering 40 per cent.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

METHUEN & Co., London announce a facsimile reprint of the first, second, third and fourth folio editions of Shakespeare's works.

A WRITER in the New York Tribune points out the remarkably close resemblance between the career of Mrs. Ward's "Lady Rose's Daughter" and that of Mlle. Julie de Lesperpasse.

THE DODGE PUBLISHING COMPANY, New York, announce new paper editions of Elizabeth Strong Worthington's books "How to Cook Husbands" and "The Gentle Art of Cooking Wives."

COLONEL W. E. MICKLE, a well-known dealer in old and out-of-the-way books in Mobile, Ala., has been elected Adjutant-General and Chief of Staff of the United Confederate Veterans.

LEMCKE & BUECHNER, New York, will bring out in April a monograph on Leonardo da Vinci in the Monographs on Artists. The volume forms No. 7 of the series and contains 128 illustrations.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have in preparation "The Log of a Cowboy," a story by Andy Adams, who is well known to all those writers of cowboy books who have taken the trouble to visit the cowboy country.

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & COMPANY are about to publish a new book by Miss M. Imlay Taylor, entitled "The Rebellion of the Princess." It is in her characteristic vein, and deals with adventures in the Russian court at St. Petersburg.

THE remaining copies of A. E. Gallatin's "Aubrey Beardsley as a Designer of Book Plates" have been transferred to the Tonnelé Company, 30 and 32 East Twenty-first Street, New York. In England the book is published by Elkin Mathews.

THE MODERN MEXICO PUBLISHING COMPANY, New York City, has just published a new and revised edition of "The Standard Guide to the City of Mexico and Vicinity," by Robert S. Barrett. This is the third edition of the book in three years.

H. HUNTER ROBINSON, who was for seventeen years with Sampson Low, Marston & Co., Ltd., subsequently having charge of John Lane's branch in New York City, where he made many warm friends, has been appointed manager of the London branch of T. C. & E. C. Jack, the well-known Edinburgh publishers, at 34 Henrietta Street, Covent Garden, W. C.

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY will publish on February 28 a novel of California life during the days of the anti-Chinese labor agitation, entitled "The Socialist and the Prince," by Mrs. Fremont Older. The leader of the workmen, one of the principal characters in the book, and his political actions, were suggested by the character and career of Dennis Kearney, the sand lot agitator.

WILLIAM S. LORD, Evanston, Ill., will publish in March a volume of essays by Celia Parker Woolley, entitled "The Western Slope." "The Western Slope" is a phrase which designates the afternoon period of life, that of a maturer judgment and reflection, of enlarged sympathies and softened beliefs. Under this caption the writer reviews the general progress of ideas in matters of education, religion and social activity.

HARPER & BROTHERS' first publishing day for 1903 will fall on February 6. On that date they will publish the following books: "The Pride of Tellfair," a novel of middle Western life, by Elmore Elliott Peake, author of "The Darlings," a new edition, completely revised, of John Bigelow's psychological work, "The Mystery of Sleep," and a new juvenile story by Charles Edward Rich, entitled "The New Boy at Dale."

HENRY HOLT & Co. have in press for immediate publication a handbook on "Money and Banking," by Professor William A. Scott, of the University of Wisconsin. While intended primarily for educational use, it will be serviceable also to the busy general reader who wishes a clear statement in compendious form of the first principles of modern currency. The author aims at absolute fairness in his discussion of the vexed questions connected with the subject.

B. T. BATSFORD, 94 High Holborn, London, have in preparation a catalogue of a very important exhibition of old silver work, recently held at St. James's Court, London. The catalogue will have historical and descriptive notes and an introductory essay dealing with the history of the silversmith's art, the character of the objects illustrated, etc., by J. Starkie Gardner. Samuel Buckley & Co., 100 William Street, New York, are the agents for the work in this country.

JAMES H. WEST CO. 79 Milk Street, Boston, Mass., will publish next week a novel entitled "Loyal Traitors, a Story of Friendship for the Filipinos," by Raymond L. Bridgman, author of "The Master Idea," etc. Throughout the story "the eternal rightfulness" of the Filipino cause is affirmed, and the author shows "every specious plea commonly urged for the course of the American administration to be untenable in the presence of true American principles, whose ultimate triumph is foreshadowed in the prophecy of freedom for the Philippines."

D. APPLETON & Co. have in press in their Literature of the World Series a "History of American Literature," by Professor William

P. Trent, who divides his subject into four main parts: "The Colonial Period" (1607-1764), "The Revolutionary Period" (1765-1788), "The Formative Period" (1789-1829), and "The Sectional Period" (1830-1865). A brief "Conclusion" sketches the conditions of literature from the close of the Civil War to the present day, but as the work aims at historical impartiality the author does not criticise living authors.

TENNANT & WARD, New York, have acquired the selling agency for America of The Cloister Library, now being issued by J. M. Dent & Co., London. This series comprises selected works by modern and mediæval thinkers, for meditative reading, and is under the general editorship of A. R. Waller. The three volumes thus far published are Sir Arthur Helps' "Thoughts in the Cloister and the Crowd, and Companions of My Solitude," Saint Teresa's "The Way of Perfection," and George Herbert's "The Temple, and a Priest to the Temple."

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have in preparation a novel of American life in the West entitled "Barbara, a Woman of the West," by John H. Whitson, a new "Hoosier" writer, who has been for years a travelling newspaper correspondent; "The Siege of Youth," a story of the present day, by Frances Charles, the young San Francisco author, whose "In the Country God Forgot" was favorably received a year ago; also, a new story by Anna Chapin Ray, entitled "The Dominant Strain," the central idea of which is the mistake a woman makes who attempts to reform a man after marriage.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY will bring out at once an art book entitled "Pictorial Composition and the Critical Judgment of Pictures," by H. R. Poore, whose experience as an artist and instructor of art students fits him admirably for the production of such a work. They have in preparation a book entitled "With the Trees," "untechnical studies for unlearned lovers of nature," by Maud Going, author of "With the Wild Flowers," etc.; also, "My Woodland Inmates," a new animal book by Mrs. Effie Bignell, author of "The Life Story of Two Robins," etc., with decorations by George M. Hood.

LEE & SHEPARD have in preparation a story of the American invasion of the Philippines, entitled "A Blow from Behind," by F. C. Chamberlain, who claims that the worst enemy of the American soldier is not the Filipino, but his countryman who strikes him from behind. They also announce "Social Evolution or Regeneration," by R. C. Douglas; a "Life of Elijah Kellogg," written by a number of his friends, and edited by Professor W. L. Mitchell, of Bowdoin College; also, "The Young Explorers of the Isthmus," by Mr. Stratemeyer, a new volume in the Pan-American Series.

SAMUEL W. GREEN, one of the ablest defenders of the second-class mail matter privileges in this country, has just issued an "Open Letter to Congress," in which he claims to demonstrate that "the second-class matter forced from the mails by the Postoffice Department, on which the Third Assistant claims to have increased third-class matter $12,000, has really cost the department more than $10,000,000." The document is interesting reading, and is commended to the attention of all who publish second-class matter. It may be obtained gratis of the author at 326 Pearl Street, New York City.

THE Paris tribunal has just rendered judgment in the suit brought by the publishers of the French magazine, Le Théâtre, against The Theatre, of New York. The result is a victory for the American publication, its French contemporary having failed to obtain satisfaction on any one of the charges contained in the complaint. This suit is curious in the history of the publishing business in the sense that it was an attempt by a foreign firm to prevent an American firm not only from selling its products in France, but with the ulterior object of preventing it from carrying on its business in the United States.

SINCE the death of Charlotte M. Yonge, two years ago, there has developed a steadily increasing demand for her stories, so the publishers report. Whether it is because of a turning from the problem novel and the superstrenuous historical story to the quieter style of our older writers, or whether it is due to renewed interest in an old favorite now gone it is difficult to say; but the fact is that such stories as "The Cunning Woman's Grandson," "Founded on Paper," "The Patriots of Palestine," "The Herd Boy and His Hermit" and "The Making of a Missionary" are selling better now than they did during the several years just preceding her death.

HERBERT B. TURNER & Co., Boston, have just issued a work entitled "Greek and Roman Stoicism and Some of its Disciples," by Dr. Charles H. Stanley Davis, well known to Egyptologists as the editor of Biblia, the official organ of the Egypt and Palestine Exploration Funds, as translator of the "Egyptian Book of the Dead," published by the Putnams some years ago, and author of "A History of Egypt." For several years he has given his spare time to a translation of the Koran from the Arabic, with a commentary drawn from Arabic sources. His new work is a comprehensive survey of the birth and rise of Greek philosophy, its culmination in Stoicism, and the influence of Stoicism upon Christianity.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & Co. will publish shortly a novel of English middle-class rural life, entitled "From a Thatched Cottage," by Eleanor G. Hayden, author of "Travels Round Our Village." They have in preparation an edition of Shakespeare's works to be entitled the First Folio edition, prepared by Charlotte Porter and Helen A. Clarke, the well-known editors of the Camberwell edition of Browning. This edition goes back to, and reproduces, the famous First Folio text of 1623, the one which gives Shakespeare in the original spelling and punctuation. The text is thus freed from the editorial changes of three centuries, which, however, are indicated by abundant notes. The type is modern and is set by De Vinne.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY publish this week the concluding volume of "Stanford's Compendium of Geography and Travel," by G. G. Chisholm, which is devoted to the northwestern part of Europe. The price of this work will hereafter be increased to $5.50 net the volume. They have also just ready the fifth edition of "An Introduction to the Study of Metallurgy," by Sir W. C. Roberts-Austen; the third edition of "Valves and Valve-Gearing," enlarged and revised by George H. Hurst; a "Key" to "Lippincott's Elementary Algebra," by J. Morgan Rawlins; the fourth volume of "International Clinics," the twelfth series; and the third edition of Dr. A. Jacobi's "Therapeutics—Infancy and Childhood." They have in preparation a story by a new writer—Mrs. M. S. Clarke Pelton, who resides near Asheville, N. C. The scene of the story, which will be entitled "A Tar Heel Baron," is laid in North Carolina. The hero is a German gentleman who comes as a stranger into the little settlement.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish shortly a new nature book by Miss Harriet L. Keeler, to be entitled "Our Northern Shrubs and How to Identify Them." This volume will be a companion to the author's "Our Native Trees," and will be of especial help to the amateur and lover of nature who wish to know how to select and arrange shrubs for their home grounds. The volume contains descriptions of 175 native and about 40 naturalized shrubs. There are many photographic plates. At the end of the volume will be glossaries, lists of genera and species, a guide to shrubs, and indices. Mr. Hornung's new novel, "No Hero," will be brought out in March. The scene of the story is laid in Switzerland. The central character is a young Eton boy who has fallen in love with a woman who appears to be an adventuress. The story is told in the words of a friend of the boy's mother, who undertakes to disillusionize him. The gossipy atmosphere of a Swiss hotel furnishes the background.

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SON will publish on February 2 a new edition of "The Expositor's Bible," complete in twenty-five volumes, from the same plates as their forty-nine-volume edition, but sold only in complete sets, and at the extremely low price of $15. The edition is printed on fine laid paper and substantially bound in cloth. Other announcements for next month are a new volume by the author of "Apostolic Optimism," Rev. J. H. Jowett, entitled "Thirsting for the Springs," uniform with "Brooks by the Traveler's Way," prepared by Professor A. T. Robertson, D.D., of Louisville, Ky.; a new, seventh, edition of the late Dr. Broadus's "A Harmony of the Gospels," with new helps for historical study, map of Palestine, comprehensive index and many new features; also, two important theological works—"The Church and the Ministry in the Early Centuries," by Thomas M. Lindsay, D.D., principal of Glasgow College, being the eighteenth series of the Cunningham lectures, one volume; "Biblical and Literary Essays," by the late Professor A. B. Davidson, D.D.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

☞ Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

☞ It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales in any unknown parties.

Harper's February Books

IN THE GARDEN OF CHARITY BY BASIL KING

Author of "Let Not Man Put Asunder"

Entirely different from this author's former success. It deals with the people of the rugged Nova Scotian coast. That very ruggedness has developed the character traits of the people portrayed in the novel. Charity Pennland, her soldier-husband, his mock-marriage wife—a charming half-Greek—are the leading figures in the story.

$1.50

THE PRIDE OF TELLFAIR BY ELMORE ELLIOTT PEAKE

Author of "The Darlings"

A story of northern Illinois. Love, law, politics and gossip of a country town form the framework of a strong love story of a clever young Western lawyer, who manages his love affairs with the same astuteness and ability which he has carried into his profession.

$1.50

SIX TREES

By MARY E. WILKINS FREEMAN

Author of "The Portion of Labor," etc.

In these sketches Mrs. Wilkins Freeman blends the associations of the New England trees with the life of the people depicted, showing how intimately one is bound up with the other. Reverting, as they do, to the scenes of the author's earlier work, these stories are certain of the popularity which was accorded "A New England Nun" and "A Humble Romance."

Illustrated by Broughton. $1.25

THE MYSTERY OF SLEEP BY JOHN BIGELOW

Author of "Life of Tilden," etc.

Mr. Bigelow's argument in this interesting volume is that sleep is not merely a restoration of wasted physical energies, but a period in which, and the agency through which, man's nobler self is made receptive for the flow of divine life into the spirit.

New Enlarged Edition

THE NEW BOY AT DALE BY CHARLES EDWARD RICH

A book of rare interest for boys and girls. The story is of a boy stolen from his home when very young, his escape from his captor, life in a circus, rescue of a little girl, and his coming to Dale school. His school life is filled with exciting adventures. The book is one which should rank with the stories of Kirk Munroe and James Otis.

Illustrated by Florence Scovel Shinn

$1.25 (Net)

Harper & Brothers, 4 Franklin Square, New York

Henry Holt & Co.'s

BORROWED PLUMES.

By OWEN SEAMAN. 2d Impression.....$1 25

The best parodies since Calverley.

"Capital fooling . . . remarkably clever."—New York Times' Saturday Review.

THE LIGHTNING CONDUCTOR.

Edited by C. N. and A. M. WILLIAMSON. 2d Impression.....$1 50

The Strange Adventures of a Motor Car.

"A novel novel that is an all-around good one—healthy, humorous, clever, simple, and attractive in all its phases."—Brooklyn Eagle.

LORD LEONARD, THE LUCKLESS.

By W. E. NORRIS.....$1 50

In this new novel Mr. Norris returns to the manner of his first successes, "Matrimony" and "No New Thing." The book is in a more serious vein, and impressively tells a story that a less able writer would have been liable to make sensational. Some of the episodes are decidedly tragic, but Mr. Norris's humor does not desert him, and is used in effective contrast.

A SUMMER IN NEW YORK.

By EDWARD W. TOWNSEND. (February.)

With chapter heads and a tail piece by HARRY EDWARDS.

A love story told in letters by the author of "Chimmie Fadden."

The experiences of Alice Wonderley of Ironville at her aunt's. The aunt, who is a bit of a social leader, tries New York in midsummer for variety's sake with several others of her set. The story takes the reader, among other places, to a well-known Hungarian café, Claremont, a roof garden, the Metropolitan Club, the Waldorf, Long Acre Square, the Sheepshead Bay Races, etc.

TIOBA

And Other Tales. By ARTHUR W. COLTON. With a frontispiece by A. B. FROST. (February.)

Mr. Colton is already favorably known for "Delectable Mountains" and "Debatable Land," and his work in The Atlantic, The Century, and elsewhere. This new book is said to contain considerable humor and to present a highly diversified gallery of Americans. Tioba is a mountain, which, paradoxical as it may seem, takes an active part in the opening story.

THE REGENCY OF MARIE DE MEDICI

By ARTHUR P. LORD. With portraits from old paintings. (February.)

MONEY AND BANKING

By Prof. WM. A. SCOTT. (January.)

"THE Master of Warlock," Mr. Eggleston's third story in a group, of which his recent very successful "Dorothy South" is the second, deals with the early stages of the Civil War as witnessed from the Southern point of view, and yet without a touch of sectionalism, and thus carries on his delightful and authoritative studies of American conditions in the South. "The Master of Warlock" has an interesting and increasingly strong plot, and is full of purity of sentiment, charm of atmosphere, and stirring doings. One of the typical family feuds of Virginia separates the lovers at first; but, when the hero goes to the war, the heroine undergoes many hardships and adventures to serve him, and nurses him back from death, and they are happily united in the end.

IN this novel Mr. Churchill Williams seems to have repeated his success with his story of city politics, 'J. Devlin — Boss.' The present story is an able romance dealing with life on the eve of the Civil War and during it. Most of the people come from south of Mason-Dixon's line, and we see the struggle from their standpoint and sympathize with their difficulties in taking sides for or against the Union. The great figure of the Captain, who will be at once recognized as General Grant, dominates the whole story, and offers the most striking portrait of that unique figure yet to be found in American fiction."

THE YELLOW VIOLIN. By MARY A. DENISON. How a little girl who sold papers in the city found a home in the country.

THE MOTHER GOOSE PAINT BOOK

By J. M. BARNETT. The greatest novelty of the season. Attached to the cover of this book is a box of paints and brush, all ready for the children to paint the clear, outline pictures which illustrate the Mother Goose rhymes, these old favorites being printed on page opposite the sketch. $1.25

BILLY WHISKERS.

By FRANCES T. MONTGOMERY. A book of fun for the little ones, telling of the comical experiences of a pet goat. Six handsome colored plates, fancy cover in bright colors. $1.00.

ANIMAL LIFE IN RHYMES AND JINGLES

By ELIZABETH MAY. Pictures of various animals in original surroundings, many full-page, each one described in rhymes, telling where they live, how they defend themselves about their habits, homes, where they may be found, how captured, etc.

Handsome colored cover. 4to, $1.25.

A REDMAN OF QUALITY

By EDWARD EVERETT BILLINGS. A story of a little company who started out to locate a sapphire field in the Rockies; become acquainted with "A Redman of Quality," and through his knowledge of Indian warfare, escape from hostile Indians. Cloth, $1.25.

THE LITTLE WOMAN IN THE SPOUT

By MARY AGNES BYRNE. A charming story for girls, describing the trials and joys of three little schoolmates—the Little Woman in the Spout being a creature of childish imagination. Cloth, 60 cents.

IN A CAR OF GOLD

By P. L. GRAY. A book which will be a rival to "Alice in Wonderland." A mysterious trip which two little maidens took to Mars in a Car of Gold. Illustrated by Bernard Gutman. Cloth, $1.00.

ROY AND ROSYROCKS

By MARY AGNES BYRNE. A fine Christmas story of two orphans who were adopted by a poor Irish woman. They attempt to decorate the humble home and wander away into the city in search of Christmas greens. Cloth, 60 cents.

"Every chapter is worth reading on account of its scientific value and rare humor."

New York Times :

"Throughout the volume there are amusing stories, all told with exceeding cleverness. We give the author credit of being a true humorist. Although you may laugh, the lesson of life is taught. The book has scientific and literary merit."

Boston Ideas :

"Sparkling and entertaining throughout."

Chicago Journal :

"Mr. Sutherland is a pleasant surprise. His book on bugs is a refreshing oasis in that vast desert of writings which has to do with science and stubborn facts."

New York Sun :

"Knowledge is so rarely imparted in so pleasant a form as in Harvey Sutherland's 'Book of Bugs.'"

THE BOOK OF BUGS. By Harvey Sutherland.

With numerous illustrations by Frank Verbeck and other artists. It gives interesting accounts of all kinds of bugs, both domestic and foreign ; but the larger portion of the work deals with those creatures familiar to all. There are chapters on flies, mosquitoes, fleas, the busy bee, the ingenious spider, foes of clothes and carpets, the aristocrats of the kitchen, and many others, all told in a style full of rare wit and humor, and still teeming with valuable information. Mr. Sutherland, who is fully as much of a scientist as a humorist, tells of how these creatures build their homes, prey upon their neighbors, have mimic battles, go courting in their most shining colors, make slaves of other insects, and do a hundred and one other things of which the average person knows but little. The volume contains forty-two scientific illustrations of bugs. It will make a welcome addition to any library.

Important New Medical Books.

WM. WOOD & CO. - NEW YORK.

The Practitioner's Manual

A condensed system of Medical Diagnosis and Treatment. By Charles Warrenne Allen, M.D., Consulting Genito-urinary Surgeon to the City (Charity) Hospital. SECOND EDITION. This may be considered a concise treatise on the differentiation of disease, supplemented by the author with a condensed presentation of the writings and teachings of many eminent authorities, and the newer plans of treatment. Formulas are abundant throughout. One volume of 855 pages, octavo. Muslin, $6.00 net; half morocco, $7.00 net.

A Manual of Surgery

By Wm. Rose, M.B., B.S., F.R.C.S., London, and Albert Carless, M.S., F.R.C.S., London. FIFTH EDITION. Five editions, in as many years, speak more loudly in praise of a work than anything else can. The book is a thorough and practical surgery—at the same time being the smallest complete one published. Octavo, 1227 pages, illustrated by 430 engravings and 29 full-page plates. Price, muslin, $5.00; brown sheep, $5.75.

Theory and Practice of Infant Feeding

With Notes on Development By Henry Dwight Chapin, A.M., M.D., Professor of Diseases of Children at the New York Post-Graduate Medical School and Hospital, etc., etc. This book is essentially original in its scope, and practical in its treatment of the subject. It contains a large amount of general useful information which will be of interest to physicians, nurses, sanitarians, health officers and progressive milk dealers. One volume, octavo, 328 pages, including a full index; illustrated by numerous cuts, charts and half-tone engravings. Muslin, $2.25 net.

Food and the Principles of Dietetics

By Robert Hutchison, M.D., Edin., M.B.O.P., Assistant Physician to the London Hospital, and to the Hospital for Sick Children. Since its publication in December, 1900, HUTCHISON'S DIETETICS has supplanted in general favor all other works on the subject. The book is full octavo in size, containing 566 pages, illustrated by three colored plates and many wood engravings. Price, muslin binding, $3.00 net.

An Introduction to Dermatology

By Norman Walker, M.D., Assistant Physician for Diseases of the Skin to the Royal Edinburgh Infirmary, etc. Diagnosis and therapeutics, the essential points, are treated with exceptional ability and clearness. The colored plates are of unusual beauty and merit. True to life, and much more numerous than in any other text-book on the skin, they add immensely to the value and interest of the work. One volume, octavo, 263 pages, with a frontispiece, 29 plates, mostly chromo-lithographs, and 34 illustrations in the text. Bound in muslin, $3.00 net.

The Surgery of the Rectum

By Charles B. Kelsey, A.M., M.D., Late Professor of Pelvic and Abdominal Surgery at the New York Post-Graduate Hospital, etc., etc. SIXTH EDITION. In the sixth edition of this well-known work the author presents the experience of twenty-five years' practice of this important specialty. Some surgery of other pelvic and abdominal organs is necessarily included, as operations upon the rectum frequently involve them. The book has been entirely rewritten, and represents the latest developments of rectal surgery and treatment. While the book contains all recent scientific advances, as well as the writer's personal experience, the aim has been to leave out all matter not of practical value, to condense as far as possible, and to produce a concise work adapted to the wants of those who desire to treat intelligently all rectal affections, no matter what their complications may be. Octavo, 411 pages; illustrated by 215 engravings; muslin, $3.00 net.

Röntgen Rays in Medical Work

By David Walsh, M.D., Edin., Physician Western Skin Hospital, London. Late Hon. Sec. Röntgen Society, London. THIRD EDITION. In this little volume the aim has been to deal with the present practical scope of the Röntgen Rays, so far as physicians and surgeons are concerned. In the third edition the subject in all its branches, mechanical, medical and surgical, has been brought up to date. Octavo, 330 pages, illustrated by 32 plates and 79 engravings. Price, muslin, $2.50 net.

ANÆMIA and Some of the Diseases of the Blood-forming Organs and Ductless Glands.

By Byron Bramwell, M.D., Edinburgh. This is a most interesting and practical work from the hand of an acknowledged master of the subject. One volume of 450 pages, 8vo, extra muslin, $3.00 net.

Manual of the Diseases of the Eye

For Students and General Practitioners. By Charles M. May, M.D., Chief of Clinic and Instructor in Ophthalmology, College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York. SECOND EDITION. Completely revised and enlarged, and new colored plates added. One volume, 12mo, 410 pages, illustrated by 36 colored figures, on full-page plates, and 275 original illustrations in the text. Extra muslin, price, $2.00 net.

An Index of Symptoms

As a Clue to Diagnosis. By Ralph Winington. Revised by Leftwich, M.D., Late Assistant Physician to the East London Children's Hospital. SECOND EDITION. The physician or surgeon will find the work to be of the greatest practical utility, as it gives all the symptoms of disease arranged as symptoms, with cross references to the diseases concerned, so that the diagnosis of a case is greatly facilitated. One volume, 12mo, of 282 pages, with frontispiece. Extra muslin, $2.00 net.

Kirke's Handbook of Physiology

Seventeenth American Edition. Revised by Wm. H. Rockwell, Jr., M.D., and Charles L. Dana, A.M., M.D., Professor of Diseases of the Nervous System, Cornell University Medical College, New York, etc. The principal changes in this edition have been made in the chapters relating to physiological chemistry—a branch which has seen important advances during the past two years. The chapter on the blood has also been revised. Octavo, 865 pages, with upwards of 500 illustrations, including many in colors. Price, muslin, $3.00 net; sheep, $3.75 net.

Death and Sudden Death By P. Brouardel, Paris. Translated by F. Lucas Bonham, M.D., B.S., and M.D., Adelaide. SECOND REVISED EDITION. This is a work of most uncommon interest and value—treating of the phenomena of death in its many aspects and the varied forms of sudden death. One volume of 343 pages, octavo. Price, muslin, $3.00 net.

Manual of Antenatal Pathology and Hygiene By J. W. Ballantyne, M.D., F.R.C.P.E., F.R.S. (Edin.). This volume is devoted to Fetal Physiology and Pathology, while Teratology and Morbid Heredity will be treated in a companion volume. The author has had unusual facilities for studying this subject, having personally examined three hundred specimens of fetal disease and deformity, embracing almost all the leading types of antenatal morbid states. Large octavo volume, printed upon coated paper, and superbly illustrated by 14 chromo lithographic plates, numerous fine half-tone and other illustrations in the text. Extra muslin, price, $5.00 net.

HERNIA Its Etiology, Symptoms and Treatment. By W. McAdam Eccles, M.S., F.R.C.S., London. Second Edition. All recent scientific advances are given, the author's wide experience is drawn upon, and a complete, clear and practical manual of treatment is presented. One volume, 8vo, 250 pages, illustrated by 118 engravings. Muslin, $2.50 net.

Clinical Lectures on Neurasthenia By Thomas D. Savill, M.D., London. Second Edition. The text of this edition has been amplified by the addition of fresh illustrative cases and treatment. One volume, 186 pages. Muslin, $1.50 net.

The Medical Record Visiting List for 1903

This standard article is offered not only in the regular style, at a moderate price, but also in sumptuous bindings suitable for gifts, or for the use of the most fastidious. 30 patients a week, $1.25; 60 patients a week, $1.50 net; circular of special lists sent on application.

Medical Student's Manual of Chemistry By R. A. Witthaus, A.M., M.D., Professor of Chemistry, Physics and Toxicology in Cornell University Medical College, New York. FIFTH EDITION. The work is divided into two parts. In the first part the principles of Chemical Science are treated of, as well as so much of Chemical Physics as is absolutely requisite to a proper understanding of that which follows. The second part treats of Special Chemistry. Unlike most textbooks on the subject, the elements are classed, not in metals and metalloids—a classification as arbitrary as unscientific—but in classes and groups according to their chemical characters. Octavo volume, 689 pages, illustrated. Muslin, $3.50 net.

THE ROBERT CLARKE CO.
CINCINNATI, O.

Colonel John Gunby of the Maryland Line. Being Some Account of His Contribution to American Liberty. By A. A. GUNBY. 12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Price, net, $1.00; delivered, $1.10.

The research devoted to this tactical subject is bound to attract all impartial students of military history.

The tenor and spirit of the book will be found most wholesome, broad and patriotic, and while depicting some of the most thrilling scenes of American history, it finds its best excuse for being written in the simple story of Freedom, which cannot be told too often nor dwelt on too long in these expanding times of our country.

The Cause of the Glacial Period. Being a Résumé and Discussion of the Current Theories to Account for the Phenomena of the Drift; with a New Theory by the Author. By H. L. TRUMB, M.D. 12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Price, net, $1.00; delivered, $1.12.

The Glacial Epoch remains the puzzle of the geologist; and so long as our knowledge of the causes that produced it continues so vague and unsatisfactory, any theory throwing new light on the subject should receive a candid investigation from scientists generally. Inasmuch as no satisfactory solution of the problem has, as yet, been furnished, the mystery surrounding the glacial period should insure a friendly attitude toward any publication purporting to give a further elucidation of the subject.

Shakespeare's Art, or, Studies on the Master Builder of Ideal Characters. By JAMES H. COTTER, A.M. 12mo. Cloth. Illustrated. Price, net, $1.00; delivered, $1.10.

Shakespeare's Art; or, Studies on the Master Builder of Ideal Characters, by James H. Cotter, A.M., is a valuable addition to Shakespearean literature. Its style is florid and its periods poetical, yet rich in depth of thought, as well as in wealth of imagery. The author proves himself to be keen of observation as well as a philosopher, and his deductions show him to be a deep student and an ardent admirer of the Bard of Avon.

Modern Horsemanship. An Original Method of Teaching the Art by Means of Pictures from Life. By EDWARD L. ANDERSON. Fifth Edition, Revised and Enlarged. 8vo. Cloth. Illustrated by 60 Fine Photographs. Price, net, $3.00.

"A master of his subject."—The Field, London.

The Memoirs and Writings of the Late Very Reverend James F. Callaghan, D.D. Compiled by His Sister, EMILY A. CALLAGHAN. 8vo. Cloth. Price, net, $2.00; delivered, $2.20.

The first part of the book contains the memoirs and letters from several prelates. The second part all the sermons and lectures that were found after his death. The third part contains the best articles written by him as editorials for the Catholic Telegraph. Among these are the articles on Papal Infallibility, Galileo, the answer to Ingersoll on the Bible, and the letters written from various parts of Europe, in 1880, whose graphic and beautiful descriptions of places and churches won the admiration of the readers of the Catholic Telegraph.

LOYAL TRAITORS

A Story of Friendship for the Filipinos

By RAYMOND L. BRIDGMAN

Author of "Ten Years of Massachusetts," "Biennial Elections," "The Master Idea," etc.

The story is one of quick and absorbing action from the first page to the last. If in its dramatic representations of deeds in the Philippines the story is, in a sense, a terrible story, it is terrible only as history is terrible;
it is terrible only as "A Tale of Two Cities" or "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is terrible. With both of these stories it will perhaps not fail to be classed. Cloth, handsome

1900-1902

THE ANNUAL AMERICAN CATALOGUE, Cumulated, 1900-1902, is now in preparation, and will include in one alphabet the short-title lists of the books of 1900, 1901 and 1902, giving information of the books recorded by author, title, subject and series. This cumulation is to continue annually until a five-yearly volume of "The American Catalogue" in its new shape is reached. This form of catalogue has been generally accepted as a desirable, practical working tool for the trade, supplementing as it will do, from year to year, the last issue of the five-yearly "American Catalogue," without the need of consulting several alphabets in several volumes.
